MISS LOUISIANA

Pretty Blonde Is Title Winner

By JOHN CALE
State Editor

LAKE PROVIDENCE — The selection of Miss Baton Rouge, pretty Judith Ann Coday, climaxed the third and final night of the 11th annual Miss Louisiana scholarship pageant here last night.

The green - eyed five-foot, six-inch blonde beauty swept a field of 24 contestants. Her statistics were 36-23-36.

MISS NORTHEAST

Judges chose Kirby Jane Mooney, brunette trumpet - playing beauty, Northeast Louisiana State College of Monroe, as first runnerup. Measuring five - feet, six - inches in height, Miss Mooney's measurements are 36-23-37.

For second runnerup, the panel of seven judges selected Miss LSU Centennial, Donna Ann Dantagnan, New Orleans beauty.

To serve as Miss Congeniality, the votes of the contestants themselves named Miss Linda Lou Kavanaugh of Clay.

Last night's competition climaxed a day of events held in this northeast Louisiana city in connection with the pageant sponsored by the Lake Providence chapter of the Jaycees.

The newly - chosen Miss Louisiana will compete with contestants representing all 50 states of the union in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City, N. J. next fall.

The pre - intermission portion of the competition was devoted to the naming of ten semi - finalists, from whom also the top winner in the talent division was chosen.

Judith Ann Coday, Miss Baton Rouge; Helen Elizabeth Gulley, Miss Holiday in Dixie; Vicki Raye Richardson, Miss Lincoln Parish; Mary Etta Mason, Miss Lvingston Parish; Patricia Anne Kavanaugh, Miss Louisiana Tech; Donna Ann Dantagnan, Miss LSU Centennial; Kirby Jane Mooney, Miss Northeast Louisiana State College; Juanita Donelson, Miss Shreveport; Sharon Rene Brown, Miss Stock Show, Bonnie Sue Hood, Miss Tangipahoa Parish.

The final day of the contest included a full day of activities in the Northeast Louisiana city, opening with a parade of bands at 10 a.m.

Events of the afternoon included motor boat racing on Lake Providence and other events honor-

The Flag Goes By

(Henry H. Bennett)

"Hats Off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!

Over the steel - tipped, ordered lines.
Hats off!
The colors before us fly.
But more than the flag is passing by:
Sea - fights and hand - fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and to save the state:
Weary marches and sinking ships,
Cheers of victory on dying lips,
Days of plenty and years of peace:
March of a strong land's swift increase:
Equal justice, right and law
Stately Honor and reverend awe:
Sign of a nation great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong:
Pride and glory and honor - all

The family of the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur D. Langston will honor them on the Fiftieth anniversary of their marriage today, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in the social center at the First Baptist Church.

Hunt Pushed For Missing U.S. Fliers

Planes, Ships Scour Area North Of Russia

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) —A far-ranging hunt over icy northern waters was under way Saturday for six American fliers missing north of the Soviet Union in a reconnaissance bomber. Searchers were aided by daylight around the clock from the midnight sun.

Two American and one Norwegian plane were in the air hours after the plane was reported missing. Between 20 and 25 planes were sent to Norway from as far south as the Azores to scour the Barents Sea. Ships also were on the lookout.

The six-engine jet plane last checked in by radio Friday. It was an RB47, a reconnaissance version of the B47 bomber. A Norwegian air force spokesman said it had given its position as about 275 miles north of the Soviet Union's Kola Peninsula and the same distance west of Novaya Zemlya Island, also Soviet territory.

INCIDENT

U. S. Air Force spokesmen in Wiesbaden, mindful of how the United States was caught with a false story of a weather mission in the U2 spy plane incident, were tight-lipped on the possibility of any misadventures to the RB47 at Soviet hands.

Officials in Washington said the plane was making a survey to provide information for more accurate maps.

A spokesman at U. S. Air Force European headquarters said the search was conducted north of Norway.

The Kola Peninsula borders on Norway north of the Arctic Circle. The area off the coast is a busy fishing ground, but the search area goes so far out that parts are normally desolate of shipping.

Search headquarters were established under the direction of the Norwegian air force at Bodo, near Norway's northern tip.

To help run the search, the U.S. rescue control center at Prestwick, Scotland, moved its headquarters to Bodo. A spokesman described it as a big operation.

Camille Gravel Arrested In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The chairman of the committee responsible for bringing the Democratic convention to Los Angeles was arrested Friday night when he stepped off an airplane after the pilot reported someone had stolen a box of pre-mixed martinis.

"I was not drunk in any way," said Camille F. Gravel, 45, national committeeman from Louisiana. "The whole situation is a mistake on the part of whoever charged me. This is most embarrassing and my attorney is handling it from here on."

Two police officers were waiting for Gravel when he stepped off an American Air Lines plane from Atlanta shortly before midnight. The pilot of the plane, Capt. Royal Penn, had radioed the Los Angeles tower two hours earlier.

REPORTS

Intelligence officer H. G. Wild of the police department said Gravel was "staggering and unable to care for himself" when he arrived.

4 Louisiana Youths Die In Accidents

Two Drown, Two Others Killed In Automobile Wreck

Drownings that took the lives of two Louisiana youths one from the northeast area, coupled with an auto crash that killed two more, struck an ominous chord Saturday as the festive Fourth of July eve neared.

An automobile went out of control and crashed into a tree near Pineville, killing Shirley Ann Prestridge, 18 - year - old secretary from Pineville, and her 7 - month - old niece, Pamela Joyce McKithern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKithern of Port Lavaca, Tex.

Area law enforcement agencies pulled out all the stops to avoid more fatalities during the long holiday weekend as motorists jammed the highways heading for swimming areas and picnic stops or to visit loved ones.

State police cancelled all leaves, Ouachita Sheriff's Department patrolled the waterways and two traffic control planes helped keep an eye on traffic.

West Carroll deputies said young Haynes was swimming with his mother and other children when he strayed into deep water and was caught by a current.

TEENAGER

A Louisiana teenager, Russell Howard, 19, Bossier City, drowned Saturday while swimming in an abandoned ore pit on the farm of his uncle, B. F. Davis of Stewart, Miss.

Two boys received minor injuries in a car - motor scooter collision at Delhi Saturday evening.

Ronnie Taylor of Delhi the scooter rider, and Johnny Tile of Grayton, Tex., driver of the car, were treated and released at a clinic there.

Illinois Plane Crash Reported

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI)—A two-engine C47 transport plane was reported to have crashed into Lake Michigan Saturday night when it flew into a violent electrical storm in central Waukegan.

Waukegan police said witnesses reported seeing the plane fly into the storm about two miles west of the lake.

They said it "went into a roll," attempted to turn out of it but was forced into the lake by high winds, heavy rains and lightning and then "disappeared."

Coast Guard authorities said rescue boats from Chicago, Wilmette, Ill., and Denosha, Wis., rushed to the spot where the plane was believed to have submerged.

Highway Accidents Climb As Nation Takes To Road

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Multiple-death accidents swelled the nation's traffic death toll Saturday night as the three-day Independence Day weekend headed for the halfway point.

The death count was running far ahead of figures for comparable periods in the recent three-day Memorial Day holiday and the last three-day July 4 weekend in 1958.

This year's count reached the 120 mark with one-third of the holiday period over. Last Memorial Day and in the 1958 Independence Day weekend, the toll still was in the 90s at that time.

Traffic	151
Boating	11
Drowning	27
Miscellaneous	19
Total	208

In Wisconsin, a man and his six children were killed when their car collided with a horse trailer that broke loose from another auto. In San Francisco, a truck-car accident took the lives of a father and four of his children.

The traffic toll far outweighed the combined toll of boating, drowning and miscellaneous accidents. There were no reports of the once-traditional Fourth of July fireworks fatalities which claimed many lives in the early days of the twentieth century.

WARNING

A National Safety Council spokesman observed, "The toll itself serves as a grim warning to every driver to slow down."

The council had estimated a toll of 370 deaths in traffic for the current holiday weekend that began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end midnight Monday.

The council also had figured that virtually all of the 73 million cars, trucks, and buses in the country would be in operation at one time or another during the Independence Day period.

Most areas had dry weather—the kind that favors speed over caution.

During the Memorial Day weekend, beside 367 traffic deaths, there were 48 fatalities in boating accidents, 77 drownings that didn't involve boats, and 67 in the miscellaneous class for an overall total of 579.

For the purpose of drawing comparisons, The Associated Press made a survey of accidental deaths during a three-day non-holiday weekend, the period from 6 p.m. Friday, June 17, to midnight Monday, June 20—a 78-hour time span, the same as for the current weekend.

Lives lost then included 348 in traffic, 25 in boating accidents, 81 drownings, and 66 from various other accidental causes for a total of 522.

The record traffic toll for a three-day celebration of Independence Day was set in 1955. It was 407.

Other Action Still Pends On Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to arm President Eisenhower with broad powers to cut 1960 sugar imports from Cuba won tentative Senate approval early Sunday by an overwhelming vote.

The bill gives the President discretionary power to reallocate to domestic and foreign producers l- mostly foreign — the unused balance of Cuba's 1960 quota or any part of it.

The vote was 50-7.

The vote was to accept a re- written version by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) of a bill passed by the House Thursday. House leaders had said they would accept this stripped-down Senate version, and the House was standing by impatiently to act on it and send it to the President.

Still pending, however, was a Senate vote on a substitute by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) to do nothing but give the President power to curb Cuban sugar imports while Congress is away the next five weeks.

The Senate had tried to get the House to take a separate resolution identical with the Morse proposal earlier in the day, but the other branch refused.

The Oregon senator's substitute eliminated any provisions as to how the reduction in Cuban quotas if made by the President, would be distributed among other producers.

The Senate agreed to limit debate on the Morse proposal to 2 minutes.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, had told the Senate he was authorized to say the White House has information "which we do not possess making it urgent that Congress act swiftly on Cuban sugar legislation.

He said Eisenhower "is quite insistent that he have a weapon to deal with the situation."

An impasse over the form the legislation should take had kep

HST Hurls Charge On Confab Fix

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI)—Former president Harry S. Truman, in a "give 'em hell" lecture to his own party, charged today that Sen. John F. Kennedy's backers have "fixed" the Democratic National Convention to guarantee him the presidential nomination.

Kennedy's convention headquarters in Los Angeles declined an immediate formal reply. But a spokesman said Kennedy would ask for equal time on the television networks (CBS and NBC) that carried the news conference in which Truman explained why he has quit as a Missouri delegate to the convention.

The 76-year-old former chief executive, in high good humor but armed to the teeth with political barbs, questioned whether Kennedy is "quite ready" for the White House. He reaffirmed his own choice of Sen. Stuart Symington, a fellow Missourian, as "an experienced and courageous liberal" best suited for the nomination.

NAMED

Truman also named nine other Democrats he considered "qualified to be president." This list, headed by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), did not include Kennedy. Neither did it include Adlai E. Stevenson, nominated for a second time in 1956 at a convention which Truman said was a "closed" one despite his warnings.

"Let us not make the same mistake twice in a row," the former president said.

Truman said he was not accusing Kennedy personally of block-

KHRUSHCHEV SAYS

Another Major War Unthinkable

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared Saturday night another major war is unthinkable because it would destroy a world made small and vulnerable by nuclear weapons and rockets.

In a speech before the Austro - Soviet Society, Khrushchev disavowed the Lenist theory that the triumph of communism could only be achieved through conflict with capitalism.

"We don't want to push solving the question of capitalism versus communism through a war because all would be lost," he said. "What would war mean at the present time now that we have atomic bombs and rockets?

DESTROYED

"Everything would be destroyed. The few people who would survive would vanish because of horrible radiation."

The Kremlin leader departed from his prepared text to say that another war would destroy the world.

In his speech he charged that American planes remain deployed and ready to resume spy missions over the Soviet Union despite the U2 incident.

The Kremlin leader congratulated Austria for following a neutral foreign policy and thereby keeping its towns and villages free from the "thundering noise of military planes." Austria would have been "in deadly danger," he said, if this country had allowed the United States to use Austrian territory for espionage flights.

The Austro-Soviet Society is a private body which includes Conservative Chancellor Julius Raab among its members. The meeting, in massive Hofburg Palace, climaxed the third day of Khrushchev's nine-day state visit.

Khrushchev's denunciation of American defense policies came while an Arctic search was in progress for a missing U.S. Air Force reconnaissance bomber. The plane, on a mission over northern Norway, last was heard from over the frigid Barents Sea about 275 miles north of the Soviet Union's

New Test Set At Ballot Box In Japan Today

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's conservative government sought additional support for its pro-Western policies Sunday in another test of popular feeling at the ballot box. Leftist demonstrations, meanwhile, seemed to be running out of steam.

The new contest against the left is Saitama Province, north of Tokyo. Voters there are electing a new governor, and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party hoped for a repeat of Friday's victory in Aomori Province, in northern Japan.

General expectation was that the incumbent conservative, Gov. Hiroshi Kurihara, would defeat candidates of the Socialist party and the small Democratic-Socialist party.

QUESTION

The important question was whether the Socialists would increase the vote they polled in the Letter Outlines Futile Attempt For Survival

KINGMAN, Ariz. (AP) — A cheerful letter by a Rialto, Calif. woman Saturday told of a futile attempt for survival in the scaring heat of the northern Arizona desert.

The body of Elinor Hughes, 52 a nursing supervisor, was found in the Mohave Mountains about 60 miles southwest of Kingman near the Arizona-California border.

A mounted posse and two planes searched for her husband, William, 67, but there was little hope he would be found alive. With the couple was their dog, Poppy.

EXCURSION

While on a cactus-hunting excursion, their car became stuck in a sandy wash far off the main road. On the car seat Deputy Bill Harris found a letter from Mrs Hughes to her daughter, Elizabeth R. Rpuerti, Alexandria, Calif.

Dated June 12, from "somewhere in Arizona-Colorado desert," it said:

"Hi, darling:

"If you get this don't worry. We are safely back in civilization, but if you don't get it you better worry because we are lost on the desert, stuck in a wash and the temperature is 115 to 120. It all started this way:

"We haven't been anywhere in over a month. The last two weeks have been especially wearying. Exams for Bill and me with my nose to the grindstone at the hospital—12-hour days, etc.

"So we promised ourselves a trip to the Bill Williams Rive

Good Holiday Weather Due

Clear to partly cloudy skies with hot temperatures make the weather picture look much the same as yesterday for the Monroe area today, reports the weatherman. High recorded yesterday was 94, and the low was 73.

A sunny Independence Day Eve is expected over most of the state with only a chance of a thundershower in the south portion. Temperatures will range from 70 to 94 degrees.

Probe Started On Plane Crash

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —An investigation into the crash of a light plane Friday which killed one person has been launched by the Federal Aviation Agency and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Investigators interviewed the injured pilot of the single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza, which plunged to earth about 8 a.m., during a rain-storm. They would not disclose what the pilot, Richard Prather, 25, of Baton Rouge, La., said.

The fatality was Carol Jesioski, 19, of Cranston, R. I. She suffered head injuries and died at a hospital.

The survivors, other than Prather, were Patrick W. Cook, 25, and his wife, Dorothy, 23, also of Baton Rouge, and formerly of Central Falls, R. I. The three were reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital Saturday.

The plane was demolished when it struck the top of an electric power pole in an open field, three miles east of Charlottesville on U.S. 250.

PENTAGON OUTLINES PLAN

Secrecy Lift Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Saturday night what it called another major step toward lifting secrecy labels from official documents.

The action, however, would appear to have more impact on history than on current events.

The new directive is aimed at arresting the accumulation of vast quantities—millions of cubic feet—of papers which continue to carry "secret" stamps through the years merely because nothing is done to remove outmoded secrecy requirements.

The order, signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense James H. Douglas, becomes effective Dec. 27.

Thereafter all documents except those exempted under the order will go through a gradual lowering of secrecy degrees until eventually, at the end of a 12-year period, they become completely declassified.

This downgrading is done at three-year intervals. A paper marked top secret would move down automatically to secret in the first three-year interval, then down to confidential and, 12 years after the start of the process, become unclassified.

Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the new order is a follow-up to the first effort to reduce the volume of secrecy-stamped material. The effort began in 1956. Since then about a dozen stacks of documents, each of which would be as high as the 555-foot Washington Monument, have gone through declassification action, Snyder said. This represented a 50-year accumulation.

The new order is to prevent any new massive accumulation by creating automatic declassification, Snyder said. He told newsmen that a substantial money saving would accrue through reducing the amount of safes and other security equipment needed.

The list of papers exempted from automatic declassification is more significant than the items included.

In the category for automatic declassification at the end of 12 years are such subjects as: research reports in personnel management; civil affairs documents involving displaced persons, commodities in occupied areas and administration in those areas; documents on World War II lend-lease programs; war diaries of military commands in the Korean War, action reports, aviation history; inventories of facilities owned, sponsored or leased by the military.

However, specifically exempted from the declassification process are subjects like these:

Documents concerning electronic countermeasures and counter-

Documents prepared by military commands which "concern or affect the formulation and conduct of U. S. foreign policy and plans or programs relating to international affairs."

Also not involved in the changes are secrecy techniques used which are not covered by actual security laws.

The Pentagon apparently intends to continue using its "official use only" stamp to keep some matters to itself, even though they may involve administrative procedure rather than real military security.

Snyder, when asked about this, said the official-use-only technique is needed in such cases as protection of plans for acquiring real estate, prior knowledge of which might result in price boosts or for preserving details of a man's personal records in the military service.

Novelist Dies At Age Of 70

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Fowler, famed newspaperman, screen writer and novelist, died Saturday. He was 70.

His personal physician, Dr. Frank Nolan, said Fowler suffered a heart attack at his West Los Angeles home and died minutes later.

Nolan said Fowler had been in good health for the past year.

Just before the seizure, Fowler told his wife, Agnes: "I have some pains in my chest—maybe indigestion or something."

Fowler had been away from home earlier in the day, visiting his sons Gene Jr. and Will.

Will was with him at his death.

"He was a great man," Dr. Nolan said. "This is a great loss."

Kola Peninsula. A Defense Department official in Washington said the plane was not engaged in a deliberate attempt to fly over Soviet territory since all such missions were halted after the U2 was downed in the Soviet Union May 1.

Khrushchev repeated his contention the U2 incident had made it impossible for him to negotiate with the Americans at the Paris summit conference in May since "the Soviet Union has never crawled before anybody, and it never intends to do so."

He maintained that a worldwide wave of anger had developed after the disclosure of American espionage methods and added: "The prestige of the United States has never dropped as low as it is now. Never before has Washington had to live through such humiliation and pay such a price for its unreasonable playing with fire."

The state treaty of 1955 which ended the four-power occupation of Austria also provided for the military neutrality of this central European country.

Congratulating the Austrians on their neutrality Khrushchev said: "Think of it: Austria, too, could have become a military base from which pirate planes could have undertaken their espionage flights. The Americans are holding such planes in readiness everywhere they have bases. And as a matter of course the Americans would have had such bases in Austria if their troops had remained here."

The 66-year-old Soviet leader said that "the attitude of Russia on the German question is as clear as the sun. We propose to conclude a treaty with both of the factually existing German states and in connection with this also to solve the question of West Berlin."

During the day Khrushchev went sight-seeing in a big private yellow and black bus equipped with a radio telephone connection with Moscow. The Viennese hardly noticed him.

ing an "open convention." He asserted that "over-zealous" backers of Kennedy were to blame. But he declined to name any of them, or to pin specific charges on Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler who already has denied "rigging" the convention.

Truman laughed and joshed his way through an eight-minute question and answer session for the 350 newsmen, photographers and invited guests jammed into the auditorium of the Truman Library here. He generally declined to amplify a 1000 - word prepared statement which he read at the outset of the news conference. He insisted it "speaks for itself."

But he showed customary pep-and-vinegar form when someone asked if there was any one thing that led him to withdraw as a delegate.

"Yes," Truman snapped. "I don't like a fixed convention."

Johnson, running second to Kennedy in convention delegate strength, said he appreciated Truman's "generous words" about his own qualifications and agreed that any effort to rig the convention would cause "bitter resentment."

Roger Tubby, once Truman's White House press secretary and now a Kennedy aide in Los Angeles, said Truman's remarks would have no effect on Kennedy's chances. John Bailey, Connecticut state Democratic chairman and a top Kennedy lieutenant called Truman's statement "the last gasp of the stop - Kennedy movement."

Lovebirds Fly To Alabama's Pickens County

CARROLLTON, Ala. (AP) — Lovebirds from Alabama who once flew over to Mississippi to get their wedding knots tied are now getting marriage licenses in west Alabama's Pickens County.

Columbus, Miss., was a favorite city for marriage for Alabamians before the Mississippi Legislature acted in 1956. The law now requires blood tests and a three-day waiting period for securing the licenses.

Mississippi couples who didn't want to wait three days began coming to Pickens County, Ala., after the Mississippi law went into effect, and Pickens County folks began to get their license at the county seat.

The marriage license business has been booming in the county since Probate Judge A. B. Harris took office in January of 1959.

Between then and the end of this month, Harris has issued 229 marriage licenses to white persons and 65 to Negroes. To show the tremendous boom in marriage licenses, only 295 were issued to white persons and 52 to Negro couples in Pickens in the 10-year period of 1948 to 1956.

The major difference in the Alabama and Mississippi marriage laws is the three-day waiting period for license in Mississippi. Both states require blood tests.

In addition to issuing the licenses, Harris performs many weddings. He has united as many as five couples in one day.

Numerous white couples come from West Point, Miss., and Columbus, Miss., to obtain licenses and get married.

ing been sent to the Capitol with word that the President would be "furious" if he were denied power to deal with Castro.

Majorities in the House and Senate were agreed on the principle that Eisenhower should be given discretion to reduce the amount of sugar Cuba sells in this country at preferential rates. But there was wide disagreement on the length of time for which this authority should be granted and other details of the legislation.

The House has unanimously passed a bill extending the quota system through 1961, but making the actual extension of the quota to Cuba discretionary with the President. The legislation also spelled out how any amounts subtracted from the Cuban quota should be shared among domestic and other foreign producers.

But the Senate, instead of accepting or amending this bill, passed Saturday a different one of its own, giving the President quota-fixing powers only for the rest of this year.

Ike Golfs, Unmindful Of Tourists

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower played golf in bright sunshine Saturday as he enjoyed a leisurely Fourth of July weekend unmindful of the tourist multitudes pouring into this center of Civil War history.

The town of Gettysburg planned several days of historic meetings and parades marking the 97th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, but the Chief Executive planned to stay clear of the crowds.

After golf at the Gettysburg Country Club during the morning, the President had lunch at his farm and later, planned to look over his herd of Black Angus cattle. There was also the prospect of a bridge game.

Robinson and Arthur Nevins, a retired army general who supervises operation of the Eisenhower farm, accompanied the President on the golf course early this morning.

After a warm-up session on the practice tee, they began playing in a foursome with Dick Sleicher, the club pro. The President hit a particularly long and straight drive on the first hole for better than 200 yards and was eminently satisfied by not having to take a complimentary second shot permitted in some golfing circles.

"I'll settle for that one and save my strength," the President said.

New Test Set At Ballot Box In Japan Today

1956 election. This would help indicate whether the Socialists have been successful in picking up support from a generally apathetic public in their noisy campaign against Japan's new security treaty with the United States.

Despite the Socialist defeat in Aomori, the final official count showed the party drew 45,000 more votes than it ever has polled there. And Aomori is known as one of Japan's most conservative districts.

Even the Socialists concede their party cannot win a majority in the Diet when Japan next has national parliamentary elections. But they are hoping to increase their representation and use it as a talking point for modifying or even abrogating the treaty. The nationwide ballot is expected in the fall.

The Saitama race gathered added interest from the fact that important U. S. military installations are located in the district. They are Johnson Air Force Base, the Tokorazawa Logistics Command, and Camp Drake, once a major reception and staging center for U. S. troops in the Korean War.

Generally orderly and comparatively small left-wing demonstrations Saturday were a far cry from the howling crowds which turned out last month to protest the new treaty and Kishi's government.

With the new treaty in effect since June 23, emphasis was placed on denouncing Kishi's government in anticipation of the national elections.

The National Antitreaty Council had predicted some two million would participate throughout the country. But national police put the actual total at 166,000, scattered at 205 places.

In Tokyo, the council had called out 200,000. Only 45,000 turned up, mostly union members affiliated with the giant leftwing Sohyo labor federation. There were a few hundred college students from Zengakuren, the radical Marxist student group. Most other students were tied up with final exams.

There were a few minor outbursts not directly connected with the demonstrations. Two hundred high school boys and girls scuffled with police at headquarters, where they had come to demand release of students arrested earlier. No one was hurt. A 19-year-old rightist was arrested after wrecking Sohyo headquarters.

Big Crowd Hears Long At Winnfield

WINNFIELD (Special) — Former Gov. Earl K. Long pulled out all the stops here last night in a hometown political rally where well over a thousand people waited to hear him speak.

Long missed a scheduled radio broadcast at 7:30 p.m. but didn't seem to mind as he voiced appreciation and surprise at the big turnout.

The crowd milled around the courthouse square drinking soda pops and listening to Long's attorney Joe Arthur Sims and former executive secretary A. A. Frederick whale away on the Long platform on oppostion weakness.

Long arrived at 9:30 p.m., grabbed a microphone, and said he'd had a flat tire enroute from Montgomery where he spoke earlier Saturday.

OPENED

Long opened his talk with a remark that "I want to thank you all for coming out, we didn't expect anything like this. But it shows industry on your part to come out to hear the issues in the campaign."

Long is running against his former state house floor leader Ben Holt of Alexandria and the incumbent, Harold McSween, for the eighth district congress post.

Long was after 10 p.m. giving away hams and groceries at a public drawing and most of the crowd lingered.

About 200 Negroes in the audience heard Long condemn the Republicans for their handling situations affecting them.

Long said, "There has never been but one good Republican president, and that was Abraham Lincoln.

"Sure, slavery was wrong, it never should have been.

"But let me say I'm one million per cent for segregation (and turning to the Negroes) have your rights, your schools, your churches, your women, without a damn Rainach telling you what to do.

Long invited the public down to the old Long homeplace at 10 a.m. where he said he, his brothers and sisters were dedicating the property he valued at $27,000 to the City of Winnfield for a recreation area.

In a companion announcement, Long said he was also donating five acres of land plus $1000 to the Winnfield Negroes, for a recreation area.

The donation of the property has been a long - promised situation to the city of Winnfield.

The crowd was probably the biggest Long has encountered in his campaigning.

when school was over. Set off yesterday—merry as the month of May. Got to Yucca, Arizona, about 6 p.m. and then took the road for B. W. River.

"However, there are lots of roads around here that aren't on the map so we took a wrong turn somewhere. And then we took another couple of turns hoping to meet the road we wanted. However, it was such a beautiful evening and countryside (desert side?) it didn't especially matter and then we came to this wash. It looked O.K. (we have gone through worse).

"But halfway across we got stuck. So we had supper and went to sleep. The full moon came out about 10:30. It was so bright it woke us up. It was all too incredibly beautiful — everything light as day. Got up at 5:30 a.m. Had a grand breakfast. (Food always tastes so much better cooked out of doors).

"Bill said he would have the car out in 15 minutes. But it was possessed.

"I guess we jacked it up 10 times and put two tons of rock under the wheels but we are still stuck. It wasn't too bad working from 6:30 to 10 a.m. but after it was wicked. Old Sol really beamed down so we would work five minutes then wait in the car 10 to recuperate.

"Finally at 12:30 we were both showing signs of heat prostration so we quit and have been sitting in the car ever since because we didn't have salt tablets with us. We swallow ½ teaspoon of table salt at intervals.

"Every ¾s hour Bill braves the sun and goes around to the trunk where the refrigerator is and gets us each a glass of water (and some for Poppy). But even that little bit of effort and exposure knocks him out for 10 minutes. I started writing this at 2, now it is about 4.

"About 6 we are going to start walking. We know it is 40 miles the way we came and no houses, so we are going to walk ahead in hopes of finding help sooner.

GOVERNOR GAINS POWER

Davis Leads Louisiana Toward Stronger State

By JACK OWENS

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Jimmie H. Davis, balladeer-businessman elected coalition governor, quietly led Louisiana toward stronger state government in the 60-day Legislature which ends Thursday.

Only a few disputed matters, mostly minor, remain to be settled after the Legislature returns to work Tuesday for the cleanup.

Davis won legislative victors and gained power in some 4 pro-segregation measures, a state sovereignty commission, a tighter state budget of 870-million-dollars that curbs some welfare and education spending, a payroll withholding system for state income taxes, and a state bond program to allow construction without immediate taxation.

The 140-man Legislature also moved to take more power for itself. One instance is the pro-segregation law that allows only the Legislature to designate which schools shall be for white or Negro pupils.

The governor had his slips and losses in the session. But he sidestepped some issues that appeared too hot.

Some important issues doused in the Legislature included:

Right-to-work legislation; a proposed comprehensive labor law aimed at secondary boycotts and extortion picketing; changing election days from Tuesdays back to Saturdays; and a move to investigate the state mineral board and the oil and gas industry.

A proposal that would have settled a multi-million-dollar dispute around a tract of coastal land, donated to the state some time ago, was killed by administration leaders.

A round-robin vote in a House committee killed the measure, which drew heated criticism. The state would have split oil money it now gets with heirs to the McIlhenny estate. The heirs claim mineral rights were never given title to the state along with surface rights.

In a forward look, the Legislature set up a little Hoover Commission to study the whole matter of governmental organization and finances.

The Davis administration backed the move aimed at cutting the fat out of state government. More centralization and less duplication and waste are among the objectives.

In a similar vein, a probe of local school boards was put in motion. Some spending by such boards has been brought into question in the past.

The moves to make state government more powerful come in the face of federal attempts to force racial integration in Louisiana.

The 13-man State Sovereignty Commission, with the governor and four other top elected officials serving, has a declared aim of checking federal encroachment on states rights.

The Sovereignty Commission has broad powers to subpoena and question witnesses, investigate and recommend changes.

LEADERS' OPINION

Stop Kennedy Drive In Now Underway

Editors Note — William F. Arbogast, chief of the Associated Press House staff, has been a close observer of Capitol Hill and national party convention political maneuvering for two decades. In this dispatch he assesses reaction of congressional political leaders to Harry S. Truman's news conference remarks Saturday in Independence, Mo.

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost to a man, congressional political leaders had the same reaction Saturday to former President Harry S. Truman's charge that the Democratic National Convention will be "a prearranged affair."

It was this: The big push in a "stop Kennedy" drive is under way.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was not immediately available for comment. But one of his aides in Los Angeles said Kennedy would ask for equal radio - TV time in which to answer Truman.

For public attribution, most Capitol Hill political leaders took the position of Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, who is directing Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's drive for the presidential nomination.

"No comment," Rayburn told newsmen.

Republicans were overjoyed.

"For once I find myself in agreement with Harry Truman," said House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who will preside over the Republican National Convention.

A top Kennedy booster privately said Truman's statement at Independence, Mo., "means simply that they are desperate and that they are making a last ditch move to stop Kennedy. It won't work."

A leading backer of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri predicted that Truman would show up at the convention despite his publicly expressed desire not to be "a party to proceedings that are taking on the aspects of a prearranged affair."

"He wants to be free to operate as spectator Harry Truman instead of delegate Harry Truman," this source commented.

"He will be there. He doesn't want to be bound by the unit rule which the Missouri delegation has adopted."

the House and Senate embroiled for hours. Congress was anxious to adjourn in advance of the political conventions.

CALL

The President, Dirksen said, will call Congress back in the coming week if it adjourns without acting. "This I think I can say with authority, and the approval of the White House," Dirksen added.

"They are in possession of information that we do not have," he said.

He told the Senate Congress can rely on the President to do a fair and equitable job of cutting up the Cuban share.

Gov. Brown Plays Role To The Hilt

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown is playing his favorite son role to the hilt in the final days before the split California delegation decides its Democratic choice for president.

Brown, no longer rated even a dark horse contender, is working carefully to qualify as a key, big state figure at the party's national convention.

The 81 California votes pledged to the governor represent the largest single uncommitted bloc in the scramble shaping up in Los Angeles. And his objective is clear enough. As he puts it:

"I want the California delegation to have some effect on who is going to be nominated and who is going to be the next president of the United States."

He wants to back a winner.

There seems little doubt any longer that Brown will support Sen. John F. Kennedy, in the absence of a challenging move by the man who may be his first choice—Adlai E. Stevenson.

$25,000 Fire Hits In State

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Firemen had to lay out almost 1,900 feet of hose here Saturday to reach a fire in the rear of the LaRay Pontiac Co. on East Broad St.

The fire, which began in a clothing store owned by O. W. Philpott, spread to a storage shed of the nearby auto firm and threatened the main building. The auto firm is a large distributorship.

Damage at the clothing store and storage shed was unofficially estimated at about $25,000.

Note Recent Construction At La. Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Considerable construction work is now underway or has recently been completed on the Louisiana Tech campus, reports H. C. Pyburn, superintendent of the buildings and grounds department.

Approximately 900 tons of black top have been placed on three campus streets. The improved streets are the circular drive east of Keeny Hall, Adams Boulevard just south of Kenny Hall and the parking lot east of the Engineering Annex.

Workemen are now placing brick veneer on the outside walls of the Engineering Annex and this building is expected to be ready for use this fall. Renovation of the former home economics building will begin soon.

About one - third of the seats in Howard Auditorium have been recovered with plastic seat covers and all the seats will be recovered within a few weeks. Two large velvet window curtains have been placed on each side of the auditorium and plans call for a new velvet stage curtain to be installed.

The buildings and grounds department has replaced approximately 2000 feet of underground primary electric cable in three locations on the campus to enable the system to carry heavier loads. The new cables were placed from the college's power plant to a junction box west of Tech Stadium, from the power plant to the new Student Center, and from Adams Boulevard to Bogard Hall.

Two covered walks have been constructed at A. E. Phillips Elementary School.

To make the ventilating system more efficient in Carson - Taylor Hall, two large exhaust fans have been installed on the roof of the building. Foundation piers have been replaced under all apartment buildings located in the Vetville housing area.

DIRECTOR of the choirs for Louisiana Tech's 11th annual music camp beginning Monday is Dr. John D. Raymond of Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. Dr. Raymond also will teach conducting and voice during the two-week short course which has attracted approximately 290 junior and senior high school students from five states.

Instructors For La. Tech Camp Listed

RUSTON (Special) — Staff members and instructors for Louisiana Tech's 11th annual summer music camp starting Monday have been announced by L. V. E. Irvine, head of the music department of the college and administrative supervisor of the short course.

Approximately 290 high school juniors and seniors of Louisiana and four other states are enrolled, which is the largest number in the history of the program here. The camp will continue through July 16.

Besides faculty members and students from the Tech music department, the camp staff will include several visiting instructors from high schools and colleges.

Joe Sheppard of the Tech music department again will serve as managing director of the camp. Phil Kendall of Vivian, a music teacher at Belcher Junior High School, will be the operational supervisor. Mary Lou Henry of Ruston will be the camp registrar. Three members of the Tech music faculty who will be instructors are Miss Edith Cotton, Dr. Marshall Bretz and Dr. John Luce.

Among the visiting instructors are 10 high school band directors and music instructors. They are Richard McCluggage, North Caddo High School of Vivian; Walter Minniear, Fair Park of Shreveport; Charles Caskey, Tallulah; Robert Gathright, Neville of Monroe; Leonard Fulkerson, El Dorado; Oscar Barnes, Ruston; Jim Clark, Bolton of Alexandria; Tommy Latham, Vidalia; Charles Stratford, Jonesboro - Hodge, and Thomas Watson, Byrd of Shreveport.

The staff also will include Dr. John D. Raymond, director of music at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.; Ione Bivens, Bernice; Peggy Caskey, Robert E. Lee Junior High School, Monroe; Midge Simmons Butler, Vivian; Dale Robins of Tyler, Tex., and Faye Parker of Minden.

Officers Hunt For Suspect In Attack Case

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Lee County Sheriff Frank Carter said officers were searching Saturday for an AWOL Tupelo soldier accused of attempting to rape a 15-year-old girl.

"We think the suspect identified by the girl has fled the county," Carter said, "because we have checked all his known hangouts.

"I suppose the FBI is in on the case because he is AWOL from Fort McClellan, Ala."

Both Carter and county attorney Cason Rankin declined to identify the suspect. Carter said he was about 20, married and a distant relative of the victim.

The girl, hysterical and put under sedation after the incident, told officers the suspect forced her in his car and took her to a secluded spot.

She said the man almost choked her to death and attempted to rape her. She said he released her after warning her not to tell anyone for at least 3 hours.

Rankin said the girl has obvious bruises and scratches on her throat.

Negro Stabbed; Condition Said To Be Serious

A West Monroe Negro was termed in serious condition after he was stabbed in a knife fight in West Monroe yesterday afternoon. The incident took place at 4:20 p.m.

John Willie Lewis, 34, 104½ South Fifth St., was taken to the Charity Hospital after he was stabbed in the right chest with a four - inch blade hunting knife. Bessie Greer, 35, Negress, of the same address, was charged with aggravated battery in the incident.

According to witnesses, the Greer woman and Lewis had an argument at home. The Greer woman reportedly said that Lewis pulled a knife on her and she took it away from him.

Police said that the Greer woman surrendered and was taken to the city hall, where she was charged with aggravated battery, pending Lewis's condition.

Officers who were summoned to the scene, found Lewis behind 104½ South Fifth Street, on a lot owned by C. C. Bell. He was carried to the hospital where he was to undergo surgery.

Reckless Driving Charges Bring 3 Arrests Here

Monroe City Police arrested three persons Saturday and charged them with reckless driving. Six persons were charged with disturbing the peace.

Vester F. Clay, 19, San Francisco, was charged with reckless driving and operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. James D. Aulds, 41, Route 4, West Monroe, was charged with the same two counts — reckless driving and operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Two persons, arrested late Friday, were charged with disturing the peace. They are Roy William Farmer, 50, Sterlington, and A. B. Parker, 44, Sikes.

Pinder Spillman, 26, Negro, 714 B. Adams St., was charged with disturbing the peace and resisting an officer. Four other persons charged with disturbing the peace are Allen Parker, 44, Sikes; Charlie P. Humphrey, 63, Triangle Hotel; Eloise Roach, 32, Negro, 911 South 16th St.; and Jack Justice, 40, 3200 Polk St.

Bond was set at $360 for Negro, Jessie B. Wright, 42, Grambling, who was charged with aggravated battery.

OVER OIL SUPPLY

Castro Group Is Confident

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's revolutionary government emitted confident words Saturday about its ability to maintain adequate supplies of oil for this island after seizing the major foreign installations.

The Petroleum Institute, which has blossomed from a mionr government department into directing headquarters of the island's oil industry, said operations were normal at the Texaco and Shell refineries.

At Esso Standard's plant—largest in Cuba—refining was suspended Saturday morning for lack of crude, but officials of the institute said the suspension was mainly to permit completion of the prevously scheduled annual cleanup of the plant.

SPOKESMAN

A spokesman at the institute said 80,000 to 90,000 barrels of Soviet crude en route here by tanker from Casilda in Las Villas Province would be used to continue operations at the Shell plant.

How long the Esso plant would be idle was not disclosed, but institute officials said they expected an ample supply of crude would be ready as soon as plant renovation is completed. American officials of Esso were not available for comment.

American, British, and Dutch oil officials, who are leaving Cuba as rapidly as they can arrange their personal affairs, said Cuban oil technicians are "generally excellent" and should be able to operate the refineries without difficulty.

The biggest problem ahead for this oil-hungry island — it consumes over 65,000 barrels of crude daily—is a stable supply of crude for the processing plants. The Soviet Union has the oil, but experts here say enough tankers to supply Cuba with its needs could be arranged only with a lavish outlay of foreign exchange.

Distribution of gasoline and other products appeared normal and there was no noticeable run of filling stations by persons who feared a shortage or possible imposition of rationing.

The lone American oil company still functioning here is Sinclair Oil, which has only a marketing business in Cuba. Company officials said they had about three weeks supply of fuel and their future depends on whether the Castro Petroleum Institute honors contracts they had with the Texaco and Esso Standard refineries here for processed oil.

The takeover of Esso Standard and British-Dutch Shell refineries and marketing facilities was accomplished smoothly and peacefully Friday with the active backing of armed members of Castro's peoples militia.

Officials boasted they could operate the refineries with Cuban technicians; also, that they would find supplies of crude to replace that shut off when foreign companies refused to process Soviet oil obtained in a barter deal with the Kremlin.

Most officials seemed to be looking toward the Soviet Union to prevent an oil famine in Cuba.

Maj. Ernesto Guevara, Castro's economic czar whose refusal to release dollars to pay the Western companies for crude imports from Venezuela was a factor in the takeover, predicted the Kremlin would meet all Cuban needs for oil.

The Minerals Board Case

The House of Representatives at Baton Rouge has a resolution by Rep. T. T. Fields of Union Parish for investigation of past actions of the State Minerals Board and the State Department of Conservation by a special House-Senate committee.

> If there is any evidence of wrongdoing in these or any other state agencies under previous administrations, investigation should be quick, sure and complete. But Mr. Fields did not offer evidence. He offered nothing but a resolution and thus proposed nothing but a witch hunt.

Mr. Fields is a Davis administration House floor leader, but the other Davis leaders in the House opposed the resolution and were joined by leaders of the Chep Morrison forces. Governor Davis had no part in the resolution. All of Caddo's Representatives voted against it.

There is talk now of reviving the investigation proposal in the Senate. If there are facts warranting such action let them be brought out. Otherwise it's time to put an end to this kind of back-handed attack on State agencies and officials.

Mr. Fields himself may not be aware of it, but this whole proposal for investigation bears earmarks of being part of political scheming, centering around Leander Perez and a few others, to prevent reappointment by Governor Davis of William G. Helis, Jr., of New Orleans, to the State Minerals Board, of which he is now chairman.

Mr. Perez, a stormy and controversial center of South Louisiana politics, has been clashing with Mr. Helis and the Board for a long time over oil rulings of the Board which he and others apparently did not like. No doubt Mr. Perez would like to get someone to his own liking into the Board Chairmanship, but his desires certainly are no reason for Governor Davis to replace a man of proven capability and a record of unselfish public service.

Nor is the fact that Mr. Helis was appointed to the Board by Earl Long any reason not to reappoint him. Mr. Long made some excellent appointments to state offices during both his 1956-1960 and 1948-1952 terms. Some of them were held over by succeeding administrations. When an administration retains — from previous administrations — officials who have demonstrated their public spiritedness and their willingness to serve their state, the people gain.

> The record of Mr. Helis on the Minerals Board has drawn praise from various political factions. During House debate on the Fields resolution, Rep. Edward LeBreton, Chep Morrison's floor leader in the House, said he felt the Board "had done a fine job" during the preceeding administration —and Mr. LeBreton always has been an outstanding anti-Long man.

At the first meeting of the Minerals Board after he became Chairman Mr. Helis inserted into the permanent records of that body a statement that no member should participate in discussion or voting on any matter in which that member might have a personal interest. He has held the Board and himself to this policy.

Mr. Helis was responsible in large part for a policy of holding back on lease sales of waterbottom land until the best possible prices could be obtained, although pressure often was put on him for approval of hasty sales, regardless of return to the state. Proof of the soundness of his policy came in the February, 1959, lease sales which brought the state more than $60,000,000.

Mr. Helis also set up a fact-finding committee to review every state lease and determine if each lease was eyeing developed properly. As a result of this, thousands of acres of land that were leased but not developed now are being developed and the state has gained its proper share of revenue.

When dispute between the federal and state governments brought offshore drilling to a halt, it was Mr. Helis who brought together attorneys and others to weld the interim agreement with the federal government drilling operations in the disputed tidelands pending ultimate decision as to title by the United States Supreme Court. It was because of this agreement that more than $200,000,000 was piled up in escrow as Louisiana's possible share of offshore drilling.

> Although the state has lost its major claim through the recent Supreme Court decision, the case is not ended. The Helis policy has protected Louisiana's interests throughout.

Mr. Helis takes nothing for his services to the state on the Minerals Board—he does not collect expenses or per diem. As a matter of fact, he has spent a great deal of his own money in behalf of Louisiana, particularly in using his own staff on state work and even in employing outside geologists, attorneys and engineers.

There is always political controversy over appointments to and operation of such agencies as the State Minerals Board. But unless Mr. Fields—or Mr. Perez—or others can back their innuendo and inference with something concrete, The World hopes that Governor Davis will reappoint Mr. Helis and put an end to the political sniping that has been going on for some time behind the scenes.

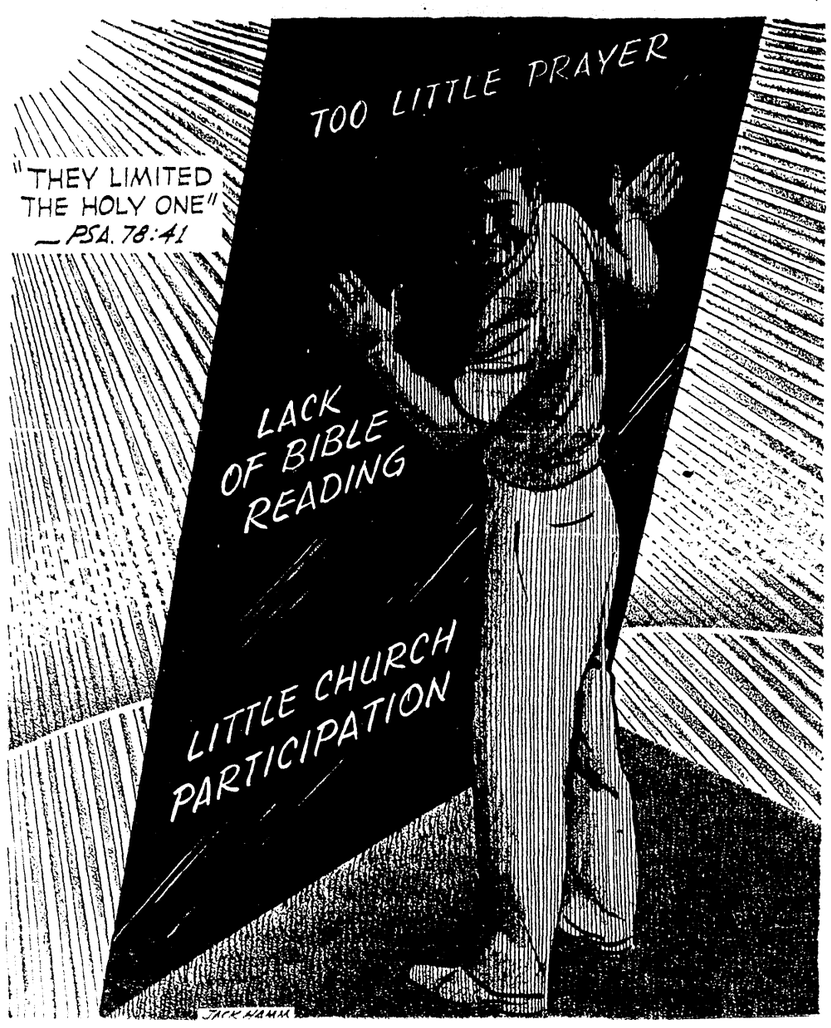
Self-Installed Shield Of Separation



GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Khrushchev's Difficulties

Soviet Premier Believes It Is Possible For Russia And West To Live In Peaceful Co-Existence

Nikita Khrushchev believes that it is possible for Soviet Russia and its European satellites to prevail in a world of competitive peaceful co-existence among capitalist and Communist countries. This has been his thesis since the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party when he down-graded Stalin, his predecessor.

In effect this is anti-Marxist, in the sense that it denies the permanent revolution; it is anti-Leninist in the sense that it denies that Soviet Russia cannot succeed in communism without the entire world becoming Communist. It is Stalinist, in the sense that it tries socialism (communism) in one country. It is original in that Khrushchev would attempt to do it by peaceful means, by beating the capitalist countries in production, while trading with them, utilizing capitalist methods of business.

Khrushchev's ideas are not altogether welcomed in Soviet Russia and not at all in Red China. The remainders of the Stalinists are violently opposed to his concepts which, if carried to their logical conclusion, would put an end to the revolution and would reduce the conspiratorial activities of the Communist movement. It would have all relations between Soviet Russia and the rest of the world on a diplomatic and commercial basis and would dilute the revolution by free intercourse among the various nations, expecting Soviet Russia to prevail by economic superiority rather than by the techniques of revolution.

To Red China, in particular, this could be disastrous. It is in the first stage of revolution and requires all the apparatus of revolution — infiltration, penetration, subversion, even war—to accomplish its purpose. Red China is attempting to move further than Soviet Russia: it is seeking to reach communism without going through the intermediate step of socialism. To the Russians, this seems fantastically impossible because whereas socialism, in various forms, does actually work in some countries, communism in its Marxist-Leninist form works nowhere. The Chinese "leap forward" is tantamount to total slavery.

Khrushchev is being attacked and his future is not certain. In the method developed by Stalin in the Soviet Universal State, the top man, whatever his title, maintains a balance of power among differing factions. Stalin was able to maintain it by killing off the deviationists until no one who failed to support his position could have a voice in policy. He killed off nearly all the old Bolsheviks so that no one who was ever superior to him remained.

Khrushchev has not been able to do that. His major difficulty is that Mao Tze-tung holds a greater moral authority in the Soviet Universal State than Khrushchev does. Mao is a more educated man, a philosopher and poet; Khrushchev is a practical man with a tendency to be capitalistic in his processes. Mao, for instance, would not concern himself with putting China on the gold standard; Khrushchev is apparently doing precisely that. Mao is a strict theoretician, an orthodox Marxist-Leninist; Khrushchev tries to operate a practical economy, one that will provide ample military supplies to battle against the United States or any country and at the same time ample consumers' goods to keep his people happy.

This conflict has been constant in the Soviet Universal State since 1917. It was the cause for the split between the Bolsheviks and the Mensheviks in 1903. It was one of the reasons why Tito spun off from Kremlin control. It is the reason why Trotzky, Kamenev, Zinoviev and many other Bolshevik leaders were murdered. The history of the Bolshevik party has been one of Leftist and Rightist deviation from a fixed party line. This will undoubtedly continue as long as the Communist party exists because all men cannot see the same problem in the same way, no matter how close they are in a disciplined political party. Khrushchev and Mao cannot possibly reach points of agreement because they are of different generations in the Communist revolution.

Nevertheless, if the Free Nations expect to make profit out of these differences, they are letting themselves in for a great disappointment. The ultimate goal of the Kremlin and of Peking is identical: it is to establish a universal Communist state which will be coordinated into one social and economic system for the whole of mankind. There will always be an insistent Marxist orthodoxy and a Rightist and Leftist deviation. But all will unite against the United States.

Views Of Our Readers

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

Please grant me the liberty to express a few ideas. Some people have the most peculiar ideas. They think that muscle, money, and brains make them better men than the poor fellow who has an inferior means of making an honest living. I am not attempting to say that everyone is equal. Jesus Christ said, "Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst shall be filled." (St. Matthew 5:5-6). Money will not buy peace of mind or righteousness; neither will it substitute for the spirit of righteousness.

There are more ways to abuse someone than the act of roughly laying hands on the person. Federal encroachment on states' rights, or the rights of the people, is one kind of abuse. Encroachment means intruding or trespassing into the possessions or rights of another.

I am of the opinion that the U. S. Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954, declaring segregation unconstitutional, is socialistic and contrary to the Tenth Amendment of the Constitution. The 14th Amendment was never legally or properly ratified. Anyone who cares enough to do some research on the subject can find out I am telling the truth. Do you want to preserve what our forefathers fought and died for to establish our independence? Where is your heart?

JOE STALIN'S IDEA

West Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

I understand that it was Joe Stalin who first came up with the idea of aid to the underdeveloped nations, possibly with the idea in mind that Russia would put up enough aid and loans to stampede the U.S.A into an unheard of spending program that would bankrupt us.

While at the same time Russia was conducting schools for its students and students of other nations, teaching them how to infiltrate sabotage spy and how to conduct racial and student riots.

By these methods get control of these nations and not only get back what Russia put out but also what we had given them. Whether true or not, this the Communist objective has worked that way to an alarming degree.

I think it is time we, the people of the U.S.A., get to work to elect a president that will stand firm on our constitution, and our American way of life and not be guided by the ideas of the intellectual misfits and one-worlders, a president that will not stand for any appeasement of the Communists and one who will go in to win the cold war.

As Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, there is no substitute for victory. While students were rioting in Japan against the visit of President Eisenhower.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur received the highest medal of honor award from Japan that could be bestowed on a foreign general.

I surely agree with and appreciate your position regarding "Legislative Raises" in today's June 16th editorial.

I am writing our Senator asking him if it isn't in line of reason to give this matter very careful consideration when it comes up in the Senate.

I am also calling to the attention of our local paper your editorial and ask him if it would not be in line of reason to at least reprint the substance of this editorial, that it applied to all that voted for it, not only Rep. Mike John Jr. I thank you.

The Shortest Sermon

THE Preacher in his pulpit stood . . . And looked upon his flock . . . In silent prayerful stance . . . As sturdy as a rock . . . The tidy congregation sat . . . And filled each wooden pew . . . And slowly raised their solemn heads . . . To hear His words anew . . . And so of God in heaven high . . . In gentle tone he talked . . . To raise the point if anyone . . . Had with Him often walked . . . He paused a while to let them think . . . Upon their earthly stay . . . And then without another word . . . He slowly walked away . . . Anti-South Ilk

Kennedy Hears Strong Talk Against Southern Influence

The anti - South tinge which the Kennedy - for - President campaign has taken on has been one of the unusual developments of pre - convention activities in the Democratic party.

Perhaps the anti - South flavor of the Kennedy campaign is largely due to some of the support he has attracted to his banner, but some of the behavior and recently some of the utterances of the candidate himself have attracted wide attention, North and South.

The first of these events was the Kennedy breakfast talk before what was described as a "meeting of top - New York unionists" at the Carlyle Hotel in New York. After the session a spokesman summarized what had taken place.

The unionists had explained to Senator Kennedy that the predominance of Southern influence in Democratic affairs was a constant source of frustration to labor in its hopes for progress on economic legislation and civil rights.

Kennedy's reply to those complaints was, the union leaders said, that his nomination would mark the first time that a candidate had won without relying primarily on Southern convention aid. Kennedy went on to say that his election would open the way for a transfer of Congressional control to forces more sympathetic to union objectives than those dominant in the present coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans.

At a news conference later in the day Kennedy, according to newspaper reports "struck a note of independence of southern pressure." Asked about a demand by Negro leaders that he repudiate the backing of Governor John Patterson of Alabama, Kennedy replied:

"I don't think I have a delegate in Alabama. I know of no candidate so near the nomination who ever had so little support in the South as I have. So far as civil rights is concerned I want a clear, strong stand taken at the convention."

The second event took place at Senator Kennedy's Washington residence with Michigan Negro leaders, for whom he had sent his private two - engine plane to fly them to Washington. The Negroes explained that they wanted "a little more oomph in Kennedy's stand on civil rights."

The group went away satisfied with Kennedy's stand on voting rights, anti - bias in housing, school desegregation and fair employment practices. Here, too, Kennedy stressed his independence of Southern support.

But the event which caused the greatest hullabaloo was Kennedy's speech before the leftish splinter Liberal party in New York. The New York Times' report of the convention said that "Senator John F. Kennedy told the Liberal party yesterday that he hoped to win the Democratic nomination for President without a single Southern vote in the convention."

Southern Senators and Representatives were quick to ask if that meant Kennedy thought he could win the election without southern electoral votes, as some of his supporters have been saying he could. They thought it meant Kennedy was a sectional candidate and that section was not the South. Some of them said that the South had ample means of accomodating him, such as withholding electoral votes, backing a third party or voting for the Republican Presidential candidate, if Kennedy did not want its support.

As for the Liberals they got the idea that Kennedy meant he owed the South nothing and was in a position to give it the "business," if that was advisable. It pleased the Liberals greatly as it did the Americans for Democratic Action, who are now in the Kennedy camp. It was later denied that Kennedy said the things he was quoted as saying but the denial was not vehement enough to disturb the Liberal party, which he strongly praised.

Another thing that disturbed the South was Kennedy's hint that he had reached an understanding with Senator Humphrey of Minnesota. It is now believed probable that if Kennedy wins the Presidential nomination Humphrey will be his running mate. Humphrey is no favorite of the South.

A piece of "behavior" that also disturbed the South was that in his quest of delegates Kennedy has flown hither and yon, but has ignored the South. This could be in deference to Senator Johnson, but it hardly seems likely for Kennedy has gone into Oregon, where Senator Morse was attempting to be a favorite son candidate, into California where Governor Brown is a favorite son candidate and into Maryland where Governor Tawes wanted to be the favorite son candidate.

The cause of much of the comment has been the complete switch in the Kennedy attitude. When he made his run at Estes Kefauver in the 1956 Vice Presidential contest, it was Southern support in the convention which put him very close to a scoring position.

There is little doubt that at the outset of his Presidential try, which started shortly after the 1956 election, he expected help from the South. But more and more statements began to emanate from Kennedy supporters that he could win the election without the South.

Kennedy himself surely does believe that. The South has 128 electoral votes. Truman lost Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina and the Truman-Dewey - Thurmond race was so close that the shift of a few thousand votes in California, Illinois and Ohio would have sent it to the House of Representatives for a choice.

Stevenson's 74 electoral votes in 1956 came entirely from the South. Most political experts think it will be a close Presidential race even if the Democrats carry every Southern State in 1960. There is little doubt that a feeling is growing in the South that Kennedy as President would try to give it a hard time. If Kennedy is the nominee he will have his work cut out for him below the Mason and Dixon line. If he is nominated and takes unto himself Hubert Humphrey as a Vice Presidential ticket - mate his obstacles in Dixie would seem herculean indeed.

Walk Is Tonic

New Yorkers Find Exercise Caused By Strike Is Pleasant

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of New Yorkers had an unusual experience this week. Because of a wildcat bus strike they walked to work.

Many grumbled at the experience but found it tonic. They were probably surprised mildly to find the exertion made them feel better than they had for weeks.

One of the great living shames of the machine age is that so many of us have lost the great joy of walking.

Walking does more than merely get you from one place to another. Nature built man to be a mobile organism, and movement is essential to both his mental and his physical health.

The aimless melancholy that afflicts so many civilized people undoubtedly is a result of their prolonged sedentary posture. When man sits still, his mind turns inward and magnifies his troubles. When man is on his feet and moving, his mind must turn outward to a considerable extent, if only to protect him trom the perils that menace the pedestrian.

Some people have found they can minimize their worries by getting into their cars and going for a long drive. Doing something —doing anything — makes them feel better. But if, instead of getting behind a wheel, they went for a long walk, they would feel better faster.

The sitting man is a sitting duck for self-pity. But it is more difficult to feel sorry for one's self when one is afoot. The piled-up resentments and hoarded wrongs melt magically with each passing block, and one feels himself less and less a passive victim of a ruinous world he never made.

You cannot think your troubles away, but you can walk them down to a size you can handle.

There are those who say the only place worth walking in is a green place, and there is no doubt that all of us get homesick at times for a forest feeling and the sensation of a firm footfall on the yielding earth.

But there are also those who feel that when you've seen one squirrel you've seen them all. To these there is no better place to walk in than a great city.

Some cities are more worth walking in than others. Only an exhibitionist, for example, would go for a walk in Los Angeles—and probably then only to win a bet.

The best city in the world to walk in is undoubtedly London. Paris and Rome are also wonderful, and Hong Kong is fine if you aren't allergic to pickpockets.

But the most rewarding walking in America for the inveterate or even the amateur pavement pounder is right here in Manhattan. Elsewhere in sprawling New York City it is only a form of self-punishment.

City walkers fall into two classes: The purposeful and the purposeless. The first class sets out to see something definite and consists largely of tourists. The second class just sets out to see anything they meander near and consists of true-born philosophers.

To these alone Manhattan unveils her real magic. They follow no set route but wander aimlessly like a restless human river ever exploring a new channel.

ONCE PROGRAM FOE

Public Housing Chief Staunch

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bruce C. Savage runs the government's low-rent public housing program and is a passionate believer in it. By his own account he once was equally passionately opposed to it.

Public Housing is one of the more controversial government programs. The Eisenhower Administration, conservative, doesn't give it much priority or push. Liberals think it is a good thing and a key weapon in the fight against poverty. This year federal subsidy payments are running above $100 million.

Savage, a wealthy Indianapolis real estate man and a Republican, took over as head of the Public Housing Administration (PHA) on May 24. Inexperienced in government and politics, he has nevertheless let his staff know who is running the agency.

"He can't understand why we in government have to do things through prescribed channels. There's no doubt about him stepping up the tempo around here," an aide commented.

Savage believes that one responsibility of the majority of Americans, fairly well off, is to help the less fortunate minority to have decent housing. He sees the Federal Public Housing program as at least partial execution of this responsibility.

"Until 1953," Savage recalled, "I was as strongly opposed to public housing as I am for it today. Then President Eisenhower appointed me to his advisory committee on government housing policies and programs.

"I was determined to come to Washington and do everything I could to knock out public housing. But I got to thinking. It was a presidential appointment. I was supposed to represent all the people. I figured I'd better find out more about it."

One of public housing's problems, Savage said, is that many of its opponents "look at it purely as housing and not in the light of a social upgrading of our people—development of character of individuals and of the family. If we can take people out of slums and give them living room for the entire family where the dignity of the individual can develop, we're doing the job we're supposed to."

Savage believes that "to make public housing really effective, we're going to have to develop a social service program to work with the families. It's a necessary adjunct." He suggested diagnostic clinics or infirmaries for projects for elderly and social workers to help people avail themselves of community services. These he believes should be paid for with local funds because "they are the responsibility of the community."

What about segregation in federally aided housing? "I am more concerned with decent housing than segregation," Savage said. "My concern is strictly housing of the lowest income families so they can live decently. I don't want anything to get in the way of that."

Heating Plant Home's Most Vital Fixture

NEW YORK (UPI)—The heating plant is the most important piece of equipment in the home today.

And now is as good a time as any to make sure this equipment will give you complete and automatic comfort all winter long. There would never be any need to worry about the heating plant if you gave it the same kind of care and attention you do your car, the tools in your workshop or your wrist watch.

Steps to give top efficiency in your heating plant can easily save as much as $50 a year in fuel bills. Over the lifetime of a 20-year mortgage that's $1,000. Throw in interest and the value of the enhanced lifetime of the heating plant and it adds up to a lot more.

Some of the work, in the form of a check-up and tune-up, can be done by the individual, but some needs an expert maintenance man.

The National Fuel Oil Council offers a few tips on what the homeowner can do himself to improve the efficiency of his heating plant:

Check on your fuel supply. If oil or coal is used, stock up on your fuel at reduced summer prices. Because the oil tank holds this valuable reservoir of heat, see that the fuel dealer puts special recently developed additives into it. These inhibit any rusting, add to the long life of the tank and help keep the clear fuel flowing freely.

Most of the heating plant itself should be checked and tuned up by a professional heating man. But even if you are not an expert mechanic there are some dollar-saving jobs you can do yourself.

Woman Does Bell Ringing Bank Chores

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I've got plenty of nothin'" is one tune musician Peggy Sheffield won't play when she's working.

The electronic carillon she plays near the vault fills the bank with folk music and tunes from light opera. The music spills out into the town, and at full blast can be heard for five miles.

CAME EAST

Miss Sheffield came east to brush up on bell-ringing at the Schulmerich School of Campanology located at the Westminister Choir College in Princeton, N. J. Campanology is the art of bell playing.

"When I took my Master's Degree, majoring in piano, I never dreamed that I would some day be a professional bell ringer," Miss Sheffield said in an interview.

She also said that bell ringing pays her $700 a month.

"It's very creative work," the 30-year-old brunette said. "You have to take music that's written for piano and re-write it. Sometimes, you can make up your own tunes."

"STORY OF RUTH," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, stars Elana Eden and Stuart Whitman. Also in the Twentieth-Century-Fox CinemaScope DeLuxe color release are Tom Tryon, Peggy Wood, Vivica Lindfors and Jeff Morrow.

AT JIM THEATRE

Mafia's First Foe In 'Pay Or Die'

A man to remember is paid dramatic tribute in the picture that brings Ernest Borgnine to the screen of the Jim Theatre Thursday. The man is New York Detective Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, killed in the line of duty at Palermo, Sicily, in 1909, and his story is told in Allied Artists' "Pay or Die."

For years Petrosino had led the fight against a ring of murderous extortionists preying on Italian-Americans like himself. He had gone abroad seeking to establish that this ring represented an invasion of America by the Mafia—and by the evidence he had gathered the whole world had been alerted to the true nature of the Mafia—no mere gang of hoodlums but a diabolical fraternity with a blood ritual, an inflexible code, and a tradition centuries old, dedicated to international plunder and subversion.

Petrosino took a girl bride in Old St. Patrick's Cathedral only 18, and in this role the Allied Artists picture introduces tall, black-haired Zohra Lampert, a major dramatic discovery elevated to co-stardom with Borgnine after playing a mere bit part in her first film. Also co-starred is Alan Austin, young police officer who loses her to Petrosino.

Richard Wilson, who both produced and directed "Pay or Die," is the director who did the smash hit, "Al Capone," for the same studio.

'Can-Can' Sets Ark-La-Tex Gala Premiere

Twentieth Century-Fox's "Can-Can" will have its exclusive Ark-La-Tex premiere at the Saenger Theatre in Shreveport Thursday evening.

Produced in Todd-A-O the film version of the two-year Broadway hit will offer ten performances weekly with matinees every Wednesday, Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Mail orders for tickets are being filled as promptly as they are received and can be processed.

Starring in the Technicolor road show attraction are Frank Sinatra, Shirley MacLaine, Maurice Chevalier and Louis Jourdan.

It was produced by Jack Cummings, directed by Walter Lang and adapted to the screen with songs by Cole Porter.

Public School Fund Increase In Year Seen

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Funds for the public schools and higher education will be increased about $10 million in the coming fiscal year over estimated expenditures for the fiscal year which ended on June 30, the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) reported.

"The public school appropriation will be up 3.8 per cent from 1959-60, which is comparable to an enrollment increase expected to be about 4 per cent," PAR reported in its weekly Legislative Bulletin.

"Despite cuts from requested amounts, the budget will be up about $7.2 million for public schools and $3 million for higher education."

The total increase is the highest in state funds for any function in the new fiscal year.

The total increase of $10 million is "about one - third the size of the increase granted the public schools and higher education for last year," PAR added.

Noting that requests for funds were cut substantially, PAR said the amount approved for school buches is $5 million under the amount sought and $3.4 million under estimated expenditures for the past school year. Other public school requests disapproved involved $3.8 million for new teachers and about $1 million in extra pay for summer work.

"On the basis of this adopted budget," PAR noted, "local school boards will have to assume greater responsibility for school finance."

HEADACHES ARE HEADACHE

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Headaches are the leading cause of absenteeism from office and industry, reports the Minnesota State Medical Association.

Physicians hear more complaints of headaches than of any other disease, the association said, and patients spend more trying to cure them than any other type of ailment.

PEACH HARVEST is well under way in the area, and helping with it here is Queen Dixie Gem IX, Miss Patricia Kavanaugh of Ruston. She will preside at the Louisiana Peach Festival, Ruston, July 7, 8.

NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Attendance At Playgrounds Up

Attendance at playgrounds sponsored by the City of Monroe's recreation department reached a new high for the year last week — 4,442.

Each playground held a horseshoe tournament and a baby show. Next week, zellball tournaments and hobo parties are scheduled according to Jack Hesketh, recreation director.

Totals for each playground attendance, from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday, were: Barkdull Faulk, 637; Bernstein Park, 596; Carver Housing, 524; Lida Benton, 436; J. S. Clarks, 363; Lexington, 328; Plum Street, 308; Lincoln, 301; Sherrouse, 267; Booker T. Washington, 241; Georgia Tucker, 236; George Breece, 185.

George Breece: George Mullins, Rickey Trichell, Cathy Sturdivant, DeVann Yeager, Lisa Bonnett, Johnny Morgan, Billy Fuller.

Funeral Rites Set For State Agronomist

PINCKNEYVILLE, Miss. (AP) —Funeral services were scheduled Sunday for Hugo F. Stoneberg, agronomist well known for his work in developing hybrid corn.

Stoneberg died Friday in New Orleans while visiting with his wife at the home of Mrs. Georgia Seago Fischer.

Burial was in the Brandon family cemetery at Arcole plantation. His widow is the former Sara Brandon.

Stoneberg was an agronomist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture and was connected with the Louisiana State University experiment station for 30 years before his recent retirement.

He was a native of Eugene, Ore., and was graduated from Oregon State University. He received his master's degree from LSU.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Gilbert Simmons, and a brother, Herbert Stoneberg, of Eugene; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Music School Will Open In West Monroe

A gospel music school will be opened in West Monroe, Tuesday in the Crosley Elementary School, it was announced yesterday by Garland May, president of the Booster Singing Convention, sponsor of the project.

He said classes would be held over a three - week period, and no tuition will be charged. Emphasis will be placed on singing, piano and organ playing, he said.

Morning classes will start at 9, and evening classes at 7:30.

Prof. Otis Deaton of Newsome, Texas, will be in charge of the school, and will instruct in sight reading, song direction, ear training, and harmony, May said.

Mrs. Robert Vaughan, Milam, Tenn., will be voice instructor. Pete Kendricks, Gainesville, Ga., and Miss Linda Robinson, Bastrop, will teach in piano and organ.

Other instructors will be added if needed, May said.

He said that pupils from Texas, Arkansas, and Mississippi, as well as Louisiana had indicated they planned to attend the school sessions in West Monroe.

Rings Stolen, Victim Thanked

LONDON (UPI) — A jewelry store manager said a man walked into his store in suburban Holloway Friday and asked to see engagement rings so he showed him a trayful worth $1,160.

The man said, "thank you" —and fled with the tray of rings.

JULY 7 AT RUSTON

Quality Of Peach Prompts Festival

RUSTON (Special) — The praise of North Louisiana peaches has been heard in every section of the state, and will be interwoven in the pageantry of a festival to be held here July 7, 8.

The event will be the Louisiana Peach Festival which will feature a big street parade, annual amateur night, and the crowning of a peach queen and princess.

"North Louisiana peaches are the best on the market was the story told to South Louisiana" recently, said F. O. LeVasseur, Lincoln Parish county agent, in telling of the good qualities of the area produced fruit.

"It was possible to tell this story," said the agent, "due to team work and cooperation between peach growers, Peach Festival officials, and cooperative extension work in Louisiana."

He continued, "The peach growers in January asked the Peach Festival to make a trip into South Louisiana and tell the peach story. The growers in turn furnished peaches to be used on the trip."

The Peach Festival financed the trip and county agents in the various parishes made plans to visit and appear on TV, radio, and visit the press and present peaches.

State Rep. L. D. Napper, Sen. R. B. Patton, and district attorney Reagan Madden arranged for the peach Queen Dixie Gem IX, lovely Miss Patricia Kanvanaugh of Ruston, to address the Legislature and present choice peaches to Gov. Jimmie Davis.

"The peach industry was very fortunate to have such a gracious young lady represent them," said LeVasseur. "The consumers were told the better flavor of Louisiana peaches was due to the fruit staying on the tree longer than in most other areas where peaches are grown.

"Louisiana peach growers try to leave their fruit on the tree until about three days before they are soft ripe. This trip was able to remind consumers the flavor was better than usual this year because of the dry weather and quality was exceptionally good with the fruit being free of insect and disease damage."

The goodwill team which traveled through various sections of the state, told the people that Louisiana peaches are grown primarily in Ouachita, Union, Lincoln, and Morehouse parishes, with some coming from Jackson and Bienville parishes.

"The harvest of peaches is unusually late this season due to the late spring, and dry weather," said County Agnet LeVasseur. "Louisiana peaches should be available until after August 1."

Production in the north Louisiana area comes from approximately 850 acres. There are about 19 varities in the area. The main crop harvest usually comes in mid - June, and generally extends overall from about June 1 to August 1.

About 35 per cent of the crop is of the Dixie Gem variety, and most growers market as a number one peaches those which are two inches in diameter and larger.

ALWAYS RIVALING

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota State Fair, one of the largest in the nation, is now held here annually, but it wasn't always that way.

At one time, rivalry between St. Paul and sister-city Minneapolis was so great that Minneapolis sponsored a competing fair. When the Minneapolis event started drawing bigger crowds, the official fair was forced to move out of town. It was held at different cities for five years until a permanent fair grounds was established here.

Singing Meet Scheduled Here

The Booster Singing Convention will hold its regular monthly meeting today at 1:30 p.m. at the Booster Hall in the 400 Block of Ouachita Ave.

This was announced yesterday by Garland May, president of the group, who said many leading gospel singers from various sections of the state will take part in the program. He said there also will be singers from other states.

Among those will be Prof. Otis Deaton, Newsome, Texas; Mrs. Robert B. Vaughan, Milam, Tenn.; Pete Kendricks, pianist and organist, Gainesville, Ga.; The Green Trio, Winnsboro, Tex.; The Lindsey Family, Caden, Ark. and Charles Edmonds, Gurdon, Ark.

In addition to today's events, a singing program is planned for Monday night at Crosley School auditorium in West Monroe, May said.

Students In Politics

What Drives Young Groups To Rebels Against Leaders

Editor's Note — Students in Korea, Turkey and Japan have overthrown one government, sparked the downfall of another, and created a major international embarrassment for a third. What's behind this collegiate ferment? Here's a report on motives and attitudes from the three nations concerned.

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer

In Japan, student-led mobs keep the President of the United States from visiting their country.

In Korea, they topple the government of Syngman Rhee.

What drives these young men from their books to the political hustings, often to riot and bloodshed? Why don't they blow off steam, like their American counterparts, in things like football games or panty raids?

The difference, as brought out by an Associated Press sampling of student thinking in the three countries, lies mainly in their concept of their role in society.

They feel they occupy a special position, unknown in this country. They are an educated elite amid a majority either illiterate or they feel politically passive. They consider themselves watchdogs of democracy. As in Turkey and Korea, or spearheads of social change, as many do in Japan.

Many believe their elders have failed them politically, and they have lost faith in the older generation to construct the kind of society in which their own qualities and learning will find proper scope.

THEIR DUTY

And they see it as their duty to rise in protest and take matters into their own hands.

Lee Chung Soo, a 20-year-old sophomore majoring in political science at Seoul's National University in Korea says: "The politicians and generals failed to get rid of the corruption and other vices. We could no longer trust them. Nor could we expect the public to rise against the government. There was no other choice for us but to rise up and fight wrongs."

"The people lacked courage to fight against the dictatorial regime," adds Lee Su-heung, a law major at Korea University. "We know the prime duty of the student is to devote himself to study, but the extraordinary circumstances of our society did not allow us to stay within the ivory tower."

In Turkey, too, student leaders harp on their duty to protest "when freedoms are disregarded." Ahsel Orkmezgil, 22, a pretty geography major at Istanbul University says she and her colleagues were disillusioned by the rule of the professional politicians.

"The elders who were governing the nation," she declares, "committed many wrongs."

In Japan, the student riots have a more sharply defined political cast. They were led by Zengakuren, a student organization directed by Communists and extreme left-wingers.

The Tokyo riots were directed against the Japanese-American security pact, now in force despite the demonstrations that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's goodwill visit.

Yoshiyuki Enami, 22, of Tokyo University says: "Japan's defense is now being keyed to the missile. But to make the missile effective, it must be armed with a nuclear tip. Japan is preparing for nuclear war. It's a problem especially close to the students who will be in the frontline of any war."

Enami has been twice arrested this year for leading violent demonstrations. He isn't sure, he says, what type of government Japan should have.

WHETHER

"We can't tell whether communism is the answer," he told a reporter. "On the other hand, capitalism is the final class society. It is objectively necessary to change it. We (the students) will have roles in that process."

Such far-reaching ambitions to change the social order as well as the government seemed remote from the thoughts of student leaders in Turkey and Korea. In fact, some of the students who demonstrated against Rhee in Korea appear a trifle suspicious of their Japanese counterparts.

"We have much sympathy toward the Turkish students and the political situation there but we believe the situation in Japan is a bit different," says Lee Su-heung of Korea University. "The Japanese students seem to be working for some particular political groups and we don't believe in such a student movement."

But they agree with the thought expressed by Takayoshi Chigita, 19, who studies English literature at Chuo University in Japan:

"In our country, we can't be saying that students should keep to the classrooms and leave politics to the politicians. I believe it is important for students to express their opinions on important issues. And it doesn't do any good merely to express them at home."

"We are nothing but a family darling if we come to a university and don't take active interest in what is going on in the country," says Ilgi Adalan, a fine arts major as Istanbul University in Turkey. "We must always bear in mind that Ataturk (Kemal Ataturk, founder of the modern Turkish state) entrusted this country to its youth."

Other factors enter into student activity.

In Turkey, almost 80 per cent of the population is illiterate—thus giving university and college students a greater significance than in the United States, where education is not limited to a comparative handful. The students are aware of this, and want to live up to their place in the country's intelligentsia.

In Japan, education and teachers command high respect. The university student is a person apart from the masses. Parents scrimp, save and deny themselves to send their children to the universities.

Coming from this background, the students often long to crusade against social injustice. Communists have exploited the sentiment, and the teachings of Lenin and Marx exert considerable attraction.

ACCENTUATED

The trend was accentuated after the war by the breakdown of the authority of the older generation, discredited by defeat and bewildered by the sweeping Democratic reforms introduced during the U.S occupation.

A 21-year-old student at Keio University — attended mainly by children of wealthier parents— said: "The students have their own outlook. They should study. But they want a world in which they can enjoy their studies. I think the students' voice in national affairs should be greater.

"The society of the future must rest in the hands of the workers who are the producers. As long as man is exploiting man, this is a bad world."

Some circumstances of Japanese academic life foster student activity off-campus. There is no strict insistence on attendance at classes. Some schools have more students than desks. Professors often absent themselves from classes, sometimes to attend academic conferences, sometimes to study. This gives students a great deal of time off.

In Korea student spokesman Le Su-hueng emphasizes:

"We don't want to support any particular political party or organization."

"Most of the meetings we held at Istanbul University before the April riots were not really political in character," says Turkey's Miss Urkmezgil. "They were in the form of protests against the trampling of freedom by the old regime."

Few of the Turkish students active in the demonstrations against Menderes were interested in going into government service.

"Liberal arts appeals to me more," says Miss Urkmezgil.

"I am an artist," says Ilgi Adalan, son of a philosophy professor.

Legislation On Ward System Is Discussed

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Despite criticism of the ward system for parish road operations, legislation is advancing in the current session to defer a deadline for elimination of this system in order to secure certain state aid, according to the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR).

A 1955 law required parishes to adopt a unit system for road operations by June, 1958, in order to continue receiving $2.5 million a year in state aid. This deadline was extended two years in 1958. A bill has passed the House and is under senate consideration to again defer this deadline in 1964.

PAR said that the ward system "has been subject to frequent criticisms, both in Louisiana and in other states."

A unit system where operations are based on parish - wide planning and use of centralized control of purchasing, equipment, and personnel is held more efficient.

A study of the Louisiana highway program by the Automotive Safety Foundation was the basis for action of the legislature in 1955 to require parishes to adopt a unit system in order to secure state aid. A little less than half the parishes now operate under a unit system. The number of parishes under the unit system is about the same as five years ago.

PAR noted in its weekly Legislative Bulletin that the state now supplies more money for parish road purposes than is supplied by the parishes and thus "the state has a real stake in receiving assurance that parish roads are administered in an economical and efficient manner."

Women's Part In Two Conventions

EDITOR'S NOTE—They haven't conquered the smoke-filled rooms, but when the national conventions come to order, the ladies will be greatly in evidence. Here's a report on the women's increasing role at our quadrennial political spectacles.

By FRANCES LEWIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to get heard in political conventions was a big hurdle for women.

It was particularly true for the very first Democratic woman delegate 60 years ago.

"A sweet-voiced, pleasant-faced woman," Eilazbeth Cohen of Salt Lake City responded to loud calls of "Utah" after the 22-minute uproar that followed another delegate's nomination speech for William Jennings Bryan.

Ascending the platform before 20,000 persons at the Kansas City convention that July day in 1900, Mrs. Cohen was making history. Women still were 20 years away from getting the vote, but she was the first delegate of her sex seated by the Democrats since they began holding conventions in 1832. And she was getting a chance to speak as well.

Mrs. Cohen's speech was brief. In just 55 words she seconded Bryan's nomination for president and declared that Utah pledged a 25,000-vote majority for him in November.

But—"not a word that she uttered could be heard 10 feet away," the New York Times reported next day.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Cohen "entertained the audience, and they applauded her just as vociferously as if they knew all she had said and appreciated her sentiment," the newspaper account added.

Though it started faintly, the volume has been turned up considerably on the voice of women at national conventions—both by electronics and by their booming political influence.

Some 1,200 women will be delegates and alternates to the two conventions this month, quite a jump from one delegate each that Utah sent to the conventions of 1900.

And by historical coincidence, among the women delegates in 1960, is the granddaughter of William Jennings Bryan. She's attractive Mrs. Rudd Brown, 39, wife of a well known scientist. A delegate from California, she's running for Congress as well.

In the 60 years since they were first seated, women have gotten in just about everywhere in convention circles. They've made speeches by the score, headed important committees, been floor managers and emissaries for political deals.

The dulcet tones of women now call the roll of states as secretaries of the national conventions —Dorothy Vredenburgh of Birmingham, Ala., for the Democrats and Elizabeth Heffelfinger of Wayzata, Minn., for the Republicans.

Back in 1932, a famous woman even broke into the male monopoly on convention invocations, Evangeline Booth, daughter of the founder of the Salvation Army and well known for her eloquence.

But the women still haven't quite managed to make the smoke-filled rooms give way to perfume.

Lots of lady politicians say they're getting a better crack at policy-making. But others go along with veteran National Committeewoman Judy Weis, Republican congresswoman from New York.

"When the major decisions are to be made—the selection or endorsement of candidates and the planning of top campaign strategy—the women, almost without exception, are left in the parlor," she says.

There have been many memorable convention firsts for women. The biggest break-through, after the suffrage amendment in 1920, was the expansion of both national committees to include one man and one woman from each state.

Thirty-two years later, in 1952, the Republicans upset this equal sex balance by giving bonus membership to chairman from states that went Republican in the past presidential elections. Since all GOP state chairmen are men, the women are now in the minority.

Going into the 1960 convention, the women are reminding die-hard male politicians that latest census figures show a femine majority among the country's eligible voters — 51.5 per cent women. They outnumber men by 3,283,000 and could swing an election.

A could-be president, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) acknowledges that the women's vote represents the margin of victory for any candidate.

Despite all this growing power, no woman has ever been nominated for the presidency by either major party.

To be sure, a few intrepid feminists tried it on their own. And way back in 1884 Belva Lockwood, first woman lawyer to practice before the Supreme Court, ran as nominee of the National Equal Rights party of the Pacific Coast. She predicted that just getting a woman's name on the presidential ballot "will give men something to talk about for years to come."

Belva, who came from the State of Washington to take up the challenge of equal rights, was quite a lawyer and a power in her day. But despite her prediction, most men — and even women — don't even remember her today.

So far four women—all Democrats — have gained such prominence in their party that their names have been placed in nomination for vice president—as a courtesy, hardly seriously. And all but one quickly withdrew in favor of a man. There are no signs of a woman nominee for 1960.

Clare Boothe Luce, long prominent in Republican politics, says it is obvious a woman neither could, nor should be president or vice president now. Ex-Ambassador and ex-Congresswoman Luce thinks it's time to create the office of second vice president, which would be filled only by a woman.

The first nomination of a woman for vice president came in 1924, a year the Democrats required 103 exhausting ballots to name their presidential nominee. Mrs. Leroy Smith, a delegate-at-large from South Carolina, had already cracked tradition by becoming the first woman to head a major convention committee, Credentials.

Then her name was placed in nomination by her home state. On the first ballot she got 18 votes for vice president, all that South Carolina could give her.

The convention gave Charles W Bryan of Nebraska the second spot on the ticket, but none of the weary delegates thought to make it unanimous. Thus, Mrs. Smith went into the record books with her 18 loyal votes intact.

At the very next Democratic conclave in Houston, Tex., a similar honor fell to famed Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, who was the first woman governor in America elected to the Wyoming post after her attorney-husband died in office.

Mrs. Ross was credited with 31 votes on the first ballot for vice president, including six from her own state.

But she didn't let it stand. After the first ballot, Mrs. Ross rose to announce: "I change my voting support to Sen. (Joseph T.) Robinson of Arkansas," who was then nominated.

For the next 24 years women consolidated their power in politics without making the splash of getting themselves placed in nomination.

But in 1952, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs took a hand in things at their Boston convention. The nonpartisan organization endorsed Sen. Margaret Smith (R-Maine) then serving her first term in the Senate, for the GOP vice presidential nomination.

The candidates were realistic about it. Judge Hughes, with 20 years on the bench and three terms in the Texas Legislature, was asked by a male reporter if she expected to get the nomination.

"No, I have very little chance," she conceded, "but if women want to get places in politics, they must get into the arena and fight."

Mrs. Smith also gave her consent to run, but political considerations worked against her.

That year the Republicans met first in Chicago. Clare Boothe Luce, a delegate from Connecticut, got the floor and announced it was "the desire of the women delegates and millions of Republican women throughout the nation that I should put into nomination for the vice presidency the name of Margaret Chase Smith." But that was as close as Republicans got to nominating a woman.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had tabbed Sen. Richard M. Nixon as his running mate.

Mrs. Luce continued: "It seems there is to be one name placed in nomination for the vice presidency. (Therefore) it is the request of Margaret Chase Smith that her name be withdrawn. She herself does not wish to create on this floor any divisions of loyalties which have not already existed."

Ten days later, when the Democrats took over the Chicago convention scene, they placed not just one woman but two in nomination for the vice presidential spot.

Judge Hughes, of course, was one candidate. The other was India Edwards, a former Chicago newspaperwoman, who had served four years as vice chairman and director of women's activities for the Democrats. This year, Mrs. Edwards will be at the convention promoting Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for president.

Mrs. Edwards didn't stay in the ring long. A New Jersey Delegate, Thelma Parkinson Sharp of Vineland, who's back again this year too, announced Mrs. Edwards thanked her supporters and "wants them to know she is pleased with the nomination of Sen. (John) Sparkman" of Alabama.

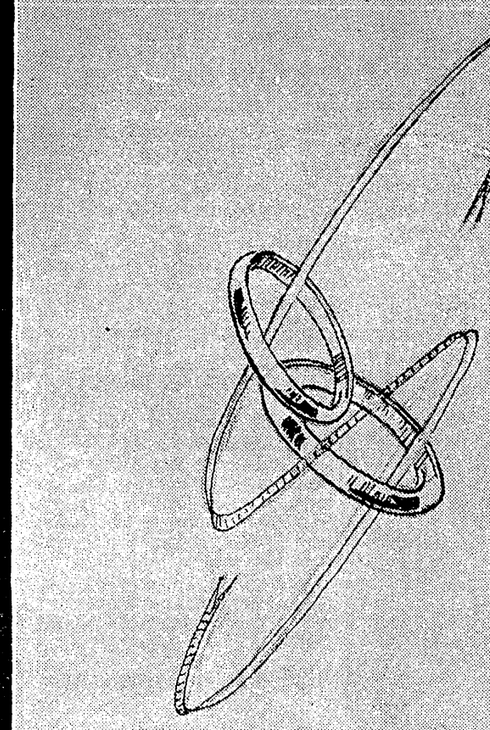
Above: White gladioli, stock, and chrysanthemums lighted by white tapers decorated St. David's Episcopal church in Rayville for the marriage yesterday morning of Miss Margaret Caswell Ellis of New York City and Dr. Harry Meryl Brian of Alexandria. The bride is the daughter of Judge Carey J. Ellis of Rayville and the late Mrs. Innes Morris Ellis. The groom's parents are Mrs. N. M. Brian of Montgomery and the late Dr. N. M. Brian.

At right: Robert Franklin Courtney, Jr., of Monroe, claimed as his bride, Miss Sarah Faye Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Daniel Crawford of Jefferson City, Tennessee, in a ceremony performed in Jefferson City on Sunday, June 26. The Rev. L. T. Hastings of Knoxville, formerly of Monroe, officiated. The groom is the son of Mrs. R. F. Courtney of Monroe and the late Mr. Courtney.



Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist church of Prescott, Arkansas, Miss Margaret Hunter Scott of West Monroe and George Weaks Hayes of Monroe were united in marriage by the Rev. Alfred DeBlack. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Scott of Prescott, and the groom's mother is Mrs. M. P. Hayes of Monroe.

Below: Miss Dianne Prestwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Prestwood of West Monroe, became the bride of Wayne Malvin Van, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Van of Monroe, in a ceremony performed Tuesday night in the First Baptist church of West Monroe. The Rev. Jaroy Weber officiated.

Below: The First Methodist church in Monroe was the scene of the marriage of Miss Barbara Juanita Elliott and Herschel Alvis Gentry on Friday evening, June 24. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hosea Elliott, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Ace Gentry, all of Monroe.

Below: Captain and Mrs. Joseph A. Young of Jacksonville, Ark., are today announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Era Lee Parks, to Lieutenant Larry E. Thigpen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Housewarmings are nice for several reasons: to have a new house is a thrill; to surprise friends is fun; and then any old reason is a good one for having a party. Two of the new homes on Pargoud boulevard were "warmed" with parties during the past week. So honored were the HAROLD L. WOODS and the MERON ABINGTONS.

The party at the new Woods home last night was planned by about thirty friends, including some from as far away as Dallas, Fort Worth, and New London, Texas. The honorees were presented with a scrapbook containing pictures and an original poem. The housewarming presents were silver julep glasses, each inscribed with the name of the donor.

Buffet supper was served, with the guests bringing the food. On the menu were barbecued filet, served with buns for make - your - own steak sandwiches; chicken salad; lobster mousse; and various cheeses and cold meats.

A leaded fanlight tops the door of the colonial brick home. In the entrance hall, the flooring is of pegged random - width oak. The white walls and white wainscotting which begin here continue through the living and dining rooms. Chinese Chippendale furniture is used throughout, with accessories and lamps carrying out the Chinese theme.

Walls and carpet in the living room pick up the blue from the Chinese tiles which hang on the wall. A blue and white print covers the sofa and appears again in the draperies. A pair of lacquer red Queen Anne chairs are placed before the ceiling-to-floor windows which open onto the front porch . . . Chippendale furniture is used in the dining room, with its walls of Chinese print on a blue background. The brass Williamsburg chandelier reflects in the gold leaf mirror over the buffet.

Behind the entrance hall and the living room is the den, which continues the floor of random width oak. Walls are cream-ribbed cypress, which wood is also used for the built-in cabinets and bookcases which line each end of the room. Black Tole lamps flank the sofa, upholstered in a Chinese poppy print . . . Folding doors on each side of the fireplace give onto the loggia, with its brick walls and quarry tile floor. Chinese Chippendale chests are used as end tables, and lamps are of pewter finished with brass Chinese figures . . . The glass walls of the loggia open onto the brick patio with its lovely bayou view.

Kitchen and breakfast room are papered in a delicate Arcadian print of shepherds and shepherdesses. Cabinets of fruitwood - finished walnut are masterpieces of planned storage. The walnut breakfast room table with its black chairs, upholstered in blue, is placed in a bay window with a bayou view.

In the bedroom wing, each has its own entrance. In the master bedroom, furniture is white French provincial used with a blue and ivory print on the sofa, for the draperies, and the dust ruffle. On one side of the room is the carefully planned dressing room and wardrobe closets, and on the other, the cypress panelled gym, with space provided for hunting and fishing storage . . . Son HARDEMAN CORDELL's room also features gun and boot storage near his private entrance. This room is done in browns, with a material printed with antique guns . . . Daughter CAROLYN CORDELL's bedroom and bath are pink and white. The plastic wipe - clean material used to "paper" the bath also appears in the panels of the sliding doors. In the bedroom, embroidered organdy draperies draw over a pink print undercurtain. Easy chair and carpet are also pale pink.

About forty-five friends from Bastrop drove down last Thursday night to surprise the MERTON ABINGTONS. They brought a real old - fashioned fried-chicken-and-potato salad type picnic meal.

The Abingtons' brown and beige brick home is built on an interesting T - shaped pattern. "Head and arms" of the T are the living room, dining room, and kitchen, built around a center brick wall, each with three exposures. The bedroom wing forms the base of the T as it extends toward the street.

Ivy trees planted in redwood tubs grace the entrance court, which is also planted with caliadium and white geraniums . . . In the entry, a pair of antiqued turquoise chairs flank an antique desk holding part of Ellen's collection of china and glassware. The grouping is placed before the pink brick wall whose other side forms the open fireplace in the living room.

To the right of the entrance is the breakfast room, with the table placed in the large window overlooking the court. As one enters, one faces the mahogany bunch holding antique plates and cuglass. Framed English prints of the four seasons hang against the gum panelling . . . The terrazzo flooring and gum panelling continue into the kitchen area, with its aqua counters and built-in work centers.

The dining area to the left of the entrance is carpeted in beige and features glass walls on two sides. Draperies of sheer white with a gold stripe echo the colors of the antiqued white and gold furniture.

Three walls of the living room feature windows, with an open fireplace in the fourth wall of pink brick. The pitched ceiling is accented by the indirect lighting encircling the room . . . An area rug of beiges and browns was the housewarming present at the party. It is placed on the terrazzo floor before the sofa and coffee table.

In the guest bedroom, walnut antique furniture is used to advantage, while the master bedroom features pine. Scenic wallpaper depicting a New England village forms the focal point of the room.

In answer to a number of requests, here are more quotes from Mark Twain:

"Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits."

"To be good is noble; but to show others how to be good is nobler and no trouble."

"Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example."

"We know all about the habits of the ant, we know all about the habits of the bee, but we know nothing at all about the habits of the oyster. It seems almost certain that we have been choosing the wrong time for studying the oyster."

"Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education."

"One of the striking differences between a cat and a lie is that a cat has only nine lives."

"Consider well the proportions of things. It is better to be a young June-bug than an old bird of paradise."

"She was not quite what you would call refined. She was not quite what you would call unrefined. She was the kind of person that keeps a parrot."

"Noise proves nothing. Often a hen who has merely laid an egg cackles as if she had laid an asteroid."

"It were not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse - races."

"Wrinkles should merely indicate where smiles have been."

"The proverb says that Providence protects children and idiots. This is really true. I know it because I have tested it."

"In my early manhood and in middle life, I used to vex myself with reforms every now and then. And I never had occasion to regret these divergencies for, whether the resulting deprivations were long or short, the rewarding pleasure which I got out of the vice when I returned to it always paid me for all that it cost."

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Eddye Jo Meeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meeks of Farmerville, and John Earl Albritton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Albritton, also of Farmerville. The wedding is planned for eight in the evening, Friday, August 5, in the First Baptist church of Farmerville.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Mary Frances Davidson, of Ruston, to Harold Loyd Bledsoe of El Dorado, Arkansas, has been announced. She is the daughter of Mrs. John Davidson and the late Mr. Davidson of Dubach. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bledsoe of El Dorado. The wedding will be an event of July 9, 1960.

Miss Hobbs, Mr. Alexander Wed At Home

Miss Winne Mae Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs of Manifest, La., and Larry H. Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Alexander, also of Manifest, exchanged wedding vows in a quiet ceremony held in the home of the bride's parents, at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 18.

Guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Alexander and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. David Bradford and family, Mr. Charlie Tullos, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Ewing and Edris, Mrs. James Alexander and children, Mr. Whitt Phillips, Mr. C. P. Lacy, Raymond Weeks, Ronnie Tullos and Betty Weeks.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will return to Manifest and visit their families and then move to Fort Sill, Okla., where Cpl. Alexander will be stationed with the U. S. Army.

Brown-Hyde Vows Spoken

Miss Patsy Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brent Hyde of Monroe, became the bride of Thomas M. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brown of Bastrop. The ceremony took place on June 24 at the home of the groom's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse D. Brown Jr., of Swartz, with the Rev. H. M. Roach officiating.

Miss Ada Castleberry of Bastrop served as interpreter.

Both the bride and the groom are former students of the Louisiana School for the Deaf in Baton Rouge.

Miss Barbara Elliott Is Bride Of Herschel Gentry

In a ceremony performed June 24 in the First Methodist Church in Monroe, Miss Barbara Elliott became the bride of Herschel Alvis Gentry. The Rev. Robert Holliday officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hosea Elliott, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Ace Gentry, all of Monroe.

Greenery and lighted tapers decorated the church for the wedding. Miss Faye Parker and Miss Betty Mantrozos, who lighted the candles, were identically attired in waltz length dresses of romance blue silk organza. They wore wrist corsages of white roses.

Mrs. Everett Zeagler gave a pre-nuptial concert at the organ as the guests were being seated by the ushers, Robert S. Coleman; William R. Willis, of Clarksdale, Miss.; Sheldon L. Ray; Robert J. Mitchell of Zachary, La.; John C. Ensminger; and Charles Wilkins of Baton Rouge. Mrs. Zeagler accompanied Palmer Jarrell as he sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Elliott escorted his daughter to the altar, which was decorated with arches of smilax and baskets of white gladioli. The bride wore a full length gown of antique white satin. Its simplicity was enhanced by a sweetheart neckline and long tapered lace sleeves coming to a point over the hands. A scalloped pearl tiara held her fingertip tulle veil appliqued with lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Lillian Price, was attired in a waltz length dress of romance blue silk organza. Her headdress was a bandeau of romance blue leaves and flowers holding a blue veil, and she carried white gladioli.

Miss Rebecca Huenefeld, junior bridesmaid, was attired identically and carried white gladioli. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., was best man.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Bouquets of white gladioli were placed throughout the reception suite. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Elliott was wearing a mauve lace dinner dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Gentry, mother of the groom, chose turquoise organza accented with white lace roses at the neckline and a white Italian lace stole. She wore turquoise accessories and a white orchid corsage.

White linen cutwork cloths covered the refreshment table, which was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli flanked with blue candles. White gladioli also surrounded the twin punch bowls, where Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., sister of the groom, and Mrs. Robert Copeland served punch.

The blue and white wedding cake, placed on a reflector and surrounded with white flowers, centered a round table covered with a white net cloth caught with sprays of greenery. Mrs. Charles Wilkins, sister of the groom, of Baton Rouge, served the cake. Others who assisted with the courtesies were Miss Laura Bowles, Miss Jeanette McDonald, and Miss Celia Mantrozos.

For the wedding trip to Kentucky, the bride wore an ensemble of beige imported cotton, with a large collar of beige organza. Her organza cloche was a matching beige, as were her other accessories, and her corsage was a white orchid. Upon their return, they will make the home in Monroe.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gentry are graduates of Northeast Louisiana State College. The bride is a member of Phi Mu sorority and Phi Beta honorary. A member of Kappa Alpha, the groom was also elected to Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity.

Miss Dianne Prestwood Weds Wayne Van Tuesday

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe was the scene of the marriage of Miss Dianne Prestwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Prestwood of West Monroe, to Wayne Malvin Van, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Van of Monroe.

Pink gladioli, greenery, and numerous pink candles formed the background as Rev. Jaroy Weber performed the double ring ceremony on June 28.

"One Alone" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Jim Stroud, who was accompanied on the organ by Bob Oldenburg.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of chantilly lace over bridal satin featuring a Sabrina neckline embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Tulle ruffles trimmed in scalloped lace formed the chapel train. Her headdress was a white lace band trimmed in seed pearls with a fingertip veil of silk illusion. The bridal bouquet was of white stephanotis with a white orchid in the center.

Miss Georgia Ruth Owens served as maid of honor, wearing orchid silk organza over taffeta. An orchid band with a short scalloped veil trimmed in white lace flowers formed her headdress. Her bouquet was a white lace fan covered with orchid carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. John Huntsman, Mrs. R. J. Wills, Mrs. Charles White, Miss Shirley Gardinia, and Miss Anita Roach, wore dresses of orchid silk organza over taffeta, trimmed in satin. The headdresses were made up of an orchid band with a short orchid veil, and they carried bouquets identical to that of the maid of honor.

Miss Gayle Perkins, dressed identically as the bridesmaids, served as junior bridesmaid. Lighting the candles were Mrs. Tom Mulhearn Jr., and Mrs. J. C. Scalia, who wore dresses of silk organza and wrist corsages of white carnations.

R. C. Perkins acted as best man, with Gerald Thorn, Gene Hubbard, Jim Stroud, James Farmer, Woody Boyles, and Mike Prestwood as groomsmen.

A reception was held in the church after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink taffeta and decorated with pink bows, candles and gardenias. The wedding cake was a pink and white confection. Assisting with the serving were Miss Bonnie McMillian and Mrs. Ed Cromwell, with Miss Beverly Cain, cousin of the bride, at the guestbook.

For their honeymoon trip to New Orleans and Baton Rouge, the bride chose a white linen sheath with a short jacket of bright floral print trimmed in white. Her accessories were white and for her corsage she wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She is now attending Northeast State College. The groom graduated from Ouachita High School and is presently attending Northeast State College.

Out-of-town guests for the occasion were: Mrs. Thomas Cain, Miss Beverly Cain, Miss Lula Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Guin, Mrs. W. F. Via, and Miss Betty Via, all of Huttig, Arkansas; Mrs. Lloyd Ray, sister of the groom, of Wichita Falls, Texas; Mrs. W. H. Holder, sister of the groom of Baton Rouge, and Miss Linda Pickett of Bastrop.

Miss Scott Weds G. W. Hayes In Prescott Rites

The First Methodist Church in Prescott, Arkansas, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margaret Hunter Scott of West Monroe and George Weaks Hayes of Monroe at three in the afternoon, Sunday, June 26. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Scott of Prescott, and Mrs. M. P. Hayes of Monroe is mother of the groom.

English ivy covered the choir and chancel rail, where the Rev. Alfred DeBlack heard the vows under an arch of ivy and daisies.

Tiers of candles behind the arch were lighted by Miss Mary Agnes Scott of Little Rock, and Miss Ann Scott of North Little Rock, cousins of the bride. They were dressed in Dior blue silk organza and wore wrist corsages of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Roderick Fitzgibbon presented a program of pre-nuptial music and accompanied Eugene Kuyper, who sang "I Love Thee," "If I Could Tell You", and "The Lord's Prayer."

Maid of honor was Miss Linda Scott, sister of the bride, who wore a Dior blue silk organza styled with full skirt, fitted bodice, and shirred elbow length sleeves. Her headdress was a white clip hat with tulle veiling. She carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose with blue ribbon streamers.

Mrs. George Fritz and Mrs. Robert Burnside of Little Rock and Mrs. James G. Manville of St. Louis, Mo., were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried single yellow roses tied with yellow ribbon.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her white bridal gown featured a lace bodice and long lace sleeves forming points over the hands. Three offset lace panels accented the skirt of silk organza over taffeta and tulle, which flowed into a short chapel train. A crown tiara of seed pearls, irridescent sequins and lace held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Doyle Grigsby of West Monroe attended Mr. Hayes as best man, and Ray Wilson, Harold Kennedy, and L. A. Newman, all of Monroe, were groomsmen.

Mrs. Hayes, mother of the groom, was wearing a pink linen sheath with a hat in shades of pink, and other accessories of white. Her flowers were yellow sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. A massive arrangement of blue palm mums was used on the piano, and the bride's bouquet was placed on the table with the bride's book.

The refreshment table was centered with blue palm mums and white stock arranged in a silver candelabra - epergne with six candles. The tiered cake was placed at one end, and punch was served at the other.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Rockaway Beach, Missouri, Mrs. Hayes was wearing a navy blue shantung sheath with white chiffon scarf at the neck. Her accessories were white, and she wore a white orchid corsage. On their return, they will be at home in West Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Henderson State Teachers' college, where she was a member of Alpha Chi and Kappa Delta Pi honoraries. Mr. Hayes attended Northeast Louisiana state college, and was graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

Goza-Thompson Vows Spoken

The First Baptist Church in Natchez was the setting on Sunday, June 19 for the wedding of Miss Edith Ann Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Thompson of Natchez, and Robert Alexander Goza, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mec Goza, of Natchez. The Rev. B. B. Rogers, pastor of the Jefferson Street Methodist Church officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Cappie Sterling of Leland, Miss., served as the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were: Miss Louise Blackwell, Leland; Mrs. Frances Blackwell and Miss Doris Hayes, of Shreveport; Miss Bobbye Jean Mashon, cousin of the bride of Independence, La., and Miss Gwendolyn Thompson, Natchez, sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Room of the church. Following a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Gulf coast, they will make their home in Natchez.

Mrs. Ray Is Hostess To Bosco HDC

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. P. M. Jeter on July 19.

A FALL WEDDING is foretold by the announcement today of the engagement of Miss Monie Jean Manning and Darrell Woodall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Woodall of Shreveport. The announcement is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. McCready of West Monroe. The ceremony will be in Shreveport, where the couple will live.

Miss Ellis, Dr. Brian Are Wed In Rayville Saturday

Claiming wide interest throughout this section was the marriage on Saturday morning, June twenty-fifth of Miss Margaret Caswell Ellis of Rayville and New York City to Dr. Harry Meryl Brian of Alexandria, which was solemnized at St. David's Episcopal Church in Rayville.

The quiet reverence of the small church was enhanced on this occasion by the glow of festival and sacramental candles at the altar, illuminating tapered arrangements of white stock and miniature white mums. In the chancel the nuptial setting was formed by floor standards of white gladioli, stock and mums, placed before cathedral tapers in floor candelabra.

Witnesses to the event were a host of friends from throughout Louisiana and Mississippi. The bride is the daughter of Judge Carey J. Ellis of Rayville, and the late Mrs. Innes Morris Ellis, formerly of New Orleans. The groom is son of Mrs. N. M. Brian of Montgomery, Louisiana, and the late Dr. N. M. Brian. Mrs. Brian was, before her marriage, Miss Eunice Anna Gardner of St. Maurice, La.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pearl white silk taffeta, cut on princess lines with a portrait neckline and short sleeves. The long skirt was gathered in folds at the back, with roses of white taffeta cascading down the side panel, which ended in a chapel train. She wore a circular handmade veil with deep edging of Belgian lace and inset medallions of the same lace. A string of matched pearls at her throat was her gift from the groom. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses with streamers of pearls.

Attending as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. W. M. Green, and bridesmaid was Mrs. Carey J. Ellis, Jr. Their gowns were identical, fashioned of pale blue ribbon - lace with graceful flared skirts of informal length, worn over blue taffeta, and accented by sashes of blue taffeta. Their hats were of blue net, caught to a nosegay of tiny blue flowers. They carried bouquets of deep pink rosebuds.

Junior bridesmaid were Elizabeth Brian, Ellis Green and Kitty Green. The young girls wore frocks of white organdy, with tucked bodice and lace insets, and with frothy skirts of informal length. Their waists were tied with sashes of blue taffeta, matching those of the adult attendants, and their blue net hats were also similar. Their bouquets were deep pink rosebuds.

Standing with the groom as best man was Dr. Richard H. Morris of Alexandria. His groomsmen were Dr. N. M. Brian, Jr., Dr. Francis M. Brian, W. Hey Brian, all of Alexandria, and Carey J. Ellis, Jr. of Rayville.

The Very Reverend Richard W. Wilson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was by Mrs. J. Y. Abraugh at the organ, and candles were lighted by acolytes William M. Green, Jr. and Carey J. Ellis, III.

Immediately following the ceremony Judge and Mrs. Ellis received friends at a reception at their home honoring the newly married couple. Mrs. Ellis wore a gown of blue chiffon, with small matching hat and a corsage of blue orchids. Mother of the groom was gowned in soft pink lace with matching hat, and a pink orchid corsage.

Wedding cake, punch and tiny sandwiches were served from a reception table, overlaid by a cloth of white cutwork, and centered by an arrangement of white agapanthus and fern, flanked by candles in triple silver candelabra.

Mrs. Wallace Atkinson, aunt of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake. Mrs. J. W. Perry, sister of the groom, presided at the silver punch service.

Misses Sue Francis, Judy Atkinson, Bernice Girault and Charlotte Stodghill assisted as tea girls. Mrs. Robert Cudd was in charge of the bride's book.

For her going - away ensemble Mrs. Brian wore black and white checked cotton with pleated skirt and black patent belt. She wore a black straw hat, and other accessories of black. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Dr. and Mrs. Brian left following the reception for a wedding trip to Jamaica, Haiti and other points in the Caribbean. When they return they will be at home to friends at 1912 Magnolia Drive, Plantation Acres, Alexandria, Louisiana.

The bride, a graduate of the Rayville High School, attended Newcomb College, and received her B. A. degree from L. S. U. She has had additional study at the University of North Carolina and at the New York School of Social Work. Before her marriage she was supervisor of the after - care division of Children's Village in New York City. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority.

Dr. Brian is a member of the staff of the Baptist Hospital and of St. Frances Cabrini Hospital in Alexandria. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery, a member of Phi Chi medical fraternity and of Theta Xi social fraternity. He received his B. S. and M. D. degrees from Louisiana State University, and did post graduate work in surgery at the Louisiana State University School of Medicine and at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

Sticky Biscuits

If your baking powder biscuit dough is very sticky you've added too much liquid. Flours vary, so sometimes a few tablespoons more or less milk than the recipe calls for is required.

Miss Cooper, C. L. Hinton, Jr. Wed In Church

The Central Baptist Church of Monroe was the scene on June 18, of the wedding of Miss Carolyn Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooper, and C. L. Hinton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hinton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles B. Littleton.

The couple exchanged vows before an arch interwoven with greenery and white gladioli and surrounded with baskets of white gladioli and candelabras holding lighted tapers.

A prenuptial concert was presented by the organist, Miss Charolette Salley. "Because" was sung by Jim Stroud and Ben Carroll sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, wore a ballerina length gown of lace, featuring a bodice lined with ice blue and short cap sleeves. The skirt was appliqued in panels. Her veil of illusion fell softly from a crown of sequins and pearls, and her bouquet was of French carnations attached to a white Bible.

DeLane Cooper, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, with Miss Shirley Gardy and Miss Patricia Roberts as candlelighters. Their dresses were of blue mist silk organza. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of pink carnations and the candelighters had corsages of pink carnations. Their headdresses were of tulle and flowers.

For the ceremony, the bride's mother chose a dress of pink pure silk with pearls and rhinestones appliqued at the neckline. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a dress of pink linen appliqed with pearls at the neckline, and her accessories were pink and white. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

The reception was held in the church immediately following the ceremony. A cloth of pink linen and tiered net covered the bride's table, with an arrangement of pink carnations and wedding bells as a centerpiece. The tiered wedding cake was iced in blue and white, and ice blue punch was served from a silver punch bowl.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. J. J. David, Miss Silvia Hinton, sister of the groom, Miss Gloria Cummings, Mrs. Elaine Moore, Miss Bonnie Cobb, Miss Joy Sterling, and Mrs. Barbara McCavaughey.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a two - piece dacron and cotton sheath coat dress. The short waist was of brown and white polka dots with the jacket lines in the same material. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of white carnations which was taken from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Good Grooming Essential For Vacation Fun

Which vacation type are you? A traveler to national parks or castles on the Rhine? A sports-and-sun devotee at a gay resort? Or maybe a beachcomber, lolling under palm trees gently ruffled by the trade winds? One factor applies to any vacation: To have the most fun, you must plan a few steps ahead of your itinerary — cleanliness care. By all means relax during your vacation, but never relax your good grooming program.

Good grooming adds the magic finishing touch to your appearance. It also pays big dividends in vitality, health, and morale. And any woman knows that the way she looks and the way she feels play an important part in her enjoyment of new places and new situations.

You should be aware that you will need special complexion care. Touring, exercise, and slipshod washing quickly make your skin "muddy." Guard against this while you're away by washing your face with soapsuds at least twice a day. Make one of these beauty treatments a thorough suds facial — after preliminary washing, gently massage your complexion with rich lather to help remove deepdown soil and grime.

Equip your handbag with a washcloth cut in two, putting each half in a spearate small plastic bag. Each morning, saturate one half with soapsuds and the other with clear water. They will enable you to freshen up wherever you are during a busy day. The lift that this "cleanliness break" gives your spirits will equal its benefits to your beauty.

Bathing is next on the glamour agenda. A bath or shower per day is par for the course at home; but while you are away, an extra one is recommended before dinner. Vacation dinners are usually gala affairs — when you want to look and feel your sparkling best. If you have time, take a five-or-ten-minute catnap after bathing, relaxing with your feet up.

Learn to "air - condition" your body by bathing, too. Strange as it may sound, cool baths are the recipe for cool climates, and warm baths for warm climates.

Any temperature of bath is conducive to good health. Grime contains germs and bacteria. Although you may have built up some immunity to "domestic" varieties, those in foreign and far-off places may cause trouble. So while you're perking up your appearance in the tub, you'll be protecting your health in the same soapy leather!

AUGUST 7 is the date selected for the marriage of Miss Virginia Dare Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parvin D. Roach, of Bastrop, to Huey DeCote of Walker. Elder Harold Holland will officiate at the ceremony at three in the afternoon in the Central Missionary Baptist church in Bastrop.

MISS AUDREY LILLIAN LOFTIN

Loftin-DeLee Date Set For Late August

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Audrey Lillian Loftin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowenthal Bloice Loftin, to Seaborn Booker DeLee, Jr. of Rayville, son of Mrs. Seaborn Booker DeLee, and the late Mr. DeLee of Monroe. The Grace Episcopal Church in Monroe will be the scene of the wedding at 7:00 p.m. on August 23, with Father J. L. Marceaux, Jr., officiating.

Serving as maid of honor will be Miss Peggy Carter of Shreveport, with Mrs. James D. Thrasher of Lafayette, sister of the bride - elect, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Thomas Thompson of Monroe, Miss Jan Beaubocuf of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, and Miss Barbara Futch of Shreveport.

Mr. Neal McDonald of Monroe, will act as best man. W. L. Strong and Larry McDonald, both of Rayville, will be ushers for the occasion, with W. T. Stevenson of New York City; Thomas Hays Perkins III, of Brookhaven, Mississippi: Lowen Bloice Loftin of Delhi, brother of the bride; and John Ernest Peters, Jr., of Monroe, serving as groomsmen.

Miss Loftin is descended from Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter, Sr., and Mrs. F. C. Loftin and the late Mr. Loftin all of Delhi. The grandparents of the bridegroom-elect are the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Noland of Rayville.and the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex DeLee of Monroe.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Holly Ridge High School and received her B. A. degree from Louisiana College, where she was a member of Pi Kappa Delta, National Education Fraternity. She was a member of the faculty last year at Southern Hills Elementary School in Shreveport. The prospective groom received both his B. S., and M. S. degree from Louisiana State University, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He is presently a member of the faculty of Holly Ridge High School.

Wanda Jones Married To C. J. Butler

The marriage of Miss Wanda Jeannette Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jones of Bastrop, and Clinton Jeptha Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Butler of Mer Rouge was solemnized June 18, at the Memorial Methodist Church in Bastrop.

White shasta daisies, magnolia, and fern decorated the sancturary where the vows were heard by Rev. W. E. Nolan.

As the guests were being seated by ushers, Homer Burgess and Billy Dan Laing, a pre-nuptial concert was given by Mrs. Ella Wailes, who also accompanied Miss Sarabeth Boughton as she sang "Always."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of white lace over taffeta with scoop neckline and bell sleeves. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a tiny white headdress of white organza and rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Linda Jones served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of pale pink crystal silk with matching headdress of pink nylon petals. Her bouquet was of pale pink asters.

A reception was held in the recreation hall of the church immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with an imported lace cloth with a single arrangement of white shasta daisies in the center and a crystal punch service at one end of the table. The tiered wedding cake, decorated with pale pink flowers, green leaves and tiny wedding bells, was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The couple will make their home in Bastrop.

MR. AND MRS. CLINTON J. BUTLER

Sun-Tans Need Right Make-Up

If you're going to be caught up this summer in the biggest boating boom that ever swelled the waves, choosing the right make-up to wear aboard that cruiser, sailboat, schooner or yacht can be almost as important as choosing the right gear.

Sun - tanned skins look best with a fluid or cream-type make-up foundation. These do a good job of smoothing out uneven color and at the same time of duplicating the silky sheen that tanned skins acquire.

In applying either type of creamy foundation, use a damp facial sponge. Use make-up sparingly. Don't apply powder, however, until hours later; when the sheen becomes a shine. Then, use a cream - powder from a cake which doesn't leave as mat-like a finish on the skin as loose powder does.

Using pastel shades of lipstick will make your sun-tan look darker. But don't wear pastel shades with a white overcast. This look of blanched color is almost cruelly unflattering to tan faces except those of wide-eyed teen agers. Use iridescent tints for paler colors instead.

If you dine under artificial lights aboard your craft, leave the lipsticks with blue undertones out of your make-up box. When you're surrounded by blue waters, blue - red lips will seem to turn purple. The exceptions to this grim rule are sunny pastel orchid lipstick shades, when worn with subtle orchid shades in clothes.

Wall-Cotton Vows Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Roland M. Cotton of Jonesville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth to Robert L. Wall of Baton Rouge, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Leo Wall of Alexandria.

The wedding will be an event of July 23.

Pale Make-up Best With White Clothes

Pure white is at the height of popularity on this season's fashion scene, and the beautiful new fabrics and styles in this basic of all colors give the wearer a glorious freshness for any occasion. When wearing stark white, however, the utmost care should be taken while applying your make-up, since this clear, clear background will tend to point up the smallest of application flaws.

Although white gives you the freedom of a wide range of color choice in your make-up, rouge, eye shadow, and lipstick should be applied in pastel shades instead of the more vivid tones. The pastels will impart to your features a subtle softness against the bright white of your costume.

Rouge, in particular, should be worn in the palest of shades and blended perfectly. Eye shadow will look most attractive in any of the misty pastel shades, and your lips touched with the bright new pastel shades of pink orange, or the popular new cool coffee colors, will add the perfect finishing touch.

Be sure to wash baby's bottle, nipple, and cap in hot soap or detergent suds immediately after every feeding. Milk sours fast in hot weather and leaves a residue which is hard to remove.

Lovable, plush animals are favorites among the baby set. And these days there's no reason to settle for anything less than a completely washable pet. Baby may not know the difference—but mothers know that only clean toys are sanitary.

Visitors Honored With Party Thursday Morning

Two visitors, both former Monroyans, were named guests of honor when Mrs. Allen Barham and Mrs. Joe Goyne entertained at a morning coffee party on Thursday in the Barham home on Park avenue.

Honored were Mrs. Jack Williams of Birmingham, Alabama, and Mrs. David Gehring of Akron, Ohio. Mrs. Williams, the former Miss Virginia Faulk, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Faulk, while Mrs. Gehring is visiting her mother, Mrs. Felix Terzia.

The hostesses and the honorees greeted guests in the living room which was decorated with a large arrangement of magnolias in a silver wine cooler.

In the dining room, the refreshment table was centered with a crystal epergne filled with daisies and maidenhair fern. Mrs. Burt Sperry, Jr., and Mrs. H. W. McSherry served coffee and iced drinks to about seventy friends who called between ten and twelve.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD E. HALE JR.

Hamilton-Hale Vows Spoken In Crowville

On June 18, in the Crowville Methodist Church, Miss Mamie Jo Hamilton of Winnsboro, became the bride of Edward E. Hale, Jr., of Baskin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Hamilton and Mr. Hale's parents are Edward E. Hale Sr., and the late Mrs. Hale.

The Rev. Edwin H. House, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony. Baskets of white gladioli, greenery and palms decorated the church, illuminated with white cathedral tapers. The bridal party stood before an arch entwined with white flowers and greenery.

Miss Mary Francis Stokes presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Marshall D. Peel, Jr., who sang "I Love You Truly," "Oh Promise Me," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Larry H. Hamilton. Her white floor length gown of French imported lace over taffeta featured a molded bodice; scalloped sabrina neckline outlined with seed pearls; and long fitted sleeves with scallops over the hands. Scallops of the lace overskirt fell from the waistline to the floor. A tulle panel formed the chapel length train appliqued with lace flowers. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of tulle petals. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid surrounded by tiny white carnations.

Miss Glenda Faye Hamilton, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a pink organza over rosebud taffeta model, fashioned with full skirt with scalloped hemline. She wore a matching headpiece with short scalloped veil, and carried a colonial bouquet of deep pink asters with rainbow satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Smith, Miss Gloria Goldsby, Miss Beth DeWitt, and Miss Betty Jean Beall. They wore dresses of pink organza over flesh taffeta, styled as the maid of honor's, and carried colonial bouquets of pink asters.

Miss Donna Sledge, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a white silk organza over white taffeta frock and a short white veil of scalloped organza on a white bandeau.

Joel F. Jones, III, served as best man. Douglas Moore, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Groomsmen were Marshall D. Peel, Jr., Ronald Burns, Donald Williams and C. L. Leonard. Serving as ushers were Jerry Sandifer, and Donald Skinner, nephews of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hamilton wore a gown of mauve lace over cotton satin fashioned with scooped, scalloped neckline, a picture hat of the same material, matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's sister wore an aqua lace over taffeta model, with matching accessories, and an aqua tinted orchid

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen tablecloth. At one end of the table was placed the crystal punch service and the tiered wedding cake was served from the opposite end of the table. A gladioli floral centerpiece was used.

Miss Jane Bivens served the wedding cake and Miss Ann Mount served at the punch service. Mrs. Ronnie Burns asked guests to register in the bride's book. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. L. E. Goldsby, Sr., Mrs. Harold Schooler, and Mrs. Alma Bradley.

After the reception the couple left on their wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark. The bride was wearing a melon colored raw silk sheath model with a jacket. She wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will reside in Baskin.

The bride is a graduate of Crowville High School and is a junior at Louisiana Tech. Mr. Hale graduated from Baskin High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He is employed in Winnsboro.

Handicapped Have Fashion Problems

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Edtor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten million American homemakers have special fashion problems, because accident or disease has left them physically handicapped.

Now, many of these problems are solved with a unique collection of clothing designed by Clarice L. Scott, a home economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture Research Service.

Miss Scott worked with 70 handicapped housewives in the Washington, D. C., area — asking them what special needs were created by a wheel chair, crutches or braces. Most of the women were victims of infantile paralysis, multiple sclerosis or arthritis.

Everything from dresses to shorts, to aprons, to pedal pushers, is included in the wardrobe. The designer points out that many features of the garments would interest the non-handicapped home maker who wants clothing comfortable for housework, easy to care for, and attractive to wear.

The designer showed the clothes today at the American Home Economics Convention in Denver. The details are spelled out in a booklet, which the department sent to me.

Miss Scott said the department had not worked out patterns or instructions for making the clothes. he designs are meant to aid pattern companies and ready-to-wear manufacturers.

All the clothes are easy fitting. Necklines are open. Collars, when used, are low rolling so they won't ride up at the back of the neck when a wheel chair or crutches are used. Skirts are moderately full with front openings that are easy to manage. There is enough yardage — two to two and one-half yards wide— to allow an unhampered walk, and not hinder the wearer in regaining balance if threatened with a fall. Such skirts also help conceal braces.

Some other features:

—Fasteners that are suitable for stiff or unsteady fingers.

—In most garments, above-elbow sleeves which are out of the way of soil and water; sleeveless blouses and dresses for summer; and for warmth in winter, three-quarter length sleeves fashioned to adapt comfortably to the behind of the elbows.

—Beltless waistlines or attached belts so they don't get misplaced.

—"Give" features, using shaped insets, bias cut, or special elasticized or stretch fabrics in places subject to strain.

—Slacks with a long back rise and short front, contributing to comfort during prolonged sitting.

—Pockets, important for holding articles when the hands are occupied with crutches or a chair. Pockets are large and strong, reinforced against strain, and cut higher at the back so that articles do not slide out when the housewife is sitting. Pockets are placed at the side, to be out of the way when a woman does work on her lap. For homemakers who use a wheel chair, there are pockets fitted to the chair arm for organizing and keeping at hand articles — such as pencil, pen, hanky, keys, eyeglasses, memo pad, purse and medicine.

MISS MARCIA LYNN WILLIS

Marriage Plans Told By Miss Willis, Mr. Purvis

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Willis today announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Marcia Lynn Willis, to Joe Davis Purvis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis Purvis of West Monroe.

The bride - elect was graduated from Neville High School and attended Louisiana State University where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. D. H. Curry and the late Mr. Curry of Columbia, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Lem J. Willis of Forest Hill.

Mr. Purvis was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. At the present he is doing graduate research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He belongs to Tau Beta Pi, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Tau Sigma and Sigma Xi. He is the grandson of William Norris and the late Mrs. Norris of Monroe, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Purvis of Monroe.

The ceremony will be performed by the Reverend James T. Horton on August 20 at 8:00 p.m., in the First Baptist Church in Monroe.

Serving her sister as maid of honor will be Miss Judy Jo Willis. The bridesmaids will be Miss Sally Thais Purvis, Miss Mary Ann Purvis, sisters of the groom; Miss Neva Jane Willis of Shreveport, and Miss Marla Amarein of Baton Rouge, cousins of the bride. Miss Rena Conaway and Miss Sandra Simpson will light the candles.

Best man will be Leroy Hafner of Longview, Texas. Groomsmen will be Eugene Ammons of Lake Charles; Farrell J. Perdreauville of Orange, Texas; Fonnie Reagan of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Ward Willis of Shreveport, cousin of the bride.

The couple will make their home in Boston, Massachusetts.

Bathtime

Youngsters will get more enjoyment from bathtubs if you provide playthings for their daily sudsing. Any little boy would like to pretend he's a skipper. And the role will be more realistic if he has a captain's cap and some "yachts" of his own to sail over the bounding soapsuds waves.

These little boats range from the classic sailboat to smooth sports cruisers powered by batteries. No matter which type, a personal "navy" will help make bathing a child's favorite water sport.

Wilkinson-Dunn Wedding Held

In a setting of candles, the wedding of Miss Evelyn Joyce Dunn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeLeon Dunn of Natchez, and Lloyd Ernest Wilkinson, the son of Mrs. Charles Shepherd Wilkinson, of Jonesville, and the late Mr. Wilkinson, was solemnized on Saturday the eighteenth of June, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

The Rev. B. B. Rogers, pastor of the Jefferson Street Methodist Church, performed the double ring rites. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Eugene Murray attended her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were: Mrs. Jasper J. Seale, Mrs. Louise R. Riley, and Mrs. George T. Rouse. Miss Karen Murray was the flower girl.

After the wedding a reception was given in the garden pavilion at Stanton Hall. The couple will make their home in Pine Bluff, Ark.

Keep a frozen ice cream pie on tap in the food freezer during summer months. It always adds a refreshing dessert to family or company meals when served topped with fresh or frozen fruit sauce.

Girl Scout News

Tomorrow's the looked-for day, Independence Day, of course, but also the opening day of day camp for 200 girls and their leaders. At 9:00 o'clock they will gather in horseshoe formation around the flagpole and raise the 50-star flag for the first time. The flag is being presented by the Woodmen of the World on the day that it becomes official.

Unit sites have been assigned, but nothing has been done to take away the fun the girls have in setting up a home in the woods. First a line for lunches, pinned on with clothespins, away from ants. A water cooler is set on a table lashed between trees. Keeping the cooler filled with ice and water is one of the unit kapers. The girls are intrigued with the hand washing system, a wash pan on a lasted tripod, soap on a string to keep it off the ground, water in a bucket with a dipper. Digging a drain for waste water completes the plumbing arrangements. Bulletin board, lashed to a tree, has the kaper chart, which is rotated daily.

Some of the sites, like Whispering Pines, Century Oak, Trail's End, Moss Grove, have been used for years and their names have stuck. There will be at least two new unit sites for which the girls who use them can select a name.

Everybody is hungry by time the work is done, so the packers go to the hall for jars of cool drink. Everybody has her own cup, with her name on it, kept on a cup tree in the unit. The small group stands in a circle, sings grace, and the girls enjoy lunches brought from home, "a picnic every day", as one young camper expressed it. On one day, chosen by the unit, the girls will cook their noon meal, deciding on their menu, practicing firebuilding in advance.

The heart of Girl Scout camping is the unit meeting, a time set aside each day for girls and leaders in each group to plan their own program. Camp council, made up of elected representatives, shares in camp government. Brownie Scouts learn the basic camp skills, go on hikes, learn trees, plants, insects, make leaf prints, sing and play games. Intermediates do all these, too, and base their ten-day program on badges in the out-of-door and nature fields, such as Tree, Adventurer, Outdoor Safety, Rambler, Wild Plant, Insect.

The seventh grade unit will have a thorough review of campcraft and will include an overnight in their plans.

The eighth grade group plans to use the Pioneer badge as program, learning to pitch tents, make caches, and plans to spend two nights in primitive camping. The next older group will carry out a similar program, going to another site for two nights of primitive camping.

Four buses will start picking up campers at 7:30 at Highland School, West Monroe. A bus will leave Lakeshore School at 7:45 and another will leave Mitchell at the same time. At 8:00 buses are due to be at Plum Street, Sherrouse, and Georgia Tucker Schools, and about 8:20, two of them will stop at Lexington. One bus will go out College Avenue and Webster to Sterlington Road, one will go down Glenmar from Sixth, down West Street and Mallory to Oliver Road. Girls may wait for a bus anywhere along Forsythe and at intersections anywhere along bus routes. Happy camping and glorious Fourth!

Good Grooming

Good grooming pays off in any career. A clear, well - scrubbed skin, shining hair that's regularly shampooed and brushed, fresh neat clothes, well-manicured nails — these are valuable assets in landing any job.

Pot Luck Meal

When the hostess suggests a pot luck meal — it is a good idea to have cold foods thoroughly chilled in refrigerator before leaving home. Unless hot foods are to be carried hot and taken only a short distance, they too, should be well chilled for the journey and then heated for serving upon arrival at destination.

To avoid transferring contagion from pets to children, it is important to bathe animals regularly and also to treat their diseases promptly.

MRS. SAMUEL GOULD WELBORN

Miss Guerriero Weds In New Orleans Ceremony

Large fan shaped arrangements of flesh pink peonies decorated the Church of the Most Holy Name of Jesus in New Orleans for the wedding of Miss Marion Louise Guerriero and Dr. Samuel Gould Welborn. The vows were heard by the Right Rev. Sidney A. Tonsmeire, S. J. at six on Wednesday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guerriero of Monroe, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Fowle Welborn of Lexington, North Carolina.

Miss Gloria Kalil of Monroe attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a street length pink organza dress styled with a sheared top and sleeves and full skirt. Her small veiled hat and other accessories were pink, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white stephanotis and pink roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. T. O. Bancroft Jr., of Monroe; Mrs. Gilbert Harkey of Shreveport; Mrs. Gerald J. Breaux, Mrs. Andrew J. Wyly, and Mrs. Theodore J. Miller of New Orleans. Their dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor, and they carried white stephanotis and pink roses.

Mr. Guerriero escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown of white peau de soie was appliqued with Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls. Lace formed the short sleeves, and she wore lace gloves. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train. Her short veil was held by a tiered Swedish pearl crown. She carried a white orchid surrounded with lilies of the valley, small white orchids, and stephanotis.

William Fowle Welborn, Jr., of Lexington, North Carolina was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Dr. James Todd Welborn and John Henry Welborn, brothers of the groom, from Lexington, North Carolina; Joseph Dowling Guerriero, brother of the bride, from Monroe; Dr. Andrew J. Wyly of New Orleans; and John McDowell Moore, of Lexington.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Metairie Country club following the wedding. Palms and large arrangements of flesh pink peonies formed the background for the receiving line.

For her daugher's wedding, Mrs. Geurriero was wearing a powder blue sheath with Chantilly lace bodice, peau do doie cummerbund and drape, and silk shantung skirt. Her organza hat and other accessories were white, and her corsage was a white orchid surrounded with blue lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Welborn chose a cognac silk chiffon sheath, edged with lace around the neck and short sleeves. Her feather hat and elbow length gloves were beige, and other accessories of cognac. She wore a spray of brown orchids.

On Monday preceeding the wedding, feminine members of the wedding party attended the bridesmaids' luncheon at Brennan's restaurant. Brennan's was also the scene of Dr. Welborn's stag party on Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Welborn, parents of the groom, were hosts at a rehearsal dinner Tuesday evening. Three arrangements of pink and white flowers decorated the long table in the private dining room at Commander's Palace. Members of the wedding party and out of town guests attended the dinner.

In addition to members of the wedding, out of town guests were Mrs. John Snelling, T. O. Bancroft, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Henry Guerriero, Mrs. B. W. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. George Guerriero and True, Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guerriero, Mrs. Herbert Cooper, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clarkson of Monroe; Mrs. W. F. Welborn, Jr., Mrs. James Todd Welborn, Miss Addie Todd, Mrs. John M. Moore, of Lexington, North Carolina.

Also Gilbert Harkey, Miss Sheila Harkey, and Master Thomas Harkey and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace of Shreveport; Mrs. George Nomey of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hardy of Atlanta, Georgia; and Dr. and Mrs. William Langlois, of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Liberty Bell Still Brings Doffing Hats, Reverence

By HUGH MULLIGAN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Most of the 1½ million tourists who pass through Independence Hall each year have the same reaction upon first seeing the Liberty Bell.

They reverently doff their hats (although there is no sign urging them to) and then do a double take at the size of the crack running from the lip of the bell clear up to the crown. Most knew about the famous crack but didn't think it was that bad. Some grow indignant that nothing has been done to patch it, and each year quite a few welders offer to do the job for free.

You'd have a splitting headache too if you'd been through what this renowned symbol of liberty has been through in the past 200 years.

It has been bounced off an Army wagon, nearly sold at public auction, left on a railroad siding in snow and rain, twice almost melted down as junk and, in between periods of neglect and adulation, carted about the country to bolster attendance at fairs and expositions.

Few people realize that its prophetic inscripiton, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof," had nothing to do with the American Revolution. The province of Pennsylvania was still devoted to the mother country in 1750, when its Assembly finally got around to adding a steeple to the lovely state house built 14 years before.

Within a year the steeple was rising and Isaac Norris, chairman of the Assembly committee that ran the state house, set about procuring a bell through Robert Charles, London agent for the Colony. Norris chose the famed inscription from Lev. 25:10 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of William Penn's Charter of Privileges, which granted religious freedom to the colony.

"Respected friend, Robert Charles," he wrote on Nov. 1, 1751, "we take the liberty to apply ourselves to thee to get us a good bell, of about 2,000 pounds weight, the cost of which we presume may amount to 100 pounds sterling or perhaps, with the charges, something more."

Charles contacted Thomas Lester's Whitechapel Foundry for a bell modeled after Westminster's "Great Tom," which Henry VIII had hung in honor of Edward the Confessor. By September of the next year Norris cautiously reported, "The bell is come ashore and in good order and we hope it will prove a good one... though we have not yet tried the sound."

His caution was warranted for, as he informed Charles on March 10, 1753, he had "the mortification to hear that it was cracked by a stroke of the clapper without any violence, as it was hung up to try the sound. Though this was not very agreeable to us, we concluded to send it back by Capt. Budden, but he could not take it aboard.

"Upon which two ingenious workmen undertook to cast it here and I am just now informed that they have this day opened the mold and have got a good bell, which I confess pleases me very much that we should venture upon and succeed in the greatest cast, for aught I know, in English America."

But in trying to remedy the brittleness of the British bell the "ingenious workmen," John Pass and Charles Stow Jr., had added an ounce of copper to each pound of melted down bell. It produced a ghastly sound.

"Upon trial," Norris sadly related, "it seems they added too much copper, . . . and were so teased with the witticisms of the town, they had a new mold."

So at last, in May 1753, on the third try, the Liberty Bell finally got off the ground and into the steeple. Still Norris wasn't satisfied. He had the Whitechapel firm send over another bell to replace its first effort, but by this time the Assembly was so fed up it refused to take down the American bell.

The English replacement was hooked up to the state house clock where it remained until it was donated to St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church in 1828. Ironically, this bell, which might have become the Liberty Bell, was destroyed when anti-Catholic North American party rioters set fire to the church in 1844.

Meanwhile, the American bell, to which Pass and Stow had proudly affixed their names, set about its destiny of proclaiming liberty throughout the land. As the official state house bell and unofficial town crier, it alerted the people of Philadelphia to the momentous events leading up to the American Revolution.

It pealed hopefully on Feb. 3, 1757, when Benjamin Franklin went "home to England" to seek redress of colonial grievances.

It pealed joyfully on Jan. 25, 1763, for the treaty of Paris ending the French and Indian Wars.

Later, its clanging became more urgent, more frequent, more defiant. It announced passage of the hated parliamentary acts, news of the Boston Tea Party, the subsequent closing of the port of Boston and belatedly on April 25, 1775, the battles of Lexington and Concord.

In fact, its brazen tumult was heard so often that the Assembly received "a petition from diverse inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia living near the state house, setting forth that they are much incommoded and distressed by too frequent ringing of the great bell."

THE NEWEST United States flag, featuring 50 stars one for each of the states in the union, flutters from the top of a downtown building. This was the first of the 50-star flags to be put up here. The new flag becomes official Monday, July 4. The flag pictured above is on top of the Central Bank building and was put up by Monroe firemen. It was part of a drive aimed at more displaying of U.S. flags here. (Staff Photo)

The bell did not ring on July 4, 1776, since the Declaration of Independence was signed in executive session. But it did ring on July 8, when Col. John Nixon mounted the wooden platform outside the state house for the first public reading of the document.

In 1777, with British troops circling Philadelphia, the Assembly ordered all bells removed from the city lest they fall into enemy hands and be melted into cannons.

Loaded on an ox-drawn baggage cart, the Liberty Bell was taken through the British lines in a convoy of 700 wagons under escort of North Carolina infantry. It tumbled into the dust when its wagon broke down in front of the Moravian Brethren House in Bethlehem, Pa., but finally reached safe haven under the floor of the Zion Reformed Church in Allentown, Pa. In hiding for almost a year, it returned to Philadelphia in time to herald the surrender of Cornwallis and eventually the end of the war.

After that, its role was largely funeral. Its muffled knell announced the deaths of Washington, Hamilton and Jefferson. It tolled for Charles Carroll, last living signer of the Declaration of Independence; for Lafayette, last of Washington's generals, and finally in 1835, for Chief Justice John Marshall, last of the old Federalists, when according to legend it developed its famous crack.

The bell narrowly escaped being sold at auction in 1818, when Pennsylvania moved its capitol to Harrisburg, and was nearly melted down for junk in 1828, when the city of Philadelphia ordered a new bell. Luckily, the Germantown rounder who had the contract for the new bell refused to cart off the old one, was taken to court, forfeited his $400 junk allowance and even had to pay court costs.

Two not so ingenious workmen widened its crack by driving in bolts in an attempt to get a tone out of it for an 1846 Washington's birthday celebration. Voiceless and virtually forgotten, the bell came back in vogue just before the Civil War when an antislavery faction called the Liberty party seized on its famous inscription as a party slogan.

Since 1915, the bell has been on open display on the ground floor of Independence Hall. The public may touch it but may not ring it. It was tapped ceremoniously on V-E and V-J days and, most recently, last fall by a tympanist from the Philadelphia orchestra for a special tape recording that will be used for all future ceremonial ringings.

The bell is still owned by the city of Philadelphia but is now in custody of the National Park Service. Scientists from the Franklin Institute are giving it an exhaustive physical checkup to determine whether traffic vibrations, noxious elements in the air or perspiration from tourist fingertips have any effect on its future life span.

But still after 200 years, the crack is the main topic of bell conversation. Even the British firm which manufactured the first bell and is still doing business at the same old stand, keeps apologizing for its initial failure.

Recently a park service historian wrote to A. A. Hughes, present head of the Whitechapel foundry, for some particulars about that first bell and got this reply: "I have never been able to understand why Lester's bell should have cracked when being tested, for such an occurrence is practically unheard of here. I have nowhere known of such an accident, and never heard of one over here."

Exercise Good, If Not Overdone

Feel like taking some exercise? Then do. Exercise will help to "keep your clothes from shrinking." It will improve your circulation. It will help clear away the cobwebs that come with too much mental concentration. It will relax your taut nerves.

But — a word of caution — don't overdo. Don't plunge into strenuous exercise after years of TV traction. It could kill you.

DACOSTA GETS THE JOB

NEW YORK (AP) — Morton Da Costa, who staged the current Broadway musical, "The Music Man," has been signed to direct the new drama "The Wall," scheduled to open Oct. 11.

"The Wall" concerns the story of the Jewish uprising against the Nazis in the Warsaw ghettos. The play is a dramatization by Millard Lampell of John Hersey's novel, and will be produced by Kermit Bloomgarden and Billy Rose.

Freedomland New York's New Photographer Target

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The newest photographic target in the New York area is Freedomland, the nation's latest and largest outdoor entertainment center. The combination of imaginative scenic backgrounds, authentic historical pageantry and props, costumed characters and diverse activities makes it easy for camera fans to mix family fun with off-beat pictures.

It was quite an achievement to transform a huge swamp into an 85-acre geographic replica of the United States within a year. It was also an achievement to endow the acreage with the spirit of living history so that people could participate, and record with their own cameras, some historic moments.

SPECTACULAR

It is a spectacular scene, for instance, to see a re-enactment of the Chicago fire of 1871. Several blocks of charred ruins are scientifically inflamed periodically and subdued by a red-shirted fire brigade. They man a hand-drawn, hand-pump fire hose aided by spectators. It gives a camera fan a chance to act like a newsphotographer at a great disaster.

You can climb aboard a correspondents' wagon guided by a Union or Confederate soldier for a tour of Civil War battlefields. At one point the vehicle must make a dash between opposing outposts under a cross-fire of gun and cannon fire. If you don't get any good pictures of the skirmish it may not be due entirely to the excitement. The road is so authentically rocky and rough, the chances of keeping the camera steady are slim.

There's much smoother going for people and cameras on the eight miles of Freedomland's waterways. One trip, on a fur trapper's bullboat, brings back the Pacific Northwest pioneer days of the 1820s. You sail along a reproduction of the Snake and Columbia Rivers past a beaver dam, grazing moose, grizzly bears and an Indian ambush.

Other boat trips cover the region of the Great Lakes. You can do it effortlessly aboard a 110-foot, 400 - passenger sternwheeler or in an Indian war canoe which you can help paddle. Along the way, there's a friendly Indian village where you can photograph real redmen making authentic handicrafts in their teepee homes.

SIMULATED

Travel by narrow - gauge transcontinental railway of the 1880s is simulated by a Santa Fe iron horse. It makes a circuit from Chicago to San Francisco and return in only six minutes. I stood on an open car near the end of the train and took pictures of the engine puffing smoke and the front passenger cars as they rounded a sharp curve ahead. A gang of train robbers holds up the train on some trips. Here's another chance for good newspictures since you can expect the unexpected.

To get away from ground level camera angles, you can climb into a mine company ore bucket and be hoisted by aerial cable over desert and mountain scenery. Here you can get an overhead shot of a real stage coach, a pack of burros, a Pony Express rider or the ancient railroad train going by below . . . if the timing is right and your aim is good.

These were some of the thrills my family experienced and tried to picture at Freedomland. There are many other sights that we didn't have time to see and some things that were not yet finished, like Satellite City, the town of the future. We're looking forward to another visit so that we can go from yesterday to tomorrow on a roll of film.

NAMESAKES GO TO COURT

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Andrew Jackson and George Washington appeared on the Circuit Court docket together here. Jackson was appealing a drunken driving case and Washington a conviction for driving without a license.

Credo Series Will Feature Key's Words

The fourth of the American "Credo" stamps features Francis Scott Key's words from the Star Spangled Banner — "And this be our Motto, in GOD is our TRUST." The stamp will be first placed on sale in Baltimore on Sept. 14.

Dedicatory ceremonies will be held on that date at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore. It was the bombardment of this historic fort that Key watched while in custody aboard a British frigate and which led him to write his famous words.

This "Credo" design will follow the same pattern as those previously issued. The message and Key's signature appear and the feature device is a drawing of a bomb burst within a double circle.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Baltimore 33, Md. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Key Credo Stamp."

Other news from the U. S. Post Office Department reveals that the "Champion of Liberty" 4-cent and 8-cent stamps honoring Ignace Jan Paderewski, world-famed Polish patriot and pianist, will be placed on first day sale at Washington, D. C., on Oct. 8.

The U. S. commemorative marking the 150th anniversary of Mexican Independence mentioned in this column last week will have its first day sale in Los Angeles on Sept. 16.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of these stamps should send their addressed envelopes with remittances to the following: Paderewski to Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C., prior to Oct. 8; Mexican Independence to Postmaster, Los Angeles 52, Calif., before Sept. 15.

Japan has issued two new stamps. One, a 10-yen, honors the 12th International Congress for Bird Preservation held in Tokyo. It shows the Toki (Japanese crested ibis). The other stamp, also of the 10-yen denomination, commemorates the Silver Jubilee of the International Radio Program of the Japan Broadcasting Corp. This stamp depicts a radio wave encircling the world.

The Norfolk Islands has issued two new stamps in its local flora series. The flowers depicted are the lantana and the red hibiscus. 2-shilling 8-pence stamps by the same post office commemorating the introduction of local government on Norfolk Island will be issued in November.

Early Oil Forecasts Fail To Materialize

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The first six months of 1960 were disappointing to the domestic oil operator.

Numerous optimistic forecasts made six months ago have failed to materialize.

Optimism still exists for the last half of the year, but sharp improvement is needed if 1960 as a whole is to equal, much less surpass, 1959.

Some company executives already have warned stockholders it will be difficult for 1959 earnings to be matched this year.

Numerous factors have been earmarked to share the blame, but most boil down to nothing more than a world-wide problem of oversupply. The world oil supply today simply is far greater than demand. New discoveries, particularly in foreign areas, are adding to the surplus each month.

Oversupply has caused domestic market conditions, some executives say, to become chaotic.

Prices of both crude and products are weak and no strong stabilizer is in sight. The weak prices and lower grade production have held drilling operations well below 1959 levels.

The current average price of about $3 a barrel for crude compares with a year earlier $3.04. A barrel of refined products draws about $3.72 today, compared with $3.90 a year ago.

Forecasts made six months ago were in general agreement 1960 domestic crude production should show a healthy increase. Most estimates indicated a gain of at least 5 per cent. Some went as high as 7 per cent.

Actual production the first half of 1960, however, was about one per cent below the first six months of 1959.

INCREASE

An increase of about 2 per cent in drilling operations had been anticipated. But the total number of wells drilled the first half of 1960 was about 8 per cent below the January-June total for 1959.

Down about 5 per cent was the total number of feet drilled, a factor which in this modern era of deeper wells has become more indicative of oil industry economy than the number of wells drilled.

The 1960 economic troubles of Texas oil operators, both large and small, have been intensified by the production cutbacks that have been sharper than those of other oil states.

Monthly proration allowables in Texas the past six months have permitted production on only a total of 55 calendar days. The 1959 total for the same period was 71 days.

The 55 days the first half of 1960 compares to 56 day the first half of 1958, the period during which domestic crude output dropped to its lowest point after the rapid build-up during the Suez crisis.

The 1956-57 campaign to supply western Europe with oil during the Middle East emergency prompted Texas to permit production on 96 calendar days the first half of 1957. Domestic output reached a record average of 7,818,400 barrels a day the week ending March 22, 1957, with Texas posting an all-time high of 3,333,000 barrels a day.

FOUR WELLS COMPLETED

16 New Locations Reported In Monroe Oil-Gas District

By RICHARD GREENE
Oil Editor

Drilling and exploration in the 14-parish Monroe district of the Louisiana Department of Conservation last week produced four new well completions and 16 new locations of possible oil or gas well producers.

Duncan S. Cook, district manager, also reported 11 holes plugged and abandoned, 18 active rigs in the fields and one well re-completed.

As far as the way this report compares with the production in the district during the flourish of the opening weeks of last month, it is down. But the activity represents a near - average week's turn out for the Monroe district.

Following are the new completions:

CONCORDIA

Omega Field — Germany - Gulmon's Thomas - Wilds no. 5 in sec. 16-7-7E, completed to flow 60 barrels from perforations at 5175-77 ft. through a 10-64 in. choke, tubing pressure 50 lbs., casing pressure 110 lbs., gravity 40.

LA SALLE

UNION

Monroe Field — Olin Gas Trans Corp.'s Fee Gas no. 449 in sec. 27-21-3E, completed to flow 473 MCF, rock pressure 570 lbs.

WINN

Est. Tullos Urania Field — A. A. A. Corp.-T. Holland Pres. Tremont Lbr. Co. no. 3 in sec. 26-10-1E, completed to pump 33 barrels from 1487-98 ft.

These are the new locations:

CATAHOULA

Saline Lake Field — Olin Oil & Gas Corp. et al's Olin Ten Fee no. 21 in sec. 28-5-5E, located 1980 ft. north and 1975 ft. west of the SE corner of the sec.

AT MID-YEAR

Market Rebounds With Late Gains

EDITORS NOTE: How is the stock market at mid-year 1960? The first half of the year brought a sharp jolt to the confidence of many stockholder followed by a rebirth of cautious optimism. Other investors, who held fast - stepping growth stocks, made fat profits while blue chips floundered. In the following article, The Associated Press presents picture of the two-way stock market.

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP) — The first six months of the "Golden Sixties" brought a swift and freightening drop to the stock market followed by a strong recovery of about two thirds of the losses.

This left the over-all market about where it was last fall—but prices of specific stocks were reshuffled drastically.

In general, cyclical stocks such as steels, motors, rails, machine tools, and rubbers were far below their January tops. Such highly advertised "inflation hedges" of the past as oils and coppers took a beating.

Meanwhile, a host of "glamour" stocks with prospects for growth in electronics, rocketry, automation, vending machines, drugs, office equipment, recreational fields and various aspects of space age defense made huge gains.

ARGUMENT

Argument raged as to whether this was a bull or bear market. A highly publicized "bear signal" under the old Dow theory was given on March 3. But many Wall Streeters opined that the market was either bull or bear depending on what stocks you owned.

Much of the time it was a two-way market.

The year began in a blaze of glory as an agreement was made to end the eight-month steel strike. The Dow Jones industrial average zoomed to an historic high of 685.47 on Jan. 5.

Then, swiftly and suddenly, the market declined. The January loss of 56.74 in the Dow industrials was the biggest for any January in history and was exceeded only by the drop of 69.94 in October 1929, the great crash.

Wall Street's confidence, which looked for a booming economy and stock market as the year began, was punctured like a baloon. The market continued to decline until March 6 when the Dow industrials fell below the 600 level, a once glittering pinnacle they had scaled in February 1959.

A partial recovery followed. Then came another decline climaxed by a test of the March 6 lows from which the market rebounded on May 2.

MOVEMENT

The market's movements from early February — when the worst of the decline was in the past — to early June were confined in a narrow trading range. During this period, the atmosphere seemed risky to many analysts. Whether there would be a decline to further lows or a rebound was the major question. The question was answered on June 7 when the market staged a strong "breakout" above the narrow band in which it had existed.

A major factor in the upside breakout was a cut in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent. This confirmed growing signs of easier credit, a subject of prime importance to holders of common stocks.

The collapse of the summit conference and the move by lawmakers in Washington for vast increases in defense spending preceded news of the discount rate reduction and provided further fuel for the recovery.

DECLINE

The decline from the January top to the March 6 lows was between 12 and 13 per cent, depending on what stock average you used. As industrial blue chips and rails joined in the rebound of late spring, about two thirds of this loss was won back. This was a classic recovery pattern, according to Dow theorists. The question now remained, will the stock prices meet support at previous lows and sweep ahead to a "test" of the January highs? Will such a test succeed in establishing new peaks and flash a green light for a resumption of the 10-year bull market?

Wall Street was cautiously optimistic.

One big investment house saw the change in investment sentiment from January to the present as one of "from overconfidence to just plain confidence."

The steel strike settlement of January, it was felt, had been fully discounted by a too-high stock market. Inventories of steel-using industries were rebuilt much more quickly than expected. An unusually late and heavy winter dampened auto sales and other facets of the economy.

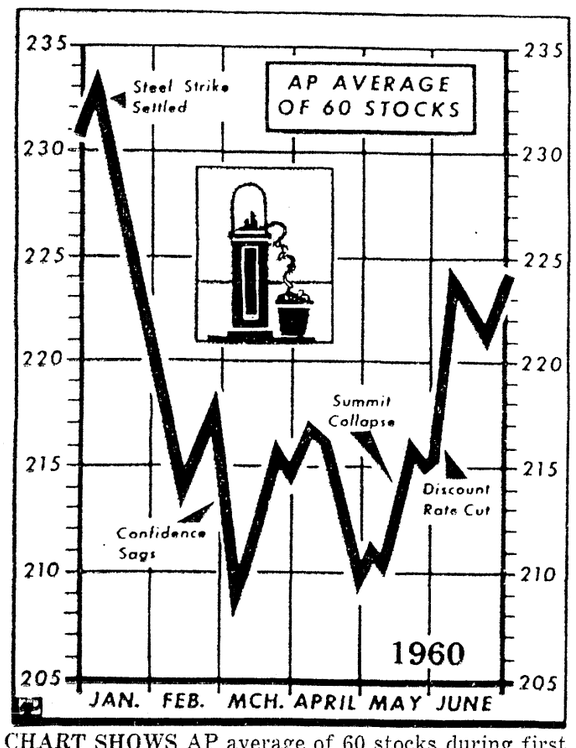

CHART SHOWS AP average of 60 stocks during first six months of 1960, during which there was a sharp drop followed by recovery of about two-thirds of the losses. The average started at 230.1 during first week of January and stood at 224.1 as of June 24. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

New Investment Corporation Is Formed In Area

RUSTON (Special) — A group of Ruston business men have organized the Ruston Investment Corporation and purchased a 36-acre tract of land on Interstate 20 to be used for industrial and commercial development, it was revealed recently.

W. A. Jones, president of the newly - chartered Ruston Investment Corporation, revealed that the corporation had purchased 36 acres from T. C. Shorty Atkins on the north side of Interstate 20 and the east side of the Farmerville Road.

Other officers of the investment corporation are Drew N. Hays, vice president; George Holstead, secretary, and R. E. Holloday III, treasurer. Burton R. Risinger of Ruston is an additional member of the board of directors.

"A large portion of the land will be opened for industrial and commercial sites," Jones related. He pointed out that it would be the first property accessible from Interstate 20 coming into Ruston from the east.

"We are hoping to entice new industry here to further the development of Ruston," Jones said.

The Ruston Investment Corporation was set up primarily to handle the 36-acre tract of land which was purchased from Atkins for $34,000. Atkins retained mineral rights on the land.

Dallas Company Acquires Wells In Gaines County

DALLAS (UPI)— Producing Properties, Inc., announced Saturday that it has acquired a major interest in 16 oil wells and four gas wells in the GMK San Andres and GMK Yates fields of Gaines county.

The interest in the 20 wells cost Producing Properties $1,350,000. They were formerly owned by GMK Oil Co. and C. V. (Cap) Lyman of Midland, Tex. The transaction was completed in Albuquerque.

Robert P. Bradley, PPI board chairman, said his engineers estimated the company had acquired 1,230,000 net barrels of oil by buying the wells.

Department Store Sales Are Down

DALLAS (UPI)— The Federal Reserve Bank reported Saturday that department store sales in the Dallas district fell an average of 7 per cent during May as compared with sales in May, 1959.

Individual decreases include — Corpus Christi 10 per cent, Dallas 3, El Paso 18, Fort Worth 9, Houston 8, San Antonio 10, Shreveport 11 and Waco 15 per cent.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined sharply last week to 222.3 from 224.1 a week earlier. The commodity index moved higher for the first time in seven weeks when it closed at 167.6 from 167.1 in the preceding period. Livestock was outstanding on the upside. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

REFINERY SEIZED

U.S. Business Suffers Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — Business suffered some jolts the past week.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban government seized two American oil refineries and one belonging to British-Dutch interests.

Eastern railroads began laying off workers because of slow business.

Nevertheless, as the second half of the year began, many business men looked for an improvement over the first half, which was good by most standards but not booming as had been expected.

Cuban confiscation of the multi-million-dollar refineries of Texaco Co., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and British-Dutch Shell Oil Co. followed their refusal to process Soviet crude oil. The action was considered a forerunner of more confiscations of foreign-owned businesses.

DROPS

The drop in steel production to 54.8 per cent of capacity threw thousands of men out of work. President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers estimated that of the union's 1¼ million members, 130,000 were unemployed and 350,000 were working short weeks.

It appeared that of the 48 steel companies with annual ingot capacity of more than a million tons each, 18 will have their basic steel production departments closed at least part of next week.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said it would lay off 2,200 empolyes for an indefinite period because of declining freight volume. Much of the line's business comes from steel and allied fields. The New Haven Railroad planned to lay off several hundred men for the same reasons.

The merger fever sweeping the railroad industry got hotter when the New York Central launched a fight to gain control of the Baltimore & Ohio. The Central will make an offer for B&O stock to counter a proposal already made by Chesapeake & Ohio.

APPROVED

Stockholders approved purchase by the Chicago & North Western Railway of the Minneapolis & St. Louis. This combination would be the third longest railway system in the United States.

Automobile production skidded to 128,000 cars the past week because of early closedowns for the holiday weekend. This was 13,000 units below the previous week but 20,000 above the July 4, 1959, week.

Sales in the middle third of June totaled 170,000 passenger cars, nearly eight per cent higher than in the corresponding 1959 period.

Railroad Car Unit

One man now can move railroad cars weighing up to 100 tons, at normal walking speed, using a small switch - engine unit, reveals Chemcial Engineering. The unit has a one - cylinder, two - cycle, six horsepower gasoline engine. A flanged rubber drive wheel with gripper teeth holds to one rail without steering or pulls the shunter over rails, ties or rough terrain to its place of use.

Oil Industry Given Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive—unwittingly combined this week to give the oil industry a major victory in the mineral depletion field.

Here is what happened:

Congress passed a bill extending corporate income and excise taxes one year. Included was a proviso closing a loophole which had enabled cement and brick manufacturers to claim a mineral depletion income tax allowance on finished or "commercially marketable" products.

80 Acres

COUNTRY atmosphere with city conveniences! This acreage on Salem Road, near Eros, has natural gas, electricity and telephone service available. There's a new blacktopped road which will end within 30 yards of property. There's also approximately an acre stocked fish pond. The property has several big pecan trees with marketable pecans. Call now for further information.

5 Acres

WE'RE proud as a peacock of this high and well drained acreage on an excellent gravel road. It has many large pines and other well spaced trees. One of the loveliest homesites around Monroe, and it's modestly priced, too.

Cypress Community

FARMER AT heart? This 10 acre farm is the perfect setting for a retired couple who want city conveniences along with the acreage. There's a very livable 3 bedroom and bath home. All land except 2½ acres is cleared; ¼ acre man-made pond; on La. Power & Light; 37' dug and curbed well with new electric pump. There's a very reasonable asking price on this property. Call us and see!

North Eleventh St., W.M.

PAUSE . . . and think of the lasting enjoyment you can give your family with this 3 bedroom brick home. Among its desirable extras: bath with ceramic tile walls and shower over tub; one bedroom and kitchen pine paneled; central heating; attic fan; built - in oven and range. $400 down plus closing costs will buy this beauty on a new FHA loan, or you can assume owner's equity on 6 per cent loan.

FLORIDA ST.

DON'T BE sad about not finding a neat 2 bedroom home for less than $10,000! This compact home is the one. It has 12x17 living room; oak floors; water cooling system; blinds; termite contract. It has been well cared for inside and well landscaped outside. $300 down plus closing costs, makes the move.

HARN ST.

SHORT stop to happiness is this modestly priced home that's a pleasure to live in. It has many desirable features, such as: monotile bath with shower over tub; panel ray heaters; attic fan; drapes. It has been recently redecorated inside. Another "plus" feature is the 50x150 corner lot. Total price is less than $9,000. $300 down plus closing costs will move you into this one.

PARGOUD DR.

"WHADDAYA say?" Are 2 bedrooms sufficient? Then look at this 6 year old home. Located on a quiet street in an older, well established neighborhood, it features: spacious living room; central heating; attic fan; blinds; drapes; shower over tub. It's situated on a lot and a half of another. Seller has another room and double garage under construction on back of house. Buy it for $350 down on FHA loan or secure local loan.

AUSTIN AVE., W.M.

PAYING $60.00 a month for rent? Then you can afford to purchase this older 2 bedroom home. It offers: separate dining room, 2 porches, pine floors, and newly remodeled kitchen. $250 down plus closing costs makes the move . . . total price $8,000.

HAYNES ST., W.M.

RIGHT this way! If you are looking for a reasonably priced 2 bedroom brick home. It consists of a 13x16 living room; pine paneled kitchen; wall heaters; attic fan; drapes in living room; washer connection; and termite contract. Assume owner's low payments (on a 6 per cent loan) and move in to better living.

NEW LISTING COLE AVE.

SWEET and perky! This 2 bedroom home features: 8x12½ den; ceramic tile bath with shower over tub; floor furnaces; blinds; drapes; hardwood floors; large brick patio just off kitchen; termite contract. Back of 70x120 lot is fenced. The house is surrounded by many attractive shrubs and flowers. Buy this one on a local loan.

NEW LISTING GRAMMONT ST.

TWO HOUSES for less than $5,000! This 50 x 150 lot has 2 houses on it. One is presently rented. It contains: 2 nice sized bedrooms; 2 baths; and front porch. House on back of lot needs some repairs, but the property is priced accordingly. We'll show you this one today.

Jena Thrived Early As Trade Center

Jena residence nestled in picturesque setting.

By E. W. PLUMMER
Special Correspondent

The LaSalle parish town of Jena had an early beginning, under a different name, in a beautiful hill section setting abounding with wild game and productive lands.

The story of its formation runs back to the early 1800's.

By the 1820's and early 1830's, much of the hill section of what is now LaSalle parish was being settled, especially along creek valleys where wild game was plentiful and bottom and hammock lands were productive and provided an excellent range for both cattle and hogs.

These early settlers who were straight - laced Protestants of English descent, were first referred to by historians as the Bible Readers and later as the Piney Woods Dwellers. They were rugged individualists whose concepts of personal freedom were rivaled only by their religious zeal. Every adult was expected to be able to read the Bible with understanding and this acquirement was almost universal with them.

TOOK FORM

In the 1850's the Hemps Creek (now Jena) settlement began to take form. A family of Hemphills for whom the creek and later the post office was named entered a large block of land some two miles below the present town of Jena in the year 1802. This beautiful ever - running stream had fertile bottomlands, an abundance of fish and game, and was an excellent stock range. This section, therefore began to attract settlers in numbers.

In the middle 1850's, Benjamin Baker and his father, who were from Pennsylvania where water power was in common use, built a watermill on Hemps Creek immediately below its confluence with Fords Creek and equipped it to grind grist, gin cotton, and saw lumber. Farmers for miles around began to patronize Baker's mill, especially on Saturdays which were set aside for making corn meal.

Seeing an opportunity here for selling goods to farmers, Harmon Browning opened a general merchandise store at the intersection of the Harrisonburg - Alexandria and Summerville - Catahoula Prairie roads at a point now known as the Wade place in Old Jena. Traffic to and from Baker's mill passed by this site.

TRADING CENTER

On the following year, Jake and Thomas Ringgold opened a store on the opposite side of the Harrisonburg - Alexandria road. Thus Hemps Creek began to develop as a trading center by the 1860's.

Hemps Creek post office was established in 1856 with Isaac L. Baker as its first postmaster. The first mailrider (name not available) boarded with Baker and made alternate weekly trips to Alexandria and Harrisonburg.

In 1871, the U. S. Post Office Department, in an effort to eliminate all "creeks" and "bayous" from the names of post offices, asked that Hemps Creek be given another name. How the name "Jena", which was accepted by the Post Office Department, came about makes an interesting story.

James Forsythe who came to Hemps Creek in 1861 and subsequently served with distinction in the Confederate army, returned in 1865 and established his home here. Because he was an educated man having fine qualities of leadership, he was chosen as Hemps Creek school's first teacher, which position he graced until 1871 His brother, Andrew Forsythe, from Jena, Illinois, who by coincidence was visiting here at the time when new names were being submitted for Hemps Creek, suggested Jena, same as that of his home town, which was named for Jena, Germany. James submitted the name Jena to the Post Office Department, and it was accepted.

RELATIONSHIP

Diverging a little, it is interesting to note here that "Captain" James Forsythe's son, Dr. Andrew Alexander Forsythe, was mayor of the city of Monroe from 1893 to 1914, when he died in office. Forsythe Park and Forsythe avenue in Monroe, were named in his memory. Forsythe cemetery in Jena was named for James Forsythe.

The physical features of the Hemps Creek school which Forsythe taught were crude indeed by today's standards. The building which was located on what is now known as the Charles Coon place in Old Jena was built of logs, roofed with riven clapboards and floored with white oak "punching." Half-logs with holes drilled in the ends for inserting legs served as benches for seating pupils. The teacher was furnished with a table and chair. Sheeps' skin erasers were used on the hand - planed blackboard and slates were used for "cyphering." Pupils learned to write from copies "set" by the teacher.

Textbooks at that time were McGuffey's Eclectric Readers and Spellers, Nicholson's and Ray's arithmetics, Mitchell's geography, Chamberlin's History of the United States, and Kellogg's English Grammar.

The Hemps Creek school in time became recognized throughout the parish for its consistent high order of instruction. The number of students from outlying districts constantly increased, and augmented by those of Jena's growing population, the Hemps Creek school became overcrowded and additional school facilities became necessary.

James Forsythe's dream that Jena would one day become a center of learning was to come true. After much deliberation and planning, Jena's citizens through contributions of money, materials, and labor, built Jena Seminary, Catahoula High School, almost directly across the road from the Dr. B. L. Thompson place in Old Jena. This impressive two - story frame building located among towering red oak trees bespoke the determination for educational progress that was the bone and sinew of the people of Jena.

OPENED DOORS

The seminary opened its doors with pomp, ceremony, and prayer in September, 1892, with J. N. Durbin, a native of Tennessee, who held a college degree, as its principal. Principal Durbin introduced such branches of "higher learning" as algebra, geometry, natural science, English, elocution, ancient history, Latin, and orthography. The seminary's scholastic requirements were rigid. Students were graded on the absolute scale rather than the normal curve, and "mortality" was often high.

The Jena Seminary truly functioned as "the poor man's college" whose intellectual and cultural light beamed to every section of the parish. Its graduates became the teachers of outlying schools, ministers of the gospel, and intelligent community leaders.

The Jena First Baptist church also had an humble beginning. On June 10, 1843, the Salem Baptist Church, a one-room log structure, opened its doors on a site about one-half mile from its present location in the vicinity of the City Park with Elder Tollie A. Routon as its pastor. Charter members were Tolloc A. Routen, N. M. Davis, and Henry Blair.

In the early years of its history, Negro slaves were members of the Salem Baptist church. One such Negro was Whittington Curry. In 1856, he announced his call to preach, and in January, 1866, by a vote of the church, he was ordained to the ministry with Elders R. L. Brooks and W. J. Lacey forming the ordaining presbetery. The Rev. Curry became a leading preacher of his race and was the first Negro pastor of the Mars Hill Baptist church.

The present beautiful buildings of the Jena First Baptist Church and its membership are evidence of the Christian atmosphere that pervades the Jena community.

EARLY RECORDS

Early records of the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church of Jena available to the writer are, unfortunately, meager. The Rev. Richmond Nolley, in whose memory the church was named, was appointed pastor of the Jena Methodist Church, South, in the 1870's by Elder Lorenzo Dow, who headed the Summerville conference. The Rev. Nolley reportedly died from cold and exposure after swimming his horse across a flooded creek while on his way to fill the Jena church appointment.

The Nolley Memorial Methodist Church buildings are located on a beautiful prominence on Oak Street in the eastern section of Jena known as Methodist Hill. The buildings are set back a distance from the street, which accentuates the beautiful front lawn and the evergreens and flowering plants which adorn the spacious churchyard and the paved parking area. The Rev. Richmond Nolley's grave lies beneath the spreading oaks that adorn the hill side in front of the church. An everlighted cross on the auditorium lends to the atmosphere of sanctity that pervades this place of worship.

Jena today is a thriving town of 2,280, all white; and although its growth has accelerated during the past two decades, Jena has every attribute of permanency. More than 80 per cent of the population own their own homes. The hospitality of the people and the "homey" atmosphere that pervades the place have accounted for the large number of people who come here to spend their years of retirement.

Jena has a modern city park of 23 acres, with swimming pool, lighted baseball field, tennis and badminton courts, picnic grounds with barbecue pits, shady areas furnished with lawn facilities, and playground equipment for the children.

Jena's special attractions are its school system, historic Jena High School, a modern junior high, and an elementary school. Its magnificent church buildings, modern residences, excellent water and fire protection, and its close proximity to one of the greatest fishing, and hunting grounds in the south, are other important elements.

One of Jena's churches.

FEATURES

Has Cook-Secretary

By DAN DONOHUE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Henry Powell Hopkins advertised for a secretary 17 years ago. Fifteen women showed up.

None of them would do. They couldn't cook.

Hopkins is an architect during business hours but a gourmet for pleasure. Mary Royer was the only applicant willing to mix the two. She got the job.

At noon, Mrs. Royer leaves her typewriter and goes down to a fully equipped kitchen in the basement, to make lunch for two.

"He's really easy to please," says the smartly dressed grandmother. "I fix cottage cheese, lettuce and fruit maybe twice a week, and ham sandwiches and soup twice a week."

SETTING

Hopkins and Mrs. Royer eat in a dark red and pale green dining room, its walls hung with Parisian etchngs, adjoining the kitchen.

"If necessary," says Hopkins, "we can seat eight guests."

When there are guests, Hopkins usually fixes the food himself, with Mrs. Royer assisting.

"Nothing elaborate," he says, "perhaps an antipasto, a crab or lobster salad, with iced tea in warm weather, and a simple dessert like ice cream. Sometimes we have a glass of sherry."

They usually finish lunch by 1 p.m.

"Then I have a nap in the dining room and Mrs. Royer goes shopping until about 2 o'clock," says Hopkins. "When she comes back, she washes the dishes without disturbing my nap, then we have coffee at our desks and get back to work."

Henry Powell Hopkins is a small, impeccable man of 69. Ruddy complexioned with gray hair and a small mustache, he wears a blue smock while working at his office.

Why did he ever think of hiring a cook-secretary?

REASN

"I used to go out to lunch," he says with a sigh, "and I didn't find it too pleasant. I wasn't a member of any club then.

"We had to eat in public restaurants. You usually ate too much and you didn't eat the things you really wanted to eat. Then, too, the environment wasn't good.

"I began eating sandwiches at my desk but I tired of that. I also tired of training girls as secretaries only to have them get married and leave."

Finally, he listened to a friend's advice to hire a married secretary and combined it with a solution to his eating problems.

To Hopkins, lunch is important. Dinner is a production.

ADJUSTMENTS

Any receipes not in his standard repertoire require extra pains. About two weeks in advance, he schedules a full-dress rehearsal for four or five close friends. That way, he can make adjustments for the final performance.

When he was younger, the architect created everything himself. Now a caterer does most of it, under his supervision.

"Certain dishes no one can prepare but me," he says. "Diamondback terrapin is one. Curried soup is another. And clam chowder I cook myself."

Most of Hopkins' succulent symphonics are variations on one of seven themes — Maryland, Spanish, Chinese, South Sea, New Orleans, Creole and bayou. Lousiana cuisine predominates because he's been to New Orleans at least 50 times. He still travels widely.

"I guess I'm somewhat of a nut; I don't know," says Hopkins. "I get a kick out of doing this stuff. Some people shoot ducks, Some people play poker, some people drink whiskey. I cook."

Royal Mice Aid For Scientists In Cancer Fight

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A cat would go crazy if he knew what is going on at Battelle Memorial Institute.

Scientists there are building up a veritable treasure house of "royal family" mice to aid in vital cancer research.

The objective: 200,000 mice a year.

Battelle scientists are organizing a new center for so-called "trust stocks" of special, pedigreed mice needed for the government-sponsored National Cancer Chemotherapy Program.

EFFORT

The latter is a massive effort, involving many private and government institutions, for screening thousands of chemicals a year in the quest for improved drug weapons against mankind's most-feared scourge.

The laboratory here is one of three in the country charged with maintaining "insurance stocks" of the particular strains of purebred mice being used in the screening program.

New Stage Venture Set For This Fall

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert Montgomery is all set for a Broadway stage venture in the fall now that he has successfully brought to the movie screen "The Gallant Hours" in his first appearance in the dual role of producer and director.

Montgomery, James Cagney and Alfred de Liagre Jr. are preparing "The General's Other Son," a play by Andrew McCullough for the new season, and there has been some talk that Cagney might undertake the role of the general. The story is that of an officer who runs into promotion difficulties because one of his two sons is a conscientious objector.

Montgomery will direct the play, his first such chore since "The Desperate Hours" several seasons ago. He has no acting or TV plans at the moment.

"I got into my o'd Navy uniform for an appearance in one scene in "The Gallant Hours," the star said, "but I left myself on the cutting room floor when I edited the picture. There just didn't seem to be any point to my appearing in it."

Cagney and Montgomery made "The Gallant Hours" for their own movie firm, and Cagney played Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey Jr. in the story built around that World War II naval leader's exploits. The partners expect to make more films.

Of television, in which he had his own one - hour live drama program for seven years, Montgomery said:

"As it is carried on today, there is nothing in television programming to interest me. There is too much interference, no room for initiative."

"Tenderloin," which probably will be the first of the big musicals to arrive next fall, will have the services of Maurice Evans, noted for his Shakespearean roles.

The story is about a minister at the turn of the century crusading against New York City vice and Evans will have that role. He will have several songs to deliver. While Evans has never done a musical in the many years he has been in this country, he did appear in one in his native London in 1933, "Ball at the Savoy."

"Tenderloin" is the project of the same combination of producers and writers responsible for the current hit, "Fiorello!" Rehearsals are to start Aug. 15. It will play New Haven and Boston and then open at the 46th Street Theater here Oct. 15.

Ann B. Davis, familiar to TV viewers as the Schultzy of the situation comedy series headed by Bob Cummings, is the new leading lady of "Once Upon a Mattress" at the St. James. Carol Burnett, comedienne who created the role and played it for more than a year, departed to fill other commitments.

About Atomic Bombing Of Hiroshima

No High Ground, by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II (Harper): Harry S. Truman took sole responsibility for atom bombing Hiroshima. Others, however, are less willing to put the whole responsibility on Truman's shoulders. This book, putting the human drama of the development and use of the A-bomb into one lucid story, details the many opinions and arguments that Turman listened to before making his decision. There was a poll taken among nuclear scientists. The majority voted to give a military demonstration in Japan first to convince the war leaders they should surrender. Truman's advisory committee recommended that the bomb be dropped on Japan without warning. Churchill advised him to drop it as soon as ready. The Japanese should have feared the A-bomb because in 1944, the authors say, they received intelligence reports of it. The Germans on the other hand lacked intelligence on the bomb.

Criticism That's Kind But Severe

AMERICA IN THE MODERN WORLD. By D. W. Brogan. Rutgers. $5.

The world we live in, with some itch of discomfort: what it expects of us, and even what it demands; and the character of our life, our education and our culture — these are the subjects of Brogan's lectures a year ago at Rutgers University. They are printed here with practically no change, according to this British professor in a preface written in Cambridge, where he teaches, and signed, with a disconcerting significance, on Armistice Day.

For that Nov. 11 almost half a century ago ended a war which changed the course of history and which set us Americans down eventually, Brogan says, in "a world we never made." It's a world we don't approve of, for obvious reasons: We can't convince it that our special prized brand of democracy is the one and only panacea for all ills, that there is no freedom without it, that we are blessed with material welfare and prosperity — as every other country could be — just because we don't interfere with business and businessmen.

And why, Brogan asks, would the world believe us? In recent years he points out, we have been long on talk and short on proof. There are democratic forms of government which work even when they do not copy us exactly; freedom is enjoyed in lands without democracy; Russian businessmen threaten to catch up with us; and what excuse is there for a system which, in the all-out ultimate space race into which we have been forced, lets its chief rival get the first look at the other side of the moon?

About culture Brogan writes: "A life based on a belief that all that should be valued can be measured is like a life based on the belief that all that has to be learned can be taught." The thing missing, he charges, is "the sense of excellence." Our very existence depends, he warns, on thinking harder. The values of the marketplace are not enough.

No critic could be more friendly, and still be a critic, though maybe it's also true that no friend could be more critical, and still be a friend. Yet while Brogan is severe, he is in the company of some native voices, such as Galbraith, Mills and Packard, in diverse respects. But he writes with the benefit of perspective, and if he is crushing, he is wonderfully urbane about it. We couldn't be crushed nicer, as our educational system, rightly blamed by him, might lazily allow us to put it.

Change In Love Is A Searching People Study

Change of Love, by Vivienne Koch (McDowell, Obolensky): A novel of intrigue among a group of modern intellectuals. The backdrop is an Institute for American Studies in an Austrian castle. Siegfried Volk, American literature professor at the institute, is drawn into personal relationships with other faculty members and several attractive brilliant young European coeds from both sides of the Iron Curtain. Tension mounts as he drifts into an unnamed affair with a beauty whose husband is a Yugoslav general. Then there is Judith Mar, another lovely creature, who seeks Volk's protection from a former lover. To say nothing of the institute director's appeal to Volk to help solve a theft without damaging publicity to the institute. Through the professor's involvement with the lives of others he achieves greater insight into his own problems.

Touches All Sordid Bases Not Too Good

WATER OF LIFE. By Henry Morton Robinson. Simon & Schuster, $5.95.

"Usquebaugh. Usquebartha. Aqua Vitae. Water of Life. WHISKY" — this invocation introduces Robinson's subject: The good of drink and the evil of prohibition and all the dry forces, and then the people who act out his embarrassingly long story, principally Woodhulis.

It begins with pioneer Chance Woodhull in the Indiana wilds self - sufficient in everything even to using extra corn to distill whisky. It ends with Oliver Treadgood, hypocritical Mr. Dry like the cartoon of the rabid prohibitionist, guiding the Anti-Saloon League in the congressional battles under Taft and Wilson, first to spare the sinner by outlawing alcohol and finally to succor our Allies by saving the corn to feed them — when in fact they mostly needed wheat and rye.

But in the half - century between there's a tremendous Woodhull seething and stewing: Woodhulls are to "Water of Life" what mash is to whisky. Chance's son Anson weds Zarah, daughter of a professor brought up to ha'e pages of poesie; but she fits into frontier life like any romantic heroine. One of her daughters has an illegitimate child, one turns militant Dry. Anson's brother Platt is a gambler associate of card shark Damon Frye. Lucienne Bisguier has telltale initials tatooed on her; Moerlein is the honest distiller; Chance the second will have a whirl at bootlegging; it all blows up when Treadgood starts his campaign.

The coming of prohibition is a commendable topic, but only a sot could have faculties so dulled as to be unaware of the lurid overwritten effects here. The heroine isn't lashed to the tracks as the train roars nearer, the villain isn't horsewhipped, but about everything else you read in the old dime novel you read again here. Counterfeiting, blackmail, pimping, incendiarism.

Bull Crushes Youth To Death At School Rodeo

"He made a good ride and slid off," his tearful father said. "Then the bull turned as he lay on the ground, hooked a horn under his belt and tossed him.

"He lived for these summer Friday night rodeos. He'd been riding in them four years."

The father, James Spencer Paul Sr., ran to his stricken son and immediately began mouth - to-mouth artificial respiration. He and another man continued the respiration until the youth arrived at a hospital, where young Paul was pronounced dead.

Watching the bull's attack were 4,500 spectators, including Martha Nelson, 18, whose wedding date with Paul was set for September.

TRY OUT COSTS

Of Innocence Flood Of Wong And Of Guilty

A QUESTION OF INNOCENCE. By Donald Wonks. MacMillan. $3.95.

Henry Adams — the name sort of guarantees the integrity of the narrator — comes back from a G.I.-Bill education in France and after a futile hunt for jobs in New York, and about at the end of his money, runs into a family able to introduce him to about all the jobs there are.

They are the wealthy McClures: father Thomas, mother Miranda, daughter Anne, son Justin, and this is their gripping story.

It is young Hugh, fiance of Anne, consigned to a wheelchair after she tumbled from a horse, who gets Henry his public relations slot. Anne's injury baffles the doctors, and she is about to go to Europe in hope of a cure there. Thomas and his wife are estranged, she doesn't mind, he profoundly does; Father Satterthwaite is their priest, and Anne's Justin, cool to priests, is at loose ends.

Hugh is one of the first to puzzle Henry. Anne fell in love with him when she first met him, though, she says, her mother made gentle fun: Hugh was too much older, he cared for Anne only as a child. Then Henry catches Hugh with his arms around Henry's Janet. And finally, Hugh seems a bit inattentive to his beautiful fiancee; they are engaged, it is formally announced, the wedding must wait for the expected miracle to happen abroad. Before long we learn Hugh gets his arms around altogether too many women.

Destroy Dead Plant Foliage

By AUDREY DAWSON

Remove and burn the dead foliage of iris and fertilize by working a little bone meal around the plants.

Cut your dahlias back to about one-half their growth after the first crop of blooms. They will then grow and produce a fine crop of fall blooms

Mulch your plants with 3 or 4 inches of sawdust, leaves, or pine needles.

Dig and replant Easter lily bulbs.

COOLING EFFECTS

Check now to see if you have enough shade. The mimosa is a fast growing tree that will give you excellent shade in a few years and you can also enjoy the lovely blooms at this time of the year. If you would like other trees that will bloom and are fast growing, consider the crape myrtles and golden rain.

Cool colors for your garden are blues to blue greens — grey greens and greens. Plants that give cooling effects are rice paper plants, dusty miller, pineapple guava vitex and Texas sage are all grey green.

If you have areas in your landscape which is hard to mow consider groundcovers as ivy, periwinkle, aspidistra, liriope, monkey grass, violets and strawberry begonia.

HIBISCUS CARE

To thrive, your hibiscus plants must not suffer from lack of water. As with other plants when watering is done, it should be done thoroughly and not too frequently. The leaves of the plant should not be allowed to wilt.

Weeds and grass should be kept from around the base of the plant. In doing this care should be taken not to damage the shallow root system. If a good mulch material is used such as oak leaves or pine straw, if available, it could be used to help conserve moisture and to keep down weeds and grass.

BLOOMS

During warm weather, the blooms of most of the varieties of hibiscus last for only a day. If you want to use the flowers for decorative purposes at night it is best to cut them as soon as they are fully open and store them at temperature of from 35 degrees to 45 degrees F. Hibiscus blooms make excellent corsages and are very good decorative flowers. The stems do not have to be kept in water, after they are pulled, to prevent wilting. The plants are not damaged by removing the blooms if no leaves are removed.

HINTS TO HOMEMAKERS

Do you know that certain foods should not be stored in stainless steel containers? Mustard, mayonnaise, lemon juice, vinegar, salt, or dressings containing these will attack and corrode stainless steel if exposed to it for long periods at a time. Remember, too that strong bleaches should not come in contact with stainless steel sinks or utensils for periods longer than 30 minutes.

4TH OF JULY

Tomorrow is Independence Day. It is celebrated on July 4th of each year in all states and territories of the U. S. The founders of the new nation considered Independence day an important occasion for rejoicing. John Adams says, "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore."

REMEMBER

Remember that accidents are not respectors of ages. Lets make our holiday a safe one. Many more will go swimming tomorrow and this is the principal source of fatalities under the age of 19; fire arms comprise the principal source in ages 11-14. Ironically, each age seems to have a pet hazard, peculiarity of its own. Let's make this 4th a safe day.

A THOUGHT

Unusual Show From Lincoln

By MARY JARDINE

GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

The Lincoln Parish Garden Council of Ruston gave us a pretty and most interesting flower show, featuring peaches last week.

Mrs. Frank Kaylor had a most unusual container for her arrangement made for the kitchen. A scale made of two rolling pins and wooden salad bowls. The central standard of the scales made by the rolling pins held the two weighing bowls, that were attached by brass chains. The bowls were set at an off balance.

Even though the materials varied in texture, equilibrium was obtained through the use of symmetrical arrangements. In one bowl peaches and ivy were used, while small yellow and orange zinnias were used with ivy in the other bowl. The scales were placed on a dough or bread board.

Mrs. Kaylor used sumac heads and foliage with peaches in her second composition. She chose a round black ceramic compote on a round black base for her container. Cut iris leaves formed a triangle design for the background of the peaches and sumac. An interesting combination of material suitable for the buffet.

KEEP GREEN

"Keep Louisiana Green" was the title of Mrs. Ernest Bryant's composition. This all green arrangement was made of native plant material. A free form black container placed on a wooden tree form base was used. The crescent form of her design was formed by a long curved branch of a gum tree. At the base of the design she clustered pine cones and branches of short leaf pine. A long-lasting arrangement made for the patio.

Mrs. J. D. Murry made a lovely arrangement using shasta daisies. The white daisies were staggered to form a vertical design against a background of iris foliage. The design was made in a flat, white, ceramic bowl, placed on a white base. This pretty arrangement suitable for a small living room table.

Mrs. Murry used a palm spath for her composition of flowers, fruit and vegetables. Daylilies, peaches, green grapes, yellow squash and bananas were arranged in the named order to follow the line of the spath. A pretty composition for the breakfast, or brunch served on the patio.

Date to remember — In connection with the Louisiana Peach Festival, the Lincoln Parish Garden Club Council will sponsor a flower show — theme: "Peaches and Posies," — place: Student Center, Tech campus, time: Thursday July 7, hours: 3:00 to 9:00 p.m.

SOUTHERN GARDNER

Magnolias Re-Created

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Most of the magnolias that were killed back only part of the way by the past severe winter have now come out and are growing lustily. These bushy masses of growth pose a problem.

Shall we wait until fall and dig up the damaged trees or try to create new ones from the bushes?

If you wish to be assured of a perfectly straight trunk, it will be best to replace your magnolia bush with a straight new tree. In cases where it does not greatly matter, you may try your hand at re-creating a tree from the mass of limbs. Actually, there is many a large magnolia growing in the south which was re-created after a damaging experience. Let the whole mass of limbs grow this summer to get the tree going again. When fall comes, you can shorten the longest limbs. Leave all the upright growths because it is from these that the new leader will come.

LIMBS

In a year or so, most trees will send up from one to several erect limbs, and one of these can be selected for the main trunk of the new tree. If you leave them alone, one will eventually outgrow the others, but magnolias are apt to produce too many would-be leaders and simply grow into a huge bush.

Magnolias that were cut all the way to the ground and are now starting out from there will usually send up one or more very lusty upright limbs. You will just have to wait and see which of these is the most promising. If possible, choose one that arises from below the ground because you can later on saw away the dead stump clean below the ground. This will give the new leader a better chance to heal over the whole stump. If a good strong union is not finally made between trunk and root, your tree may break off at the bottom in some future wind storm.

REPLANT

In case you are unable to create a new tree from your damaged one, dig up the bush and replant it this fall in some spot where you can use it as a source of cut magnolia leaves for winter decorations. Kept pruned back this way, it will make a handsome large shrub. In a low wet ravine where nothing much grows, a magnolia will thrive and may turn itself into a tree when you are not looking.

Book Stocks At Libraries Here Gaining

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Summer vacation is reading time in Ouachita Parish and we are happy that with our lovely new library buildings, more and more people are taking advantage of the resources of the library. We are happy that our book stock is increasing each month and that we are adding books of all kinds to appeal to a variety of taste. During the month of June a total of 828 new books were added to the library collection. Of this number 611 were purchased with library funds, 86 were memorial books and 131 were other gifts. During this time 119 books became untit for circulation and had to be discarded, so our net gain was 709 books. The total book collection of the library is now 63,319 books. The collection is growing rapidly, but we still need many more books and memorials are one way in which you can help your library grow.

Fiction titles of the last week are very interesting. Geoffrey Household is a master of the suspense novel. His latest book is "Watcher in the Shadows." This is the story of a manhunt and the locale is London and the countryside of Sussex. It is a duel to the death between a British intelligence officer and a dangerous fanatic. If you want a spine tingling story be sure to read this.

"No Marriage in Heaven" is a new novel written by Grace Nies Fletcher. It is the story of a self-willed young woman who married a preacher and found that there were many struggles to be undergone as a preacher's wife. It has it's setting in Boston in the early day of this century. It is certan to demand a wide audience. "The Inspector" is the title of a new novel by Jan de Hartog. It is the story of two young people trying to find a haven in the years immediately following the close of World War II. The setting is Holland and the book may become an epic of our times, for it is a powertul story which is also an exploration of human frailty, courage and compassion. Here is a novel which becomes an illuminating spiritual experience.

One of the outstanding modern novelists is Lawrence Durrell. He has written a trilogy of novels which appeal to the more literate of our readers. The first of the series has just arrived. It is called "Justine." If you want a stimulating reading experience, begin with "Justine" and then read the other three, "Balthazer," "Nountolive" and "Clea." Very different, but certain to find readers is "Pistol Johnny" a western story written by Joseph Wayne. Don't miss it.

The field of non-fiction offers a wide variety of material. A very valuable book for students who are doing reference work in "A Handbook to Literature" by William F. Thrall. Copies of this book are found in the libraries in Monroe and West Monroe. Parents will be interested in a book called "Fundamentals of Child Psychiatry" by Stuart M. Finch. It is a very penetrating analysis of the problems which parents often face. "The Divorce Handbook" by Florence Haussamen has a great deal of good advice for those confronted with this change in their lives.

Members of the Jewish congregation will be interested in a new book written for young people called "The Complete Book of Hanukah." The author is Kinneret Caiel and the book contains a great deal of interesting and valuable information about this festival. An interesting and penetrating study of modern conditions is "Live and Let Live" by Stuart Chase. He takes up the problems and weaknesses in our foreign relations and the economic conditions of our country and those with whom we are associated. "Beverly Hills Is My Beat" is the title of the autobiography of a crime reporter, Clinton H. Anderson. It is sensational and will interest many. People who would like to know just what Russia is teaching its youth, should read "The Politics of Soviet Education" by George Bereday. It is an illuminating study.

Plastic surgery is a growing art and a book on this subject is a welcome addition to the library. It is called "Beauty Surgeon" and was written by Dr. Robert A. Franklyn. Books of flower arrangement are always popular. We have recently received "The Rockwell's New Complete Book of Flower Arrangement" which will appeal to all who study this field. "Foods without Fads, a Common Sense Guide to Nutirtion" is the title of a book by E. W. McHenry. It is very good and the information is accurate and up to date. A beautiful and unusual book is "Salt and Saltshakers" by Arthur Peterson. It will be of special interest to collectors. Bridge players will eagerly read another book on the subject which is called "Complete Bridge Course" and was written by Alfred Sheinwold. Judo is a popular subject with young men and we have another new book on the subject called "Defend Yourself with Judo" written by A. P. Harrington. A most unusual book is "Benjamin Franklin and Polly Baker" written by Max B. Hall. It is an account of one of the great literary frauds of all times.

THE HOME SHIFT

Keep Watch For Aphids

By MILDRED SWIFT

Not too much gardening needs to be done this month. Our advice to you is, "watch." Watch for aphids, leaf spot, scale, red spider, brown patch, chinch bug and other diseases and insects. Catch these in time. We've given you recommendations for treatment, just use what you know and if you need more information, call our office.

GARDENING

The canna leaf roller has started. Dust weekly with five per cent DDT, loosening the rolled leaves so the poison can reach the insect. The leaves as well as the blossoms are lovely in the house, if they're kept free from the roller.

If you have a eucalyptus and it's shooting up very tall, cut it back. You'll be glad you did because it will take on such a nice shape. Staking for the first year helps this shaping process, too.

Chrysanthemum plants with shorter stems, deeper green leaves and longer lasting flowers may be on sale by growers in the near future. The shortening of stems is made possible by the use of a phosphorium compound. Growers may be able to use this chemical to reduce maintenance cost in greenhouses and nurseries because the short stemmed plants require no staking. The chemical is not expensive.

The chrysanthemum flower is not affected by the regulator. The chemical will be available to commercial growers this summer. It must be used with precision because of its potency. Best results in USDA tests were obtained by mixing the powder with the soil when young mums were planted. This dispersed the chemical through the soil so that only small quantities of it come in contact with the roots. All varieties respond to this chemical, but some more than others.

A request comes for instructions on caring for the avocado plant. This is a tropical plant that requires year - round hot weather. If you have a plant growing outside, it will be killed by our winter weather. You can transplant it into a large pot, being careful not to disturb the roots, and keep the plant in a sunny spot in the house. When warm weather comes again next spring, plant outside again. We have no recommendations from our department on care of these because they're tropical plants. I used a little 8-8-8 fertilizer on a pot plant. Dissolved this in water about one tablespoon to a cup of water.

MORE GARDENING

The percentage of small gardens is much higher than large acreages. There's a problem with small yards, though. Naturally we want at least one large tree. Then probably a small blooming tree or two. We need shrubs for screening. By that time we're beginning to get a network of underground roots. Our small shrubs, perennials, and annuals just won't do too well because the larger plants sap all the food. They'll get pale and "leggy". So — we have started using more plants in pots and wooden tubs.

A plant trimmed to one standard is very beautiful in a wooden tub. Especially our gardenias. You must select such a plant with care though, a one trunk small plant and keep all side limbs trimmed, leaving just a top - knot. In a few years you'll have a gorgeous plant that's handsome beside a doorway or on a patio. Only plants that have upright growth can be pruned to a standard. Some nurseries are beginning to grow such plants, ready for you to take home. You can expect to pay more for them, though.

Again let me warn you not to let your azaleas and camellias get too dry. They're setting buds now and they need moisture.

If you must work around your plants, work the soil only an inch or so deep. If you disturb feeder roots now, plants can't take up the food and moisture they need. Mulching is far better than cultivation. Then you'll only need to pull weeds. Keep mulch renewed.

The County Agents tell us one way to get the webs (built by the webworms) out of our pecan trees, is to burn them out with a lighted kerosene soaked cloth torch tied to the end of a long cane or pole.

JULY 4TH

Tomorrow we celebrate, for the second year in a row, a new version of our national flag. Last year on Independence Day, the 49-star flag became our official emblem. And now, in 1960, we add our latest state, Hawaii. Today's flag, with its 50 stars, is the proud and sacred symbol of the freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which our country stands. It is one of the oldest national flags in existence, and one that each of us should display on July 4th, and all our national holidays.

NEW

The new ice cream tooth brushes for children are made in six delectable flavors. Just the kind of thing that will help parents solve the child-old problem of training youngsters in the proper care of their teeth. They're brand new on the market.

Phonograph records can really collect dust that is annoying. Even though you clean a record right before it's played — the static electricity on the record attracts dust right out of the thin air. Dust can cause damage to records and wear them out long before their time.

So — along comes the very latest kind of "dust collector." It's a small, powerful vacuum cleaner that's built right into some of the new console phonographs that you'll be seeing this fall. It works like the vacuum cleaner you use on your carpets. It consists of a small brush, installed just ahead of the record needle that picks up dirt out of the grooves. Then a tiny nozzle draws it silently through a tube hidden in the tone arm, and empties it into a sealed container that's inside the cabinet. You don't see this cleaner, you don't have to hook it up or turn it off. But it's there and it works, prolonging the life of your records.

HINTS

Don't throw away last summer's handbags just because they look drab. You can make them new and pretty again in a jiffy. Give them a quick coat of enamel or even colorful paint. Enamels in aerosol spray cans are ideal for this job. There's a wonderful choice of colors, so you'll have no trouble matching a bag with a new summer dress.

Be sure to remove the cellophane wrapping from a new lamp shade. If left on, it may cause the shade to warp.

There's a new way to make dust ruffles, and at the same time simplify the task of laundering them. First choose a washable fabric. Attack curtain rods to the legs of a bed. Make ruffle and run it on the rod.

They're doing new fashion tricks with leather for fall. As light as fabric, smooth as silk, or soft as velvet, it is showing up in tender colors and fabulous garments. So light weight are some of the leaters, they can be draped like fabric, dyed in every color of the spectrum and used for the most formal outfits.

IN SHADOWS OF SKYSCRAPERS

Church In Downtown Zone Opposes Move

By TIM PARKER

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Should downtown churches move to the suburbs to get away from unsightly housing and cold business buildings?

No, says the Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the biggest Baptist church in Texas.

In fact, the Rev. Dr. Criswell's First Baptist Church of Dallas is sinking its roots even more deeply into the area around Ervan and San Jacinto streets in the shadows of skyscrapers.

SINKING ROOTS

And it sends buses into nearby low-income districts to bring more underprivileged people to church.

The emphasis is on youngsters. The church has become a haven for boys whose bare feet show through tattered shoes and girls who stare wide-eyed at the church's beautiful panelled walls.

Recently, it paid a million dollars for a building across the street to add to its extensive facilities, which include a gymnasium, bowling alleys and a skating rink.

The work among the underprivileged is supervised by First Baptist's Good Shepherd Department, which has its own minister —the Rev. Johnny Barrett—and its own staff.

DAILY WORKS

"Pressed against the downtown heart of any city is a large area of declining properties that are rented to the poor," he says. "The downtown church has a God-given commission to minister to these people."

But quite a few prefer to stay with the Good Shepherd Department and the Rev. Mr. Barrett, who ministers to crowds of 500 or more with an assist from a corps of 70 Sunday School workers.

The Good Shepherd Department began several years ago when C. F. Burch, then a new member of the church, dedicated himself to service in the underprivileged areas.

With four other men, Burch brought boys and girls to the church basement where they were fed and taught Bible lessons.

Now the department has its own building, minister and

Boys Want Park

Little Boys baseball in West Monroe expects to grow, provided friends of this recreation outlet for eight-to-twelve-year-olds will kick in with pocketbook support.

The youngsters need a new miniature park. League officials of West Monroe are willing to tackle the task of getting the work done if they can get the necessary financial aid to back the cause.

Rules of the national Little Boys organization forbid admission charges to any official games. For that reason, since all Little Boys contests are free to the public, the West Monroe leagues can't build a treasury this way.

Admissions were charged for one game this year. That was the unofficial season-launching all - star game between twelve-year-olds that was not a regular league game. The regular season contests started two days later and all of these games have been played for free to the Little Boys' fans.

Hat passing for donations is permitted at league games. Within the past week the West Monroe leagues began passing the hat at their games and will continue to do so through the rest of the regular season that ends in another week.

Unless there's some big money in the pockets of spectators attending these games, we don't see how the leagues can raise enough at the games to pay the necessary bill. But mail donations are being taken, and it's quite possible that industrial and business organizations can put the project across through this means.

Mail donations should be sent to Hollie Pankey, league president, 2610 North Tenth street, or to Dick Smith, secretary - treasurer, 211 Hilton street, West Monroe. Checks should be made payable to "Little Boys Baseball, Inc., of West Monroe."

"We'll start work on the new park as soon as this season is over," Pankey reported, but of course he was speaking with confidence that the friends of the Little Boys will come through with the needed help.

West Monroe currently supports two Little Boys leagues, both playing at the Little Boys' Park on North Seventh street. The new park is planned for a southern location in the city. If made available, the youngsters will be offering free recreation for the fans at two parks next summer instead of one.

The popularity of Little Boys baseball is shown in magnification at Ferriday tomorrow where the town turns out for a full afternoon of Fourth of July activity that matches Ferriday teams against rival clubs from throughout the area in five games, including West Monroe.

George Perry has announced from Ferriday that the schedule of games tomorrow pairs Ferriday teams against Natchez, Miss., 1 p.m.; Winnsboro, 2:45; Vidalia, 4:30; West Monroe, 6:15; and a second Natchez challenger, 8 p.m.

Young Stars Developing

There's a 12-year-old boy at Greenwood, S. C., the major leagues are bound to have scouts watching. He's five-foot-ten and weighs 154 pounds but his batting average is even heftier for his age.

He has an .885 mark with 23 hits in 26 official times at bat and he has walked more times than he has at-bats because rival pitchers fear him so much they throw him nothing good to swing at. Nearly half his hits are home runs, four in one game.

He's also the leading pitcher in his league, and claims a no-hitter in which he fanned 13.

Down at Morgan City, La., Tommy Piglia manages a Little Boys club that has four boys who have socked 17 home runs in their first eleven games this year. The tally is Mike Boudreaux, 7 homers; Charlie Cutrer, 6; Roland Wiggins, 2; and Doyle Fantent, 2.

Membership Grows

The recently organized Pine Hills Gun Club, domiciled in West Monroe but drawing members from throughout the area, expects to have at least 90 charter members on its rolls before the current membership drive is completed.

The club was organized last month with Derwood Cann as president. T. O. "Toby" Bancroft Sr. made a quick start for the club possibly by donation of his complete trapshooting range at his camp on Cheniere lake. The gun club has since built a skeet field as well, assuring everything a gun club requires.

Dr. R. W. Dickenhorst, club secretary - treasurer, reports a full schedule of events has been arranged by club members by R. G. Hart Jr., head of the program and schedule committee.

The range is quiet today, but Bert Williams was instructing novices at the range yesterday, and the members will conduct 16-yard singles shooting at the traps tomorrow along with regular skeet shooting.

five - man team trapshoot is slated next Sunday when the field captain organizes teams for competitive squad shoots. Week-end and holiday shooting schedules will be supplied members for events running through September 25.

McCORMICK BEATEN

Phillies Topple Giants In 11th, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pancho Herrera's single in the 11th inning scored Ken Walters with the winning run as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Francisco Giants 3-2 Saturday night.

Left-hander Mike McCormick, who took over for Billy O'Dell in the 11th, tossed only four pitches and took the defeat, his fourth against nine victories.

Walters singled to start the inning. Bobby Gene Smith then bunted and both runners were safe on Willie McCovey's error. Herrera, who had homered in the second inning, hit McCormick's second pitch into left field to chase Walters across.

Dick Farrell posted his sixth victory of the campaign in relief of Johnny Buzhardt. Farrell allowed only one hit in three innings after Buzhardt and O'Dell had engaged in a pitching duel with home runs producing the only scoring. O'Dell allowed seven hits, Buzhardt six.

Orlando Cepeda got his 16th homer of the season with Willie Mays on base to give the Giants two runs in the fourth inning. Herrera had hit his 10th in the second for the Phils' first run and pinch batter Jim Coker hit his fourth in the eighth to tie it up.

Willie Mays, who has been on a batting rampage, drilled a single through the middle in the eighth inning to extend his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games.

Silver Spoon Triumphs In Vanity 'Cap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—C. V. Whitney's Silver Spoon, carrying a heavy burden of 130 pounds, won the $38,450 Vanity Handicap over five rival mares and fillies at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Silver Spoon carried 130 pounds to win the Santa Margarita Handicap at the same distance at Santa Anita last winter. But this was the first time a mare or a filly had won a race with this weight at Hollywood Park.

Tritoma, owned by Mrs. Connie M. Eing, made a game effort to overhaul Silver Spoon in the last furlong but could not make it.

Silver Spoon paid $3.40 $2.60 and $2.20. Tritoma returned $3.40 and $2.20 and Conejoo Ranch's Honeys Gem $2.20.

Johnson Betters World Record

Grambling Star Runs 200 In 20.5

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Don Bragg of Penns Grove, N. J., and the U. S. Army, brought the 1960 Olympic tryouts to a brilliant climax Saturday by smashing the world record for the pole vault with a superlative effort of 15 feet 9¼ inches.

The recognized mark is 15-8¼ by Bob Gutowski, set here in 1957. Gutowski himself fell by the wayside in the steady climb to the stratosphere and failed to make the U. S. team.

Bragg's great vault matched in superlative achievement the record 7-3¾ high jump of John Thomas of Boston University Friday.

A third world record, but of a qualified nature, was set by Ray Norton who emerged as the only double winner of the meet and the head man of the American sprint contingent that will go to Rome for the Games starting Aug. 25. Norton did :20.5 for the 200 meters around one curve, one tenth of a second under the standard. Dave Sime holds the straightaway record of :20.0.

Stone Johnson, of Grambling La. College who finished second to Norton in the finals, also did :20.5 in his heat. Norton Friday won the 100-meter dash.

Ron Morris, formerly of Southern California, took second place in the pole vault with 15-5¼, and Dave Clark of North Texas State took third and a place on the team by making fewer misses before clearing 15-3 than did Henry Wadsworth of Florida.

Weather conditions were perfect for the crowd of 65,000 with only a slight breeze and the temperature 76. Friday's crowd of 43,000 added to Saturday's made this a record-breaking tryout financially as well as artistically, with more than $200,000 going into the coffers of the U. S. Olympic Committee.

Bragg couldn't contain himself after his world record-breaking leap that was carefully measured both before and after. He made it on his first try and never touched the bar. He quickly found Terry Fiore, his pretty blonde girl friend and slung her over his shoulders, running around in circles.

This will be a mighty team that the United States will send to Rome. Thirteen tryout records were set and one tied in 17 events.

Other victors in a day of frequest sensations were Tom Murphy, Brooklyn, 800 meters, 1:46.7; Lee Calhoun, Gary, Ind., the defending Olympic champion, 110-meter hurdles, :13.4; Rhk Babka, formerly Southern California, discus, 192-3½; George Young, U.S. Army formerly of Arizona, 3,000-meter steeplechase, 8:30.6, and Jack Yerman, California, :46.3 for 400 meters.

As usual there were heartbreaks.

Bobby Morrow, formerly of Abilene Christian, who won both the 100 and 200 meters at the last Games, finished fourth in the 200-meter finals here and failed to make the team. He did not compete in the 100. The first three in each event are automatically named to the squad.

Fortune Gordien, ex-Minnesota, and one time world record holder, fell by the wayside in the discus, and Greg Bell of Indiana, who won the broad jump at Melbourne, also failed to make the team. On the other hand, Sime, formerly of Duke, holder of numerous world sprint records who failed to make the last team because of injuries, qualified this time with a tie for third in the 100 meters.

Norton and Morrow came off the curve in the 200 shoulder to shoulder, but Norton forged into the lead and Johnson of Grambling College took over second with :20.8, three-tenths of a second slower than his record-tying heat time. Les Carney formerly of Ohio University took the third place on the team with :20.9.

In the 400 meters, Yerman took the lead on the final straightaway and breeze home ahead of Earl Young of Abilene Christian who did :46.5. Otis Davis, formerly of Oregon, was third in :46.7, and Ted Woods of Colorado was fourth also in :46.7. All four will run on the relay, and the first three in the open 400 meters at Rome.

Ernie Cunliffe of Stanford set the early pace in the 800 meters and half way through the final lap pulled out to a 15-yard lead, but Murphy and Jerry Siebert of California overhauled him at the head of the stretch and fought it out to the tape. Siebert was timed in 1:46.8. James Dupree of New Mexico came up fast to catch Cunliffe at the tape.

Young of the U. S. Army, from Silver City, N.M., won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:30.6 in a brilliant last lap fight with Phil Coleman of Chicago, who had set the pace most of the way. Coleman did 8:31 and Deacon Jones, formerly of Iowa, did 8:32.5

Burleson was next to last after the first lap of the 1,500 meters, but at the end of the second he sprinted into the lead with his teammate, George Larson of Oregon, at his side. At the third lap, it became even more an Oregon affair as Jim Grelle took over third. In the final turn, Burleson led with Ed Moran, formerly of Penn State, moving up fast, but in the stretch drive it was Burleson, Grelle, and Peter Close of Manchester, Conn., in that order. Grelle's time was :47.4 and Close did 3:49.0.

The discus went to Babka, might Southern California weight man, with a mark only 4 feet and a fraction short of the world record of 196-6½ held by Edmund Piatowski of Poland. Al Oerter, defending Olympic champion, formerly of Kansas, was second with 188-3 and Dick Cochran of Missouri took the third spot with 181-11.

Ira Davis of Philadelphia, who has surprised with his proficiency this year in the hop, step and jump, won his specialty with an excellent mark of 53-1¼. Herman Stokes of the Los Angeles Striders was second in 51-11 and Bill Sharp of Philadelphia third with 51-9¾.

DYES BEATEN

STANFORD, Calif. (Special) — Jerry Dyes of Northeast Louisiana Track Club was eliminated in the preliminary hop - step - jump competition of the Olympic trials here yesterday.

Scotland Noses Our Mystic 2nd

STANTON, Del. (AP)—William M. Ingram's Scotland nosed out C. Mahlon Kline's Mystic 2nd Saturday and won the $23,250 Diamond State Handicap at Delaware Park.

Robert Stofberg's Navy Brass was third in the field of eight traveling a mile and a sixteenth. Navy Brass was 2½ lengths back, with Shoestring Stable's Ashlar, the early pacemaker and favorite less than a length out of the money.

Scotland, carrying 117 pounds including Nick Shuk, was clocked at 1:43 1-5. Mystic 2nd and Ada L. Rice's Rare Rice were co-top-weights under 119 pounds.

Scoring his first success in five outings this year, Scotland paid $14.80, $6.60 and $4.60. Mystic 2nd returned $4.40 and $3.40, with Navy Brass $5.80 to show.

ONE-STROKE MARGIN

Souchak, Littler Grab Flint Lead

By DAVE DILES

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Mike Souchak and Gene Littler, two of golf's most spectacular players, bolted ahead Saturday in the $52,000 Flint Open as a tightly packed field reached the halfway mark.

Souchak and Littler mastered par for the second straight day and totalled 139, 5-under-par for the 36 holes. They led Texans Don January of Dallas, and Fred Hawkins of El Paso by one stroke. January had a 69. Hawkins, seldon a winner, but often in the running, shot a second straight 70.

Strong play out of the sand traps and a delicate touch on the greens shot Souchak into a share of the lead. The massive ex-football player from Duke stroked in a pair of long birdie putts on the front nine and then shaved a stroke off par on each of the par-5 holes coming home for a 68.

Littler, 30-year-old Californian who led the touring pros with five tournament victories last year, followed his opening 69 with a 70 over Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club's course. The stocky veteran has hit 33 of the 36 greens in regulation figures in the first two rounds.

The huge field of 150 was trimed to the low 90 and ties for Sunday's play.

Art Wall Jr., who won the 1959 event in an 18-hole playoff with Dow Finsterwald, closed with a brilliant run of birdies. The former Masters champion, getting back into peak playing condition after a knee injury, started a string of five straight birdies at the 12th hole. He scored a 32 on the backside for a 68 that left him in a six-way tie at 142 with Tommy Bolt, Johnny Pott, Jerry Barber, Dick Lundahl and Ted Kroll.

Ken Venturi, Julius Boros and Doug Ford ranked third, fourth and fifth in earnings on the 1960 tour. But each was running into considerable trouble. Venturi had a 75-73, Boros 75-76, and Ford 75-72.

BIRDS LOSE GROUND

Sox Rally In 4th, Nip Orioles, 8-7

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox exploded seven straight hits Saturday night for a seven-run fourth inning and an 8-7 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The defeat before 23,367 dropped the second-place Orioles two games behind the American League-leading New York Yankees, who beat the Detroit Tigers 7-6 in an afternoon game.

Luis Aparacio's triple to the left center field fence and Minnie Minoso's double to the same sector each drove in two runs in the big Chicago fourth inning.

Run-scoring singles also were racked up in that frame by Jim Landis, pinch-hitter Ted Kluszewski and Nellie Fox.

The eruption wiped out a 4-0 Oriole lead built on Gene Stephens' three-run homer in the second and Gene Woodling's run-producing single in the first.

Chicago had picked up its first run on a walk, Joe Ginsberg's single and Landis' double in the second inning.

Rookie Chuck Estrada, who was the first of four Oriole pitchers and surrendered seven runs, was tagged with his fourth loss against eight victories.

Chicago Manager Al Lopez used six pitchers, with starter Early Wynn being lifted after two innings and his immediate successor, Dick Donovan, receiving credit for his third victory in four decisions. Donovan pitched only one inning, the scoreless third.

Baltimore climbed back into the game with two runs in the seventh, scoring one on Brooks Robinson's bases-loaded doubleplay grounder and Jack Brandt's base hit to left.

The seventh Oriole run came in the eighth, when Bob Boyd led off with a pinch triple and scored on Marv Breeding's infield out. Frank Baumann held the Birds runless the rest of the way.

Monroe Swamps Sterlington, 13-1

Monroe mauled Sterlington's fumbling Cats, 13-1, behind the three - hit pitching of Fred Southerland last night here and crawled out of last place in the La-Ark League.

In July 4th action today, Monroe will play West Monroe at Confederate Park and league - leading Ruston plays at Sterlington. Bastrop and Dubach, scheduled to play today at Dubach, postponed their contest until Tuesday night.

Last night's result not only gave Monroe fifth place by a half game over Bastrop but cost the losers a chance to tie for second place with West Monroe.

The Sports collected only eight hits but got nine walks and seven errors from the visitors to win in a walk in a game that staggered on for three hours and five minutes.

Southpaw ace Southerland struck out 14 batters in winning his third game of the season against a loss. He walked only three and allowed a runner as far as third in only one frame, the sixth when the Cats scored.

Levy Redden started for Sterlington and pitched creditably although touched for five runs in five innings. The Sports got eight tallies off his three successors in the wild sixth inning.

Manager Vivian Pettit led Monroe's hitting with 2-3 and two RBI. Bob Betz also went 2-3 and drove home on tally. Redden got two of Sterlington's three hits and Bobby Maye drove in the lone Cat run with a sacrifice fly.

The game was enlivened by several differences of opinion between plate umpire Fred Lindsay and Sterlington catcher Ike Dumas, who dons a blue

TWO-OUT RALLY

Yanks Explode For 3 Runs In Ninth, Beat Tigers, 7-6

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees beat the Fourth of July gun by 48 hours Saturday, exploding for five hits and three runs after two were out in the ninth inning to shock the Detroit Tigers 7-6.

Tom Morgan, a former Yankee and the fifth Tiger pitcher, was the loser in the 3-hour and 43-minute game. It was the third longest nine inning game in major league history. The Yankees and Red Sox required 3:52 on May 25, 1953, a time equalled June 12 this year by the Milwaukee Braves and Giants at San Francisco.

When Gil McDougald tripled, Morgan came in to pitch for Detroit. Bobby Richardson's single scored McDougald with the tying run. Then Art Ditmar, a good hitting pitcher, pinch hit for Johnny James and sliced the first pitch down the right field line for a ground rule double. Manager Casey Stengel had run out of pinch-hitters.

Joe DeMaestri, who came to New York with Maris in the trade with Kansas City, then got his first hit of the season, a single through the left side that won the game. DeMaestri had been at bat only twice this year. He had come in as a pinch runner in the eighth.

The Tigers matched New York's 13 hits, Rocky Colavito coming out of a slump with four hits, including a double. Frank Bolling got three singles for the visitors.

Detroit chased starter Whitey Ford in the third inning, but the Yankees sent Frank Lary, who started for the Tigers, to the showers in the eighth.

POST HOMERS TWICE

Redlegs Romp Past Cubs, 13-8

CHICAGO (AP) — Wally Post's second of two homers accounted for three of Cincinnati's six runs in the eighth as the Reds rolled to a 13-8 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Swinging a bat as hot as the weather, Post's homers, plus two doubles and a single, gave him a total of eight hits in his past 16 times at bat bridging the last six games as he platoons in left field with Jerry Lynch.

Although starter Dick Drott, kayoed in the fourth, drew his fifth straight loss without victory, Mark Freeman was the victim of Cincinnati's belated spurt to assure starter Bob Purkey's eighth victory among 11 decisions.

Altogether the Cubs used six of the nine pitchers as the two-team total of 21 safeties included six doubles, two triples, and three homers. Ernie Banks kept ahead in the NL homer derby by blasting his 23rd.

Both Post and Banks batted in four runs apiece as the Reds made it two straight victories over the Chicagoans.

The teams split six runs and as many hits during the 29-minute first inning. Cincinnatis first two runs were the result of Vada Pinson and Lynch sandwiching triples around Gus Bell's single. After Harry Anderson walked, Ed Baile stroked a sacrifice fly to score Lynch.

The Cubs matched this when Richie Ashburn drew a leadoff walk, and scored on Banks' high fly double to the foot of the left field foul line. Ed Bouchee's single nudged Banks across. The Chicago rally remained alive when Elio Chacon fumbled Roy McMillan's toss trying for the force of Bouchee at second on Frank Thomas' tap. Rookie Ron Santo's single scored Bouchee.

Cincinnati broke the tie with two runs in the third without a hit, and the Reds made it 6-3 in the fourth, knocking out Drott.

The Cubs pushed over a fourth run in the home half when Banks' second double scored Bob Will, who walked. Banks homer, a blast into the left field seats, gave Chicago its fifth and sixth runs in the seventh.

Relief Ace Wins Monthly NL Honor

CINCINNATI (AP)—Lindy McDaniel, the St. Louis Cardinals' ace relief pitcher, Saturday was named as the National League's player-of-the-month for June.

He barely nosed out the Chicago Cubs' Ernie Banks and the San Francisco Giants' Willie Mays for the honor.

National League headquarters said the 40 baseball writers and broadcasters who make up the selection committee cast nine votes for McDaniel while Banks and Mays each received eight votes.

During July, McDaniel appeared in 13 games and had an earned run average of 0.75 for 24 1-3 innings of work. He gave up 12 hits, struck out 16 and walked 4.

He was credited with one victory during the month but had nine saves in the Cards' 15 victories.

Alternates To Be Taken To Oregon Camp

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The U. S. Olympic Committee decided Saturday to take all fourth-place finishers in the track and field tryouts to Eugene, Ore., as alternates.

The full team will assemble at Eugene July 25. A nation can enter only three men in each Olympic event. The first three finishers, by U. S. rules, are automatically named to the team.

However, in case of illness or injury, an alternate may be chosen to the team before it leaves for Rome if a regular team member is dropped.

The alternates:
200 meters—Bobby Morrow, Abilene, Tex.
400 meters and 1,600 relay—Vic Hall, California Poly and Dave Roberson, U.S. Army, tied.
800 meters—Jim Dupree, New Mexico.
1,500 meters—Ed Moran, New York.
5,000 meters—Paul Whiteley, Emporia, Kan.
3,000 meter steeplechse—Tom Oakley, Little Rock, Ark.
110-meter hurdles — Chuck Cobb, U.S. Navy.
400-meter hurdles—Eddie Southern, U.S. Air Force.
High jump—Errol Williams, San Jose State.
Broad jump—Greg Bell, Fort Wayne, Ind.
Javelin—John Fromm, Seattle.
Hammer throw—Bill McWilliams, U.S. Army.
Shot put—Bill Nieder, Kansas.
Discus—Jay Silvester, U.S. Army.
Hop-step-jump—Al Andrews, Southern California Striders.
Pole vault, Henry Wadsworth, Florida.

Orioles Acquire Bobby Thompson

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles announced Saturday the acquisition of outfielder Bobby Thomson, recently released by the Boston Red Sox.

Thomson, best remembered for his dramatic home run for the New York Giants in the 1951 National League pennant playoffs against the Brooklyn Dodgers, is expected to join the Orioles within the next few days, General Manager Lee MacPhail said.

A right-handed hitter, Thomson compiled a .271 batting average from 1946-1959 with the Giants, Milwaukee Braves and Chicago Cubs. For the Red Sox this season he hit .263 and had five home runs and 20 runs batted in while batting 114 times in 39 games.

4TH STRAIGHT WIN

Hot-Hitting Musial Bats Cardinals Past Braves, 7-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hot-hitting veteran Stan Musial led a 13-hit St. Louis Cardinal assault against old nemesis Warren Spahn as the Redbirds made it three straight over Milwaukee, 7-1 Saturday night behind Bob Gibson's six-hitter.

Musial, on an 11-for-19 streak over a five-game span, batted in two runs and scored three. His sizzling two-run double in the fifth was the clincher, making it 4-1.

Gibson gave just one hit over the last four innings. He fanned seven, walked two—both in the first inning—and seemed to get stronger as the game wore on.

The Redbirds now have beaten Spahn two out of three decisions this season, taking the last two. They clipped the 39-year-old left-hander in Milwaukee June 19 and Musial's pinch double started things then.

The defeat left the Braves 4½ games behind league-leading Pittsburgh and kept the Redbirds in fourth place, a game over .500 now with four straight victories in a 4-1 home stand.

Singles by Musial, Daryl Spencer and Hal Smith in the second gave Gibson an early 1-0 edge. But Bill Bruton's single and Johnny Logan's double in the third tied it 1-1. Musial led off the fourth with a walk and eventually scored on an infield out by Gibson.

Curt Flood's single and a walk to Ken Boyer set the stage for Musial's two-run double in the slot. Bill White then singled home Musial to make it 3-1.

White—usually impotent against left-handers—slugged a triple in the seventh after Ken Boyer's single. It gave the left-handed batting White 3-for-4 against Spahn. Joe Cunningham, another lefty, had two hits. Smith's second hit scored White with the final run in the seventh.

Missouri Valley Delays Action

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Faculty representatives and athletic directors of the Missouri Valley Conference ended their annual two-day summer meeting Saturday without taking action on expansion.

The league is looking for a replacement for Houston University which withdrew from the circuit.

Three representatives of the University of Louisville met with the joint committee. The Kentucky school has made no formal application for membership.

KRAFT PAPER TOURNEY

Meyer, Kennon Tie For Medalist

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Dickie Meyer and Charles Kennon, a pair of Baton Rouge belters, clipped three strokes off par to deadlock for medalist honors here Saturday as the 26th annual Kraft Paper Golf Tournament opened action.

Meyer, a 19-year-old youngster, and Kennon, son of former Governor Robert F. Kennon registered 69s on the 36-36—72 par, 6,300 - yard Morehouse Country Club course while five other players bettered par and two others equalled the standard.

The first round of the three - day 54 - hole tourney gets under way today. Eighteen holes are scheduled in the championship flight under medal play rules, with the first flight slated to hold 18 holes and the other flights nine holes under match rules.

Veteran Bill Jones and young Clayton Cole, both of Monroe toured the course with 70s yesterday while Roe Cagnolatti of Tallulah, Van Lee Jr. of Bastrop and Chip Lyman of Baton Rouge carded 71s. Tied at even par were Gene Adams of West Monroe, Jim Wiliams of Vicksburg, Miss., and Larry Tilley of Monroe.

A team headed by Oran Whittington of Shreveport captured top honors in the day's pro - am event with a 12 - under - par 60. Teaming with Whittington were Jones, Mitchell Lum of Mobile, Ala., Williams and Jack Lark.

Second place went to Milo Mattinson of Hamburg, Ark., whose team turned in a 62. The quintet included Billy Rawls of Crossett, Tommy Clarkston of Crossett, Joe Schendle of Bastrop and Kennon. Three teams, led by Billy Brown of West Monroe, Jimmy Green of Tallulah and James Aulds of West Monroe, finished in a three - way tie for third with 63s.

Williams Stops Pirates On 4-Hitter As Dodgers Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Stan Williams stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates on only four hits Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the National League leaders 6-1.

The big right-hander survived a shaky start and then went on to hurl eight shutout innings, striking out six and walking none in posting his seventh victory against two losses.

After that, Williams was practically untouchable giving up a harmless single in the third frame and a two-base hit in the seventh. Until Smoky Burgess socked the double, Williams had retired 12 Buc batters in a row. Then he came on to knock down the last seven men in the order. He ended the game by fanning power hitter Stuart.

Wally Moon was the batting hero for the Dodgers with three singles and a booming triple deep to center field, accounting for two runs in a big eighth inning in which the Dodgers exploded for three runs.

In the earlier frames, the Dodgers had climbed all over Pittsburgh Starter Tom Cheney who made his first appearance in a Pirate uniform since being recalled from Columbus last week.

The Dodgers Cheney in the fourth inning with two runs on a base-on-balls, Maury Wills' infield single, a sacrifice and Moon's single. They scored ther first tally in the third on back to back singles by Jim Gilliam and Moon and a double play ball.

TRIBE WINS, 12-2

Grant Continues Hex Over Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland's Jim (Mudcat) Grant had a 13-0 record against Washington going into Saturday's game, so the Senators tried bad luck charms and a pre-game snake dance to break the jinx.

Result: Cleveland 12, Washington 2.

And to rub it in, Grant knocked in three runs personally with a bases-loaded single and a sacrifice fly as he posted his 14th victory over the Senators in his three-year American League career.

Four thousand rabbit's feet and "Beat Mudcat" lapel buttons were passed out to the fans as a Boy Scout group tried to dispel Grant's hex in rites around the pitcher's box. But it was Washington which seemed to go into a trance.

Washington infielders made two errors in the first two innings. Then, in the third and again in the fifth, Washington players collided going after pop flies.

The second time, when second baseman Billy Gardner plowed into right-fielder Faye Throneberry on a Texas Leaguer by Hank Foiles, the ball dropped for a hit and Throneberry left the game. Four stitches were taken to close spike wounds in his right ankle.

Grant, a right-hander, blanked the Senators until two were out in the ninth when Julio Becquer hit a two-run homer. Grant now is 6-2.

Camilo Pascual, troubled by a sore arm for the past month, made his first start since June 17 and was chased in the fifth. The Tribe raked him and two successors for 12 hits, tagging Pascual with his fifth loss against seven victories. Every Indian chipped in with at least one hit and Bubba Phillips hit a homer.

Washington's worst defeat of the season disappointed an unusually large Saturday afternoon crowd of 11,331.

MARIS TOP VOTE-GETTER

Yankees, Braves Put Four Starters On All-Star Teams

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Hansen, Baltimore's 22-year-old rookie shortstop, will start for the American League in the All-Star Baseball Games at Kansas City on July 11 and at New York on July 13.

The clutch-hitting Nebraska native, who played last year with Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, was chosen for the position by the league's 237 eligible voters in a poll announced Saturday by Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

Four members of the league-leading New York Yankees, two players from the tailend Boston Red Sox and one from the 1959 pennant-winning Chicago White Sox complete the American League's best. The NL starters are four Milwaukee players, two from first place Pittsburgh, and one each from Chicago and San Francisco.

The four Yankees who will be Hansen's teammates in the 28th and 29th dream games are catcher Yogi Berra, first baseman Bill Skowron, center fielder Mickey Mantle and right fielder Roger Maris. The Boston players are second baseman Pete Runnels and third baseman Frank Malzone. Minnie Minoso, White Sox left fielder, completes the lineup.

The Milwaukee Braves in the National League's starting lineup are catcher Del Crandall, first baseman Joe Adcock, third baseman Eddie Mathews and right fielder Hank Aaron. Second baseman Bill Mazeroski and left fielder Bob Skinner are the two Pittsburgh Pirates, along with Ernie Banks, Chicago shortstop, and center fielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants.

All players, coaches and managers in the two league's were polled within the last 10 days but were not permitted to vote for a man on their own club. Maris, with 29 Yankees ineligible to vote for him, was the league's top vote getter with 198 out of a possible 208.

Mays was the best in the National League, where 234 votes were cast. He got 193 of a possible 205 with 29 Giants forced to abstain.

Hansen, with 47 runs batted in on a .255 batting average, drew a surprising 165 votes to unseat Luis Aparicio of Chicago, the AL's shortstop the past two years. Hansen's margin over Aparicio was 124 votes.

Each of the starters must play the first three innings of each of the games unless sidelined by injuries. Frick's office also announced the runners-up for each position who do not automatically become members of the All-Star teams. Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox, who will mastermind the American Leaguers, will name 22 additional players including his pitching staff on Wednesday.

Absent from the 16 players named in the National League results is Stan Musial, the great outfielder-first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals. Musial has been on every All-Star team since 1943.

The first All-Star Game was played in 1933 and except for the war year of 1945 has been held annually ever since. Two games were played last summer for the first time. The National League team won at Pittsburgh, 5-4, and the Americans triumphed at Los Angeles, 5-3. The AL leads in victories, 16-11.

A percentage of the gate receipt and radio-television money goes to the players' pension fund and the second game was added last year when the pension payments were increased.

Both 1960 games will be radio broadcast and televised nationally by NBC. The Kansas City game will start at 2 p.m. EST, and the New York game at noon, EST.

NEW YORK (AP)—Starting lineups, with batting averages and votes for All-Stars Baseball Games at Kansas City on July 11 and New York on July 13 as determined by poll of major league players:

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Del Crandall, Milwaukee (.222) (105) c

Maria, Bueno, Wins Singles At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Maria Bueno of Brazil captured her second straight women's singles title and a fuzz-faced pair of giant-killers from America's Pacific Coast won the men's doubles Saturday in a rousing climax to Wimbledon's dedicated tennis fortnight.

Miss Bueno, a Latin sliver of fire and ice, turned from uncertain bumbler to methodical killer in scoring an 8-6- 6-0 victory over Sandra Reynolds, the student-teacher from South Africa.

But, from the American standpoint, the thrill of this last day of the 83 - year - old championships came when Dennis Ralston, a 17 - year - old Bakersfield, Calif., schoolboy and his 21-year-old Mexican partner, Rafael Osuna, capped off their unbelievable march through the men's doubles division. They crushed England's Davis Cup team, Mike Davies and Bobby Wilson, 7-5, 6-3, 10-8.

Then they seemed to jell. Expected every moment to get their come-uppance, they slashed their way past the Davis Cup teams of Italy and Sweden. Then they whipped Australia's fine tandem, Rod Laver and Bob Mark, to get into the final.

Ralston has just finished high school and is heading for UCLA. Osuna attends the University of Southern California and is a protege of former Davis Cup Captain Perry Jones, who sponsored Alex Olmedo, last year's Wimbledon king.

Tag Match Heads Card Monday Night

The Rivera - Morrow combination with a firm respect for the rule book, figure to have their hands full with their wily opponents. Jiminez and Omar have a healthy respect for winning — even though it may sometimes deviate from the book.

However, both Morrow and Rivera usually have a breaking point and can mix it up with a few fists when the occassion calls for it.

The semifinal match will send Ken Cooper against Prince Nero, another badman with no qualms about using illegal tactics. Both the main event and the semifinal have one - hour time limits with two falls needed to win.

Sarazen Given Course Freedom

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, (AP)—Golfers Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N.Y., and Jock Hutchison of Chicago, former British Open champions, were awarded the Freedom of the Old Course Saturday—meaning that they may play as often and as long as they wish without payment of the 66-cent a day greens fee at St. Andrews.

All former champions were given the award at a reception Saturday. The 1960 British Open will be played over the course starting Monday.

Daley Posts 11th Win As A's Rout Sox

BOSTON (AP)—Andy Carey's slugging helped southpaw Bud Daley to his 11th victory, 10-6 over Boston Saturday, as Kansas City battered its way out of a seven-game losing streak.

Yankee castoff Carey, accounting for five runs, was the central figure in the Athletics' twin four-run innings. The muscular third baseman slammed a three-run homer into the left field screen in the first and contributed a run-producing single in the third.

Batting a meager .234, Carey lined loser Frank Sullivan's 0-1 pitch into the nets to put Kansas City ahead 4-0 at the outset. Hank Bauer had hit a sacrifice fly to start the traffic rolling across home plate.

When Boston cut the gap to 8-6 in the last of the eighth, Carey brought home Norm Siebern with a sacrifice fly after the latter had tripled, to make it 9-6.

Daley needed relief from Marty Kutyna in the eighth when Red Sox slugger Ted Williams hitcd a two-run double to center field. Pinch hitter Vic Wertz added a single good for another tally but Kutyna retired the final four men in order.

Athletics Recall Lou Klimchock

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics announced Saturday the recall of Lou Klimchock, second baseman, from Dallas-Fort Worth of the American Assn.

Klimchock is expected to join the A's in Boston Sunday or in Cleveland Monday. Klimchock batted .278 in 17 games with Kansas City at the end of last season and has .277 for 64 games this year.

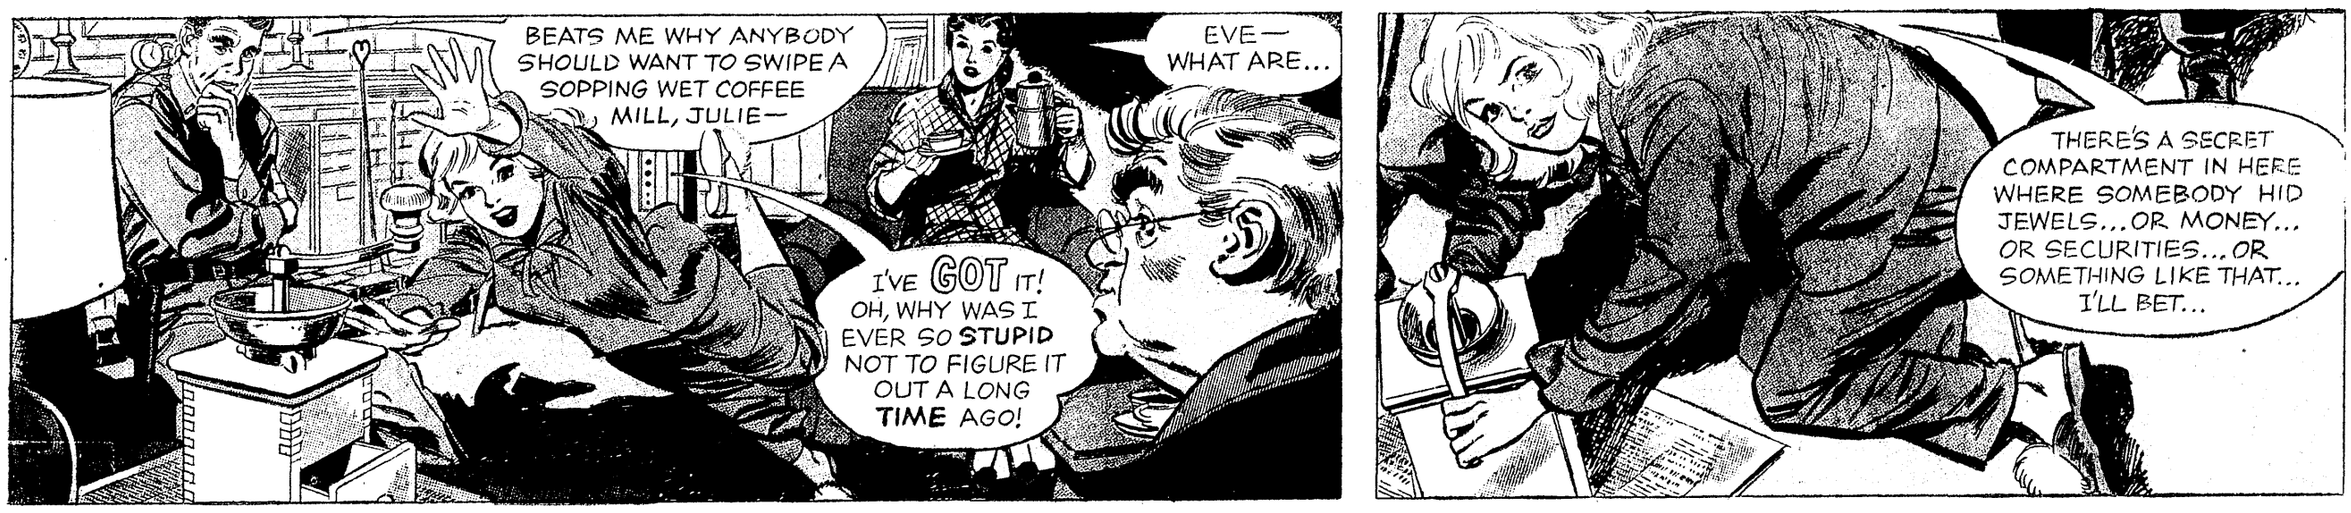
The Heart of JULIET JONES

by STAN drake



BEATS ME WHY ANYBODY SHOULD WANT TO SWIPE A SOPPING WET COFFEE MILL, JULIE—EVE—WHAT ARE...
I'VE GOT IT! OH, WHY WAS I EVER SO STUPID NOT TO FIGURE IT OUT A LONG TIME AGO!
THERE'S A SECRET COMPARTMENT IN HERE WHERE SOMEBODY HID JEWELS...OR MONEY... OR SECURITIES...OR SOMETHING LIKE THAT... I'LL BET...
I—I THINK I'VE FOUND IT...IT'S OPENING UP...I KNEW IT...I FELT IT IN MY BONES!!

WHAT YOU HIDING, SWEENEY?
WELL, I-UH-- OH, I DABBLE AT PAINTING NOW AND THEN.
KINDA WILD. WHAT IS IT?
I CALL IT "UNIVERSE IN UPHEAVAL".
SAY, THAT'S PRETTY GOOD WANTA SELL IT?
EH? YOU'D BUY ONE OF MY PAINTINGS? I'M FLATTERED, JUNIUS. I'LL GIVE IT TO YOU.
LATER:
WE HEARD ABOUT YOUR PICTURE PAINTIN', MR. SWEENEY.
WE'D FEEL RIGHT PROUD IF YOU WAS TO GIVE US ONE, TOO.
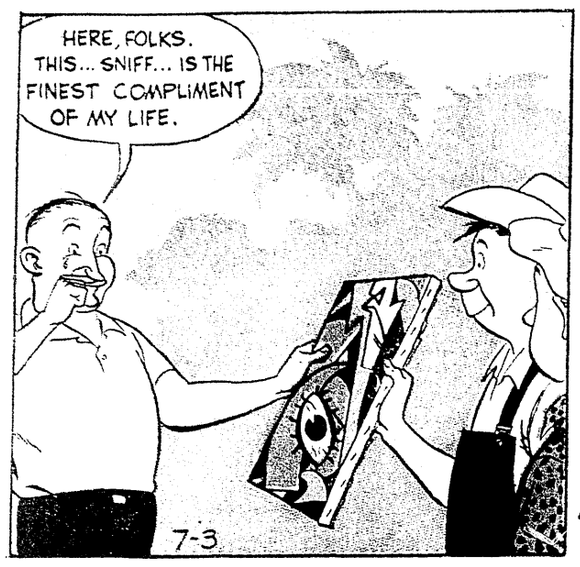
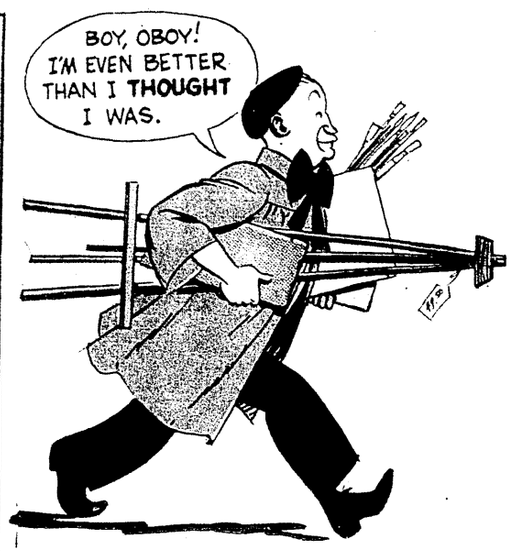
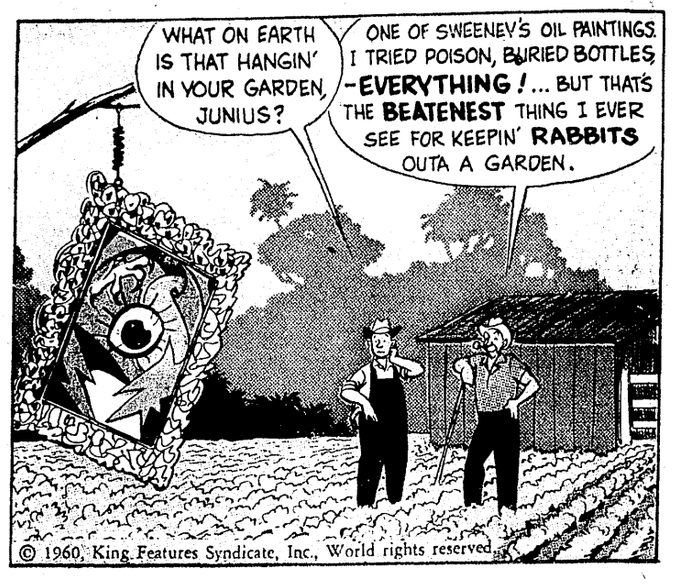
MORE ART LOVERS....WELL, DANG MY DINGIES!







WHAT ON EARTH IS THAT HANGIN' IN YOUR GARDEN, JUNIUS?
ONE OF SWEENEY'S OIL PAINTINGS. I TRIED POISON, BURIED BOTTLES, -EVERYTHING!... BUT THAT'S THE BEATENEST THING I EVER SEE FOR KEEPIN' RABBITS OUTA A GARDEN.

HOLLY HALL CAME HERE FROM HER SCHOOL IN SWITZERLAND ON A DELUXE FLIGHT...

PAID CASH FOR A SMART CAR—AND NOW ACTS LIKE A DOPE!—AND DR. VALD CLAIMS TO BE A FRIEND OF HER FAMILY'S! HMM...

I'M HUNGRY! —THAT PLACE BEHIND HOLLY'S HOTEL IS STILL OPEN---

HMM...AMBULANCE AT THE SIDE DOOR —TOUGH TO GET SICK IN A STRANGE TOW--

HEY!

THAT'S HOLLY HALL THEY'RE CARRYING OUT...

BUT IF THOSE CREEPS ARE AMBULANCE MEN—THEN I HOPE I STAY WELL...

TOO LATE TO TRY TO STOP THEM...

...BUT I ALWAYS WANTED TO BE A BRAKEMAN!

LONG WAY OUT OF TOWN...THEY'RE SLOWING DOWN

THEY WANTED THE COPS TO FIND HER HERE—WITH HER PURSE BESIDE HER...

SO THE BAG MUST CONTAIN SOMETHING RATHER IMPORTANT...

THE USUAL FEMALE CLUTTER...

...AND A PIECE OF PAPER WHICH COULD START A WAR...

Hi and Lois

by MORT WALKER and DIK BROWNE

IT'S NICE TO HAVE AN EVENING OUT BY OURSELVES.

OH, YUM-YUM, THESE BEANS ARE SO GOOD! UMM!

YOU DON'T HAVE TO TALK LIKE THAT! THE CHILDREN AREN'T HERE.

GEE, I HOPE NO ONE HEARD ME.

IT SURE SEEMS QUIET!

SHHH! YOU'RE SHOUTING LIKE YOU DO AT HOME.

WHY ARE YOU HOLDING YOUR CIGARETTE LIKE THAT?

IT'S FUNNY, THE LITTLE HABITS YOU FORM WHEN YOU HAVE CHILDREN.

YEAH, LIKE THE WAY YOU'RE GUARDING YOUR COFFEE CUP.

I FIND THAT I'VE LEARNED TO DRAG MY FEET TO KEEP FROM STEPPING ON PLASTIC TOYS.

YOUR BACK STILL GIVING YOU TROUBLE?
IT MUST BE A CHARLEY HORSE, DAISY. THERE'S A LOT OF ROUGH AND TUMBLE IN THIS PLAY!
OOOH — THAT FEELS WONDERFUL! WHERE DID YOU LEARN THAT?
OH, I HAD A DAILY MASSAGE DURING MY OWN DAYS ON THE STAGE. OF COURSE, I WAS ONLY A FOLLIES GIRL...
... IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE NOW, BUT AT ONE TIME THIS VERY FACE AND FIGURE HAD THE STAGE DOOR JOHNNIES LINED UP TWO DEEP AROUND THE BLOCK...
WHAT HAPPENED?
WELL, WHEN YOUR LOOKS GIVE OUT IT'S A GOOD IDEA IF YOU CAN ACT. I NEVER GOT THE IDEA SO I WOUND UP IN THE DUSTBIN.
WHAT'S THIS LIST?
I'M HAVING MIKE O'HARE AND TOMMY REGIO FOR DINNER. COULD YOU ORDER THE FOOD ON THAT LIST AND HAVE THEM CHARGE IT?
O'HARE YOUR PRODUCER?
YES — HE'LL BE SURPRISED TO SEE YOU HERE!
YEAH. I'LL BET!
